LABOR LOSER IN RADICAL RULE, BORAH WARNS

Calls Peonage and Hunger Its Result.

Pocatello, Idaho, Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Labor has nothing but hunger and peonage to gain from the destruction of democratic government and substitution of regimentation in the United States, Senator William E. Borah warned hearers today at a Labor day celebration arranged by the Pocatello Central Labor union.

SENATOR WILLIAM E. BORAH

As an example of what laboring men may expect from the critics of American democracy, if they have their way, he pointed to the status of labor under the totalitarian and burocratic states which have supplanted constitutional governments in Europe — "robbed of its rights, its freedom of action and forced down to the level of economic slavery."

"It is a matter of some significance and must be a matter of some concern to labor," said Senator Borah, "that consideration of labor problems too often gives rise to a discussion of communism and other revolutionary schemes and the extent to which they may be winning recognition in American life.

Labor Patriotic and Sane.

"It seems to be often assumed that labor is coming to be infected with these un-American demoralizing forces. It has never seemed to me that we need be greatly disturbed about labor in this country going communistic. Labor is both patriotic and sane.

"But it does seem that labor ought to make it increasingly clear that our labor problems are American problems and are to be worked out and soundly adjusted upon American principles and in harmony with American institutions.

"No one need doubt that if we did not have a constitution guaranteeing a free press, free speech, free assemblage and all those rights and privileges which distinguish and dignify American citizens and American labor, labor would be among the first to demand such a constitution and such guarantees.

Blames Labor's Enemies.

"No one need doubt either that the assaults sometimes made upon our institutions by persons assuming to speak for labor, as illustrated in recent strike areas, do not in fact represent the views or plans or purposes of the great and overwhelming majority of American labor—that those who take advantage of these unsettled times and our country's distress to inveigh against our institutions and seek to build up opinion against the efficiency and worth of free government are not the friends but the malign enemies of labor.

"No one knows better than labor that in all these schemes of absolute government, of arbitrary power, such as Fascism, Nazism, or communism, the soul of labor has been tortured, murdered; and that only enslaved, brute force remains—that back of all arbitrary governments are hunger and peonage for the average man and woman—that behind every Hitler coveting power and promising freer days stands a Thyssen with his monopolistic schemes forging shackles for the toiler.

Labor Always the Victim.

"There is no exception to the rule, and never has been, and, if we are to judge the future by the past, never will be, that when constitutional government has been destroyed and liberty has been denied or forfeited, labor becomes the victim of ambition on one hand and the prey of greed on the other.

"A great debate is now going on in which labor must feel a deep interest. The debate arises out of the supposed conflict between economic security and personal liberty. It is contended by some that security involves the giving up of liberty. It is said in reply that liberty is more to be desired than security and, therefore, we must waive security and hold fast to liberty. If this fatal conflict between liberty and security really exists, it is a serious matter.

"Fortunately, a little reflection will convince us no such decision is necessary. It is a false and misleading issue raised and presented for ulterior motives. It is not a question of surrendering liberty and attaining security. The question is: Shall we surrender liberty and lose security?

"The siren song of security at the

Arbitrary Changes in Washington Hit.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—The Retail Coal Code authority, ruling body under the Blue Eagle for the nation's 80,000 retail coal dealers, resigned in a body tonight in bitter protest against NRA handling of the code.

The seven members of the code authority, one of the most vital in the NRA, handed in a joint resignation to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA chieftain. They are: Roderick Stephens, New York, chairman; Milton E. Robinson Jr., Chicago, vice chairman; Clarence V. Beck, St. Louis; William A. Clark, Boston; Charles M. Farrar, Raleigh, N. C.; Edward B. Jacobs, Reading, Pa., and John McLachlan, Pullman, Ill.

The NRA's claim that it can revise any code at any time without giving notice to the industry involved is the cause for their action the code authority members explained in their letter.

Call Code Futile Thing.

"As now emasculated by the NRA, the code is a futile and unworkable thing, while as originally agreed upon it represented a constructive basis for improvement of conditions in this industry," the members told Gen. Johnson.

In a public statement accompanying their letter of resignation the authority reveals that the NRA's failure to prosecute coal code chiselers and its failure to back up the code authority in its attempts to stop destructive price cutting are at the root of the dispute.

"What we have left is a skeleton," the code authority members said in the public statement referring to the NRA's emasculation of the coal code by arbitrary rulings. "In our opinion it never would have been accepted by the industry. We would not have accepted the responsibility for trying to administer it, and we will not accept that responsibility now."

Body Blow at NRA.

Resignation of the code authority in a block does not take the retail fuel business out from under the code, but it strikes a body blow at the NRA's much coveted control of one of the nation's basic industries.

The code authority's letter to Gen. Johnson was one long denunciation of the NRA and its method of working. The letter read in part:

"The last hope for effective results under the code has just been destroyed by the announcement that the provisions of this code may be modified at will by NRA without prior notice to or consent of the industry.

"It is our view that the code and the act provide a specific and orderly method of modification, and the administrator may not on his own initiative arbitrarily impose amendments.

"Government of Men."

"If the fundamentals of a code are to change with changes of viewpoint and changes of personnel who utterly lack understanding of the problems of the industry, then this truly is a government of men and not a government of law.

"Vacillating policies, constant delays in obtaining decisions vital to administration, and disregard of clear understandings originally entered into with this industry at the time the code was approved make it evident that there is no hope for effective administration or enforcement. To continue to attempt to function under these conditions is impossible.

"The national code authority and divisional code authorities have uniformly accepted their responsibilities in sincerity and good faith. They have attempted to function in spite of constant obstacles and disappointments.

Failure Natural Result.

"Constantly increasing inability of divisional code authorities to obtain voluntary compliance from members of the industry is the natural result of the lack of a fixed policy and purpose on the part of NRA. Chiselers have wilfully violated this code and efforts to obtain redress at law have, with few exceptions, not received prompt or aggressive support from the various agencies of the government.

"To tie the hands of law-abiding and self-respecting persons who recognize their obligations under this code, while others are permitted to violate its provisions with impunity, is an intolerable situation."

AN OLD BEAVER FAR FROM HOME COMMITS SUICIDE

Safford, Ariz., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Life in a new beaver colony in the Graham mountains here continued its usual busy routine today, but the patriarch of the tribe is dead. Witnesses to his passing called it suicide.

Beavers captured in the White mountains, far to the north, were brought to the Graham mountains, where it was hoped they would build dams and improve fishing conditions.

The furred engineers soon adjusted themselves to their new environment—all but the old one, which apparently could not forget the cool streams of his native mountains.

A group of Safford sportsmen said they caught sight of the old beaver in a canyon, slowly clambering up a cliff.

Up and up he labored, at last halting on a small out-jutting ledge 50 feet above the canyon floor. While the watchers stood amazed, the old one moved out to the edge, gazed slowly about him—then leaped into space.

WED 50 YEARS; GIVE A RECIPE FOR HAPPINESS

John C. Bremner, 71 years old, a farmer of Orland Park, and his wife, Mary, 71 years old, yesterday celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in the residence where they set up housekeeping 50 years ago.

Mrs. Bremner explained as their seven children gathered for the occasion that their recipe for a happy married life was to follow the rule: "When one talks, the other should remain silent." Mr. Bremner had nothing to say.

The Bremners were married in St. James' church, Sag Bridge. Yesterday a jubilee nuptial high mass was said for them by the Rev. William Gorey, pastor of St. Michael's church in Orland Park.

Their children, who attended a family party in the home last night, are Robert and John, of Orland Park; Sister Mary Yvonna of St. Francis Xavier's convent, St. Louis; Mrs. Marguerite McMechan, Chicago, and Anna, Mary, and Viola of the home address.

Burglars Loot Janitor's Home of Mortgage Money

James Davidson, a janitor in the First National bank building, lost $1,000 in currency and jewelry valued at $100 early yesterday to burglars who broke into his home at 7118 South Talman avenue. The money was taken from a trunk. Davidson told police he had been saving the money to make the last payment on a mortgage on his home.

Sixteen hours after he and a companion had terrorized the staf of the North Avenue hospital into caring for another member of their gang, mortally wounded in a restaurant robbery, Harry L. Walder, 19 years old, 4811 North Ashland avenue, was shot to death last night in a police trap at 2152 Cleveland avenue.

Since Walder's escape six months ago from the state reformatory for boys at St. Charles, Capt. Thomas Duffy of the Sheffield avenue station had sought the youth as the leader of a gang of vicious young hoodlums, responsible, he believed, for more than seventy robberies on the north and northwest side.

Conclusion of Expedition.

Emil Klembell, 33 years old, a butcher, a roomer at the Cleveland avenue address, incurred a flesh wound in the right shoulder when police fired at him as he became frightened at the shooting and fled down the steps. They were under the impression he was an associate of Walder.

Early yesterday morning Howard Allen, 16 years old, 4702 North Talman avenue, with Walder and two other boy gunmen, all of whom escaped six months ago from St. Charles, held up a café at 1947 Fullerton avenue. Alex Speros, the chef, felled Allen with a shotgun. It was the quartet's eighth robbery of the night. The other two bundled him out and rushed him to the North Avenue hospital, 1625 North avenue.

There the robbers forced Dr. J. E. Verhaag, Harry Buckman, an intern, and John Hagenbuck, a clerk, to carry Allen in and to care for him. After they fled Allen was taken to the Bridewell hospital, where he died. Five holdup victims identified him.

Find Loot in Rooms.

Capt. Duffy was advised secretly in the afternoon that Walder and another fugitive had taken two rooms recently at the Cleveland avenue rooming house. Capt. Duffy investigated, with Lieut. Steve Barry and Detectives Harold Brown, John Ellis and William Higgins.

In the rooms the policemen found arms, ammunition, jewelry, and other loot. The proprietress, Mrs. Anne Brown, said the youths expected to return soon. The detectives arranged an ambush about the hall.

When Walder entered and faced Lieut. Barry he snapped a pistol at him, but neglected to flip the safety catch. Detective Brown fired a shotgun into Walder's back. He was taken to Bridewell hospital, where he died early this morning.

Admirers of Dillinger.

Two companions whom Walder left in an automobile outside when he entered the house are being sought. They were identified to Capt. Duffy by Allen's brother, Philip, as Bradfield [Skipp] Fields, 4423 Magnolia avenue, and Jesse [Bussy] Hemrick, 2467 North Clark street.

According to Capt. Duffy, the gang to which the four St. Charles fugitives belonged tried to ape the late John Dillinger. Walder, according to the captain's information, acted the rôle of "Dillinger" while Allen was "Baby Face," after George [Baby Face] Nelson. Allen, he said, was serving nine months in St. Charles on 32 charges of burglary at the time of his escape.

The ambush in the Cleveland avenue house occurred less than a half mile from the spot where federal agents ambushed and killed Dillinger.

BRITISH COMPOSER REVEALS HIS HOAX ON MUSICAL WORLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Sir Henry Wood famous British conductor and composer, for five years hoaxed the musical world as never before, it was revealed tonight.

Wood has been playing a dual musical rôle under the name of Paul Klenovsky. It appears that Wood was not pleased with the criticism which British composers and musicians usually receive, compared with the lavish praise frequently bestowed on any one with a high sounding foreign name.

In October, 1929, there was played at Queen's hall in London, Bach's organ Toccata and Fugue in D Minor, transcribed by a young man understood to have lived in Moscow. The work was a tremendous success, and people wrote to Wood imploring him to play it again and again. It was performed at many places in England and abroad. In answer to the oftenasked questions of who Paul Klenovsky was, Wood wrote on the program:

"It is a great pity that the young man died. His transcript shows the hand of a master in every bar."

Music lovers shook their heads sadly over the early death of poor Paul Klenovsky. The deception is revealed because the score is to be published. Wood declares that in the future all of his scoring will be announced as by Paul Klenovsky, although such a person never existed.

Bendix Trophy Winner Found 3 Miles Away

Army Flyers Die

Shreveport, La., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Cadet Neal Caldwell and Private Baker were killed and Private P. K. Martin was seriously burned when an army plane crashed at Danville, four miles west of Hodge, La., this afternoon.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

Cleveland, O., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Doug Davis, veteran speed pilot of Atlanta, Ga., was killed here this afternoon when his tiny racing monoplane spun into the ground three miles northwest of Cleveland airport during the flying of the Thompson trophy race, finale of the 1934 national air races.

More than 100,000 persons in the stands and in surrounding fields saw the crash. Apparently Davis made desperate efforts to save his life when the tail surfaces or control wires on his low-wing ship gave way while he was rounding a pylon on the eighth lap. The plane, traveling at more than 250 miles an hour just above the tree tops, swerved abruptly in its course, pulling into a vertical climb.

Stalls at 800 Feet.

At a height of 800 feet it stalled and whipped nose down in a spin with the motor still full on. It twirled about three times, then struck, shattering into a thousand pieces. Davis was decapitated and both his legs were torn from his body. The plane did not burn.

Davis was one of the most experienced pilots of high speed airplanes in the United States. He was a graduate of the barnstorming school of flying and was in the army air corps during the world war. In 1929, unheralded, he came to the first national air races at Cleveland, flying a Travelair mystery ship, the first of the low-wing streamlined racing airplanes, and won every race he entered against army, navy, and marine flyers.

In that year he won the first Thompson trophy race, setting a time of 194 miles an hour. He then stopped racing high speed planes until this year, when he entered the Wedell-Williams racing plane in which the late James R. Wedell set the world's landplane speed record of 304.33 miles an hour, in the Bendix trophy race. Davis won this event last Friday. Yesterday, flying the same ship, he won a fifty mile race against the fastest planes in the country.

Father of Two Children.

Davis was 33 years old. He was married and the father of two children.

At the time of the accident Davis was leading Col. Roscoe Turner and six other pilots on the eighth lap of the twelve lap 100 mile race around an eight and one-third mile quadrangular course. His average speed had been well over 250 miles an hour, one lap being clocked at 274 miles per hour.

Col. Turner, flying another Wedell-Williams racer, was only 150 feet behind Davis at the second pylon. Turner, who went on to win the race, said after he landed that Davis had probably pulled up his ship intending to bail out in his parachute. The machine plunged to the ground so quickly that Davis was unable to get out of the inclosed cockpit, Turner said.

The microphone announcer told the crowd that Davis had managed to jump from the ship near the ground and was saved. Later he announced

CLASHES HERALD CRISIS TODAY IN TEXTILE STRIKE

BULLETIN.

Paterson, N. J., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Silk union leaders tonight agreed not to call out on strike the 15,000 workers in this area until the industrial relations board of Paterson is assured 40 per cent of the looms in the country are stilled and formally authorizes a walkout.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Violent, scattered outbursts of guerilla warfare today marked the first day of the nation's giant textile strike as both employers and organized labor mobilized their forces for the real test of strength tomorrow.

Hundreds of textile mills, mainly in the south, attempted to open today in defiance of the strike order and despite the Labor day holiday. Results were spotty, giving no clew to the eventual success of the strike. Some of the mills succeeded in operating normally while those in other centers were forced by violence or a quiet walkout to shut down again.

Thousands of other plants, however, including most of those in the important New England states, remained quietly closed in observance of Labor day, thus postponing until tomorrow the fateful trial of strength between the United Textile Workers of America and the millowners.

Both Sides Claim Victory.

"Fifty per cent effective" was the claim made by Francis J. Gorman, strike leader of the United Textile Workers, on the basis of telegrams from the field. Gorman insisted, however, that this half way victory "far surpasses our most optimistic expectations." He hopes to rally an increasing percentage of textile workers to his strike banner and perhaps to bring about a strike of 150,000 more employes in related industries.

George A. Sloan, head of the Cotton Textile institute, meanwhile, was deprecating the effect of the strike in statements issued here and in New York. He claimed that 100,000 mill hands were peacefully at work in the south today, while only about 10,000 answered the strike call.

Both sides conceded that their information was still sketchy. While the nation waited tensely for developments in the biggest strike in recent history, both sides loudly claimed in advance to have won the victory.

Open strife, bloody and violent, lies ahead if outbursts today are any indication, observers admit. Skirmishes between strikers and police officers or mill guards have already occurred.

National Guardsmen were called out and mobilized in strategic centers of South Carolina where mills have been fighting a local strike for some time and are now preparing to launch attempts at reopening.

Picket Lines Tighten.

Strikebreakers were being armed by mill owners in the important Horse Creek Valley region of South Carolina, according to reports being circulated by the unions.

Picket lines are grimly tightening around many of the southern mills which reopened today and violence is considered imminent.

Hundreds of strikers from neighboring centers today drove into King's Mountain, N. C., and forced the closing of mills there. Nine hundred employés were at work when the motorcade of strikers swarmed into town, served notice on mill managers, and forced a shut down. Pickets boasted they would use the same tactics elsewhere in the region.

A woman was struck by pickets surrounding the Brookford mill at Hickory, N. C. Police forced an opening of mill gates despite the picket line, but only a few workers entered. Later the mill closed.

By having four union members arrested for trespassing, mill owners in Boaz, Ala., won the first skirmish in their strike siege for which they have prepared by mobilizing armed patrols around their plants.

Estimate 200 Mills Closed.

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 3.—(AP)—With an estimated 200 mills closed and 60,000 operatives idle in the two Carolinas the general textile strike tonight brought intense preparations by union leaders to extend their gains and steps by state and local authorities to prevent feared violence.

National Guardsmen were ordered to duty at three mills in upper South Carolina. No disorder had occurred, but local officials were apprehensive of trouble tomorrow morning when the mills plan to resume operations.

Strikers were credited with forcing the closing of about 100 mills in reports received from the textile communities of the two Carolinas, where the greater part of the southern textile industry is concentrated. The number of operatives unofficially reported at work was 75,000.

In another 100 mills, it was announced that operations were suspended on account of the Labor day holiday, heretofore ignored by southern plants, and that work would be resumed tomorrow.

The initial effectiveness of the strike was therefore expected to be demonstrated by tomorrow's developments.

Labor leaders announced the organization of "flying squadrons" aimed at closing the 220 mills reported to have worked today.

Prevent Plant Opening.

Workers in the Shelby, N. C., mills, thoroughly organized, refused to permit the opening of their plants early today, formed a motorcade which swept into Kings Mountain, a dozen miles away, and succeeded in closing eleven plants. They met with no resistance.

Similar tactics were planned against the big group of Cannon mills, which employ more than 15,000 operatives in Kannapolis, Concord, Albemarle, and other North Carolina towns. None of these went on strike today but reports tonight told of increasing pressure from pickets.

Prepare for Showdown.

Providence, R. I., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Mindful of their leader's admonition to "keep their powder dry and strike back if you're struck," 250,000 New England textile workers made final preparations tonight for the showdown that will come tomorrow morning when several hundred mills in this area attempt to open following the Labor day holiday.

"They may try to subdue us with clubs and machine guns," warned Thomas F. McMahon, national president of the United Textile Workers of America, in addresses delivered at huge Labor day rallies here and in Fall River, nearby Massachusetts textile center.

Union leaders asserted they will picket every mill that tries to defy them by opening.

Joseph Sylvia, New England director of the strike, with headquarters in Pawtucket, said the entire industry would be at a standstill throughout the area.

Leaders Predict Victory.

Labor organizers addressed huge congregations at half a dozen textile centers. They predicted victory if only the workers will hold firm. They urged preparations so that their strength would be felt to the utmost when the zero hour arrives tomorrow.

William E. G. Batty, secretary of the textile council at New Bedford, home of many large cotton mills, revealed he had been approached by representatives of the National Textile union, a communist organization, with the proposition that they join hands with the United Textile Workers.

Leaders in the textile strike have previously asserted that they want to have nothing to do with communistic forces and within the last week orders went out from New England strike headquarters at Pawtucket to forcibly eject communist agitators from union picket lines.

Tire Mills Affected.

New Bedford, Mass., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—The Goodyear, Fiske, and Firestone tire fabric mills were expected to be the center of the textile workers' drive here. Labor leaders instructed strikers to picket the 22 mills here that have indicated they would open tomorrow.

ROBT. J. DUNHAM.

Officials of the Chicago park district today expect to begin the actual consolidation of the city's 22 park districts into the single unit created by the voters in the referendum of April 10 and upheld more recently in a test case before the Illinois Supreme court.

The main provisions of the reorganization program include the consolidation of departments to supersede the 22 separate systems now functioning, including placing the 850 park policemen under one head; a single code of ordinances and rules; a unified taxing system, and a plan for completing construction of the outer drive bridge over the mouth of the Chicago river.

The financial reorganization plans are nearly complete, but it is not expected that they can immediately be put in force in entirety as the existing debts of the old park systems must be paid from taxes received from the old districts.

Two plans have been devised for consolidating the police forces. One calls for the division of the areas coverad by the park police into three districts and the other for four police districts. Decisions on the details of the consolidation plans will be made today on the return from California of Robert J. Dunham, president of the park district.

STREET CAR MEN ALLOT MONEY TO PUSH BUS STRIKE

Officials Claim Power to Call New Walkout.

About 1,500 members of the surface lines division of the Amalgamated union, meeting last night in Car Men's hall at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium, voted financial support to the division of the union which is now on strike against the Chicago Motor Coach company.

Resolutions adopted by the car men instructed their officers to levy 50 cents a member to be placed at once in the war chest of the striking bus drivers, and empowered them to make additional similar levies whenever they believed this necessary to aid the strikers.

Further, the officers were instructed to "take such other measures as in their judgment may be necessary to insure the success of the efforts of Division 1022 [the bus drivers] to obtain their legal rights."

Claim Strike Call Power.

Although the union officers would not comment on how far this last grant of power extended, it was understood that they regarded it as sufficient to enabl them to call a sympathy walkout of the street car workers.

Speakers at the meeting were insistent that the bus union's strike be carried to a successful conclusion. A few even declared themselves in favor of walking out immediately. Others declared th: Chicago police were unduly active in pushing them around when they went out to act as pickets against the bus company.

This last element was quieted by Ralph Stolsman, head of the Motor Coach division of the union, who announced that Mayor Kelly had assured him pickets would be allowed to appear on the boulevards as well as around the garages of the bus company.

Elevated Union Silent.

So far the division of the union composed of elevated road workers has held no meeting at which the bus strike was considered. It was claimed, however, that this division was also firmly in favor of supporting the union busmen.

The surface lines men have no quarrel with their own employers. Terms for a new wage contract have been agreed on, although not signed. The elevated workers now are carrying on negotiations for a new scale.

Marked by frequent violence, mostly in the form of stoning the buses, the strike has been in effect for nineteen days. The coach company which lost its Blue Eagle on order of the government, is operating on its usual schedule with drivers who are members of the Motor Coach fraternity, a company union.

Walter F. Hautop, 42 years old, 3821 Catalpa avenue, who said he was a driver for the company, was arrested by Motorcycle Policeman James McNamara and Joseph Crysinski at Thorndale avenue and Sheridan road last night. He was carrying a pistol and said he had been sent out by the company to look for pickets.

Officials of the company refused to discuss the incident and Hautop was locked up at the Summerdale station.

AUSTIN VOTERS FILE PETITION TODAY FOR VOTE ON LIQUOR SALE

Petitions signed by voters in 74 precincts of the 30th, 36th, and 37th wards asking that the question, "Shall the sale of alcoholic liquors be permitted?" be placed on the November election ballots will be filed in the city clerk's office at 11 o'clock this morning. Austin, which was dry in pre-prohibition days, is the district involved.

According to William R. Henriksen, treasurer of the Austin Civic council, from 12,000 to 15,000 voters signed the petition—a total well in excess of the necessary 25 per cent of registered voters in each precinct.

"People originally moved to Austin to raise their families in an atmosphere free of saloons," Mr. Henriksen said. "We thought that inasmuch as the district was dry before prohibition it would be dry after the 18th amendment was repealed. We understand there are now 240 saloons in Austin."

CUT IRON BRIDGE TO GET OUT AUTO VICTIM'S BODY

Car Hits Lincoln Avenue Abutment and Burns.

Firemen were obliged to cut away iron trestle work of the Lincoln avenue bridge over the drainage canal to extricate the body of William P. Leonard, 32 years old, 2839 North Menard avenue, who was burned to death early yesterday when his automobile crashed into the bridge abutment and caught fire.

Leonard was returning home from the Illinois Country club in Glenview, where he had attended a farewell dinner for an official of the W. F. Hall Printing company, 4600 Diversey avenue, his place of employment. Thomas Leonard, the victim's brother, identified the body. Leonard is survived by his wife, Mildred, and a 2 year old daughter, Dorothy.

Elderly Man Fatally Hurt.

An unidentified man, 55 years old, was fatally injured in Diversey avenue near Kolmar avenue early yesterday when he stepped before a car driven by Paul Linder, 24 years old, 3631 North Artesian avenue, an assistant secretary for the Loyal Order of Moose lodge. The victim died of a fractured skull a few minutes after his arrival in the Belmont hospital.

The body of a woman who was killed last Sunday night when she was struck by an automobile at Ogden and Western avenues was identified last night at the county morgue as that of Mrs. Anna Conroy, 69 years old, 2110 West 18th place. The driver of the car was Charles Prexler, 2701 Highland avenue, Berwyn.

Body Identified by Son.

Identification was made by Mrs. Conroy's son, James J. Conroy, who went to the police to report she was missing when he returned after a holiday trip out of town. Mrs. Conroy was on her way to a wake when the accident occurred.

Albert Beck, 45 years old, 7308 South Wood street, a pressman, was found dead early today in Wentworth avenue, near 44th street. Apparently he had been struck and killed by an automobile, the driver of which failed to stop after the accident.

The deaths yesterday brought the Cook county motor toll since Jan. 1 to 809.

Peter Duprierro, 65 years old, 1914 Hudson avenue, was critically injured last night when he was struck in front of 1405 Ogden avenue by a car whose driver failed to stop.

9 Hurt in 3 Crashes.

Four persons were injured late last night in a collision of two automobiles at U. S. highway 6 and state highway 130, near Hobart, Ind. David Jacobsen, 35 years old, 5565 West Adams street; his wife, 34 years old, and their 10 year old son, David Jr., and Mrs. W. W. James, 330 Central avenue, Highland Park. At the Mercy hospital in Gary the condition of Jacobsen and his son was described as critical. Mrs. Jacobsen and the husband of the injured Mrs. James were the drivers of the cars.

Charles Padalino, 20 years old, 294 West 23d place, was arrested last night several hours after a car he was driving crashed into another at 31st street and Wentworth avenue. Five persons were hurt in the crash. They are Chester Bargielski, 20 years old; his brother John, 32 years old; John Trahl, 32 years old, and Miss Annie Menke, 22 years old, all of St. Louis, and Mrs. Mary Lushnis, 26 years old, 945 West 31st place. Padalino deserted the wrecked car and fled, according to the police. They also said he had taken the car without permission from a parking lot at which he is employed.

6 Negroes Killed, 20 Hurt as School Bus Hits Truck

Whitestone, Va., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Six Negroes were killed and twenty injured, three critically, when a Lancaster county school bus they had chartered for a Labor day outing crashed head-on with a produce truck at Palmer's Swamp, route 3, near Farnham, as they were returning here tonight.

CHILD FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Violet Ganacinski, 14 years old, 5618 South Oakley avenue, was found dead in bed yesterday, supposedly the victim of a heart attack. Her father, Joseph, said she had complained of illness before she went to bed Sunday.

Palatine Boy on Bicycle Killed by C. & N. W. Train

John Colburn, 14 years old, of Palatine, was fatally injured last night when, riding a bicycle across the tracks of the Chicago and North Western railroad at Brockway street in Palatine, he was struck by a Chicago bound passenger train. He died a few hours later in the Palatine Community hospital.

Search Fails for Body of Girl Suicide in River

Search failed yesterday for the body of Miss Miriam Mills, 20 years old, 4328 Gladys avenue, who leaped to her death Sunday night from the State street bridge because of an unhappy love affair. The current evidently had moved the body. A purse and a hat left on the bridge were identified by George Mills as the property of his daughter.

CUBA SWEPT BY RIOTS; MARTIAL LAW DECLARED

19 Wounded in Havana; Cabinet Quits.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Sept. 3. — Climaxing a tense day featured by the sudden resignation of the cabinet and street riots, President Carlos Mendieta tonight declared martial law throughout Cuba. Labor troubles and the killing of three National university students here early Saturday are the causes of the disorders.

Maj. Arturo Diaz Calderon, Havana's military governor, issued a decree prohibiting groups of more than three persons on the streets and in public places between 6 p. m. and sunrise. Streets have been ordered cleared of trafic and pedestrians after 8 p. m.

Disorders are general throughout the island. At Santiago, Cuba's second largest city, soldiers tonight patroled the streets after riots and the explosion of several bombs.

Soldiers Take Their Posts.

In Havana one soldier was assigned to patrol each city block. Roofs of all buildings over three stories were manned by troops. Searchlights blazing from Cabanas fortress and Morro castle illuminated the city as soldiers raided homes and buildings in search of guns and ammunition. The guard at the presidential palace was doubled and sand bag barricades were erected at all entrances. The roof is bristling with machine guns.

La Fuersa castle and La Punta castle, the latter the navy's headquarters, are ready to meet any emergency. Cannon are trained on the city, especially the avenue leading to the American embassy and the presidential palace. The fortresses are completely surrounded by high sandbag barricades.

The shooting in Havana lasted all day. Six soldiers and thirteen civilians were wounded. Residents of the capital were terror stricken as bullets ricocheted through the streets.

Attack Government Property.

A strike by government employés was accompanied by wild shooting and attacks on government property by students, communists, and political oppositionists. Employés of the departments of agriculture, public works, public education, treasury, sanitation, and labor walked out this morning.

Employés in provincial and municipal offices throughout Cuba also went on a strike. Strike leaders announced that the movement would continue indefinitly, or until President Mendieta and Col. Fulgencio Batista, army chief of the staf, have resigned and United States Ambassador Jefferson Caffery has left Cuba.

Public school teachers, too, joined the strike movement late in the day. University and high school students attacked street cars and cut trolley wires. They displayed red flags, stoned the city hall and destroyed furniture in government department offices.

Phone Company Attacked.

Communists stormed the $3,000,000 building of the American-owned Cuban Telephone company. They wrecked the main lobby and disconnected 600 telephones. Male employés of the company returned the firing of the attacking Reds. Bullets splattered against the building and soldiers were summoned.

Before the troops arrived a tropical storm broke out. The attackers ceased firing and ran for shelter.

Today's strike was called to bolster protests against the government's failure to punish Maj. Powell and four soldiers who had custody of the university students when they were killed.

Students charge the trio were killed by soldiers. The government said the students were slain when friends attempted to deliver them from custody.

President Accepts Resignation.

The entire cabinet offered its resignation when President Mendieta bitterly reprimanded them for tolerating the invasion of their departments by the hordes of students and revolutionaries who, armed with machine guns, forced employés to strike, while the secretaries remained impassive.

The president temporarily accepted the resignation, declaring he would reach a final decision early tomorrow.

"I never dreamed my cabinet was made up of cowardly persons," the president is reported to have said. "I no longer trust them."

It was persistently reported tonight that a revolutionary junta has demanded Mendieta's resignation. Dr. Mario Montoro was suggested as a possible substitute.

"We want to avoid a repetition of the coup d'état performed by the top sergeants against Carlos Manuel de Cespedes a year ago tomorrow," said a statement alleged to have been issued by the junta.

QUIZ TOMORROW INTO KILLING OF RUSS COLUMBO

Singer Shot by Old Gun in Accident.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Pending an inquest into his accidental death last night, the body of Russ Columbo, radio singer and motion picture star, lay today in the county morgue. The inquiry has been set for Wednesday.

Thousands of Columbo fans, however, will hear the voice stilled by a bullet from an antique pistol he had examined, when his first starring picture is released soon. "Wake Up and Dream," the film featuring him singing "Too Beautiful" was previewed only last Friday night.

The singer was shot in the home of Lansing V. Brown Jr., Hollywood photographer, when the two were examining a brace of old English pistols.

Brown told the police that he and Columbo were sitting across a big mahogany desk from each other, each with one of the pistols in his hand.

He was idly snapping the trigger of the one he held, he said, when he absently placed a match over the nipple of the old pistol and snapped the trigger. The spark from the exploding match ignited the powder in the chamber and the soft lead ball ricocheted from the top of the desk into Columbo's left eye.

The singer was rushed to the Good Samaritan hospital where it was planned to operate. But X-ray pictures showed the bullet had traveled through the brain, lodged in the back of the head and fractured the skull. Before the delicate surgery could be started the singer had died.

ROB LINGERIE STORE.

Miss Augustine Andre, 46 East Oak street, reported to Chicago avenue police yesterday that burglars had broken the rear door of her lingerie shop at 1014 Rush street and had taken $664 in merchandise.

Wedding on Saturday

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Miss Rose Lawton Morrison, niece of Mrs. J. Hamilton Lewis, wife of the senator from Illinois, tonight announced her engagement to Hiram Bingham Jr., son of the former senator from Connecticut. Young Bingham has been serving as secretary to the American embassy in London.

Miss Morrison and Bingham will be married next Saturday in Grace Episcopal church at Waycross, Ga., after a few days at the home of the former Senator and Mrs. Bingham in Connecticut. The couple will sail for London on Sept. 13.

Miss Morrison and Bingham met in London on June 19, just before she was presented at the British court. She returned from Europe little more than two weeks ago.

Cardinal Mundelein departed yesterday from Chicago to attend ceremonies in Rome in connection with his 25th anniversary as a bishop. He left for New York on the Twentieth Century from the La Salle street station, where a crowd of people, including Bishops Bernard J. Sheil and William D. O'Brien, gathered to bid him farewell.

He will be accompanied to Rome by the Rev. George Casey, assistant chancellor of the archdiocese, and the Rev. Patrick Hayes, assistant pastor of Holy Name cathedral.

Cardinal Mundelein will sail on the steamer Ile de France on Friday and will return to New York Oct. 9 on the liner Rex.

Special ceremonies to be held in Rome in honor of the cardinal's anniversary will be attended by Pope Pius.

DIES; APPARENTLY POISONED.

Mrs. Ida Nehring, 57 years old, 1832 South 61st court, Cicero, died yesterday in the county hospital apparently of poisoning. Mrs. Nehring was found wandering dazed through Douglas park.

HOOVER WRITES ARTICLE HITTING NEW DEAL PLAN

Declares People Facing Issue of Liberty.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Policies of Roosevelt's New Deal are assailed by former President Herbert Hoover in an article in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post. In his first public statement on political matters since he left the White House, Mr. Hoover declares American citizens are faced with "the issue of human liberty."

HERBERT HOOVER.

The former President in a copyrighted article, released in part for newspaper publication, selected for his title, "The Challenge to Liberty." He decries economic "regimentation," declaring that this program "is the very theory that man is but the pawn of the state." "It is a vast casualty to liberty if it shall be continued," he writes.

Traces Fight for Freedom.

"In every generation men and women of many nations have died that the human spirit might be free," the story says. "In our race, at Plymouth Rock, at Lexington, at Valley Forge, at Yorktown, at New Orleans, at every step of the western frontier, at Appomattox, at San Juan Hill, in the Argonne are the graves of Americans who died for this purpose.

"From these sacrifices and in the consummation of these liberties there grew a great philosophy of society—liberalism. The high tenet of this philosophy is that liberty is an endowment from the Creator to every individual man and woman.

Say Liberty Has Failed.

"It is now claimed by large and vocal groups, both in and out of government, that liberty has failed; that emergency encroachments upon its principles should be made permanent. Thereby are created the most urgent issues: First, whether we must submit to some other system by which the fundamentals of liberty are sacrificed; and, second, whether, even if we make these sacrifices, we shall not defeat the hope and progress of humanity.

"It is my hope to show that to resume the path of liberty is not to go backward; it is to return to the path of progress from following the will-o'-the-wisps which lead either to the swamps of primitive greed or to political tyranny.

"The origins, character, and affinities of the regimentation theory of economics and government, its impacts upon true American liberalism, and its departures from it can best be determined by an examination of the actions taken and the measures adopted in the United States during recent months.

Centralization of Power.

"The first step of economic regimentation is a vast centralization of power in the executive. Powers once delegated are bound to be used, for one step drives to another.

"The whole thesis behind this program is the very theory that man is but the pawn of the state. It is a usurpation of the primary liberties of man by government. It is a vast shift from the American concept of human rights, which even the government may not infringe, to those social philosophies where men are wholly subjective to the state. It is a vast casualty to liberty if it shall be continued."

3 DILLINGER PLOTTERS PLAN GUILTY PLEAS; PIQUETT WILL FIGHT

United States District Attorney Dwight H. Green said yesterday that he expected three of the seven persons arrested last week on charges of harboring John Dillinger would plead guilty when arraigned. Evidence against the seven will be presented to a federal grand jury which convenes today. If indictments are returned today or tomorrow Mr. Green probably will have the defendants arraigned Friday.

Dr. William Loeser and Dr. Harold Cassidy, who have admitted lifting Dillinger's face to disguise him, and Arthur W. O'Leary, alleged go-between for the criminal and the physicians, are the trio expected to plead guilty. O'Leary's employer, Attorney Louis Piquett, has indicated that he will fight the charges. The other defendants are William Finerty, his wife Ella, and Marie Conforti, who was the sweetheart of Homer Van Meter, Dillinger aid slain recently in St. Paul.

Attorney Piquett, who was counsel for Dillinger before the desperado fled from the Crown Point, Ind., jail in March, has not furnished bonds of $50,000 and is in the county jail.

Cranberry Pickers Strike in 41 Bogs of Massachusetts

Carver, Mass., Sept. 3.—(AP)—A general strike affecting 1,500 cranberry pickers became effective here today. The strike, affecting 41 cranberry bogs in this region, includes the towns of Carver, Marion, Tremont, Wareham, Rochester, and Middleboro. The rate of pay is 50 cents an hour with 75 cents demanded; better working conditions and collective bargaining are asked. Roads throughout the countryside were picketed.

Snow Covers Continental Divide West of Denver

Denver, Colo., Sept. 3.—(AP)—The Continental divide, west of Denver, Colo., was covered with snow today from a storm that was general throughout the central portion of the state yesterday.

CODE EXECUTIVE OPENLY ATTACKS PRESS FREEDOM

Makes Plea for Silencing of Criticism.

Speaking before Elgin coal dealers, Nathaniel H. Kendall, secretary of the hard fuel code authority for this district, recently voiced what observers interpreted as one of the most direct attacks on the freedom of the press yet to be made by NRA officials.

According to the current issue of the Fox Valley Herald, a weekly newspaper published in Elgin, Kendall, in the course of a vehement defense of Gen. Hugh Johnson and the NRA, made the following remark:

"I wish to God there could be some way devised to keep people from reading THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE."

He Suggests No Method.

Kendall, in his speech, did not suggest any method—legislative or otherwise—by which newspaper criticisms of the policies of the NRA could be censored or suppressed. He was reluctant to discuss his reported remark when, reached at his home in Elmhurst, he was asked to amplify his ideas.

"I don't remember exactly what I did say about THE TRIBUNE," he said. "I don't care to discuss that."

His speech was made at a dinner in the Elgin Country club a week ago. Elgin coal dealers and their guests had gathered at the club for their annual outing.

A Talk for Code Funds.

Kendall's talk apparently was to impress the coal men with the idea that money was necessary to carry on his NRA code control work successfully.

It was recalled yesterday that Kendall came into public notice in 1921 when, as secretary of the Chicago Retail Coal bureau, he was indicted by a state grand jury with seven others here on a charge of conspiracy to interfere with public trade by fixing prices. The state's attorney's office charged that a "coal trust" controled fuel prices during the winter of 1920.

The case dragged until Feb. 6, 1923, when Judge Joseph B. David quashed the indictments because of insufficient evidence.

Rain Causes Postponement of G.O.P. Rally Until Sunday

Persistent showers forced a postponement yesterday of the Republican rally at Riverview park until next Sunday afternoon. The speakers and candidates were on hand with a fair sized crowd waiting and occasionally seeking shelter, but threatening skies led to a conference which resulted in putting off the affair.

LABOR DAY FAIR CROWDS SECOND BIGGEST OF YEAR

BY EARL MULLIN.

Soaring attendance that amazed World's Fair officials made yesterday the second largest day of the 1934 Century of Progress Exposition. Under murky skies that frequently drenched the grounds with rain, Labor day crowds swarmed in from gate opening time until late last night.

By special train, bus, automobile, and on foot these thousands had poured into Chicago over a two day period and in a hilarious, holiday mood they defied the showers to to see for probably the last time the world's greatest Exposition.

Threatens All-Time Mark.

The constantly changing figures on the electric tabulator in the administration building climbed past 185,222—second highest attendance this season—late in the afternoon. For a time the 1934 all-time record of 214,119 seemed threatened, but with nightfall the inflow of visitors slackened and the day's total wavered near the 200,000 mark. At midnight 198,394 had entered.

Many thousands reached the Fair riding in the rain atop open deck buses, holding slickers about them or huddling under umbrellas tilted precariously against the stiff lake winds.

But all through the day they came, packing exhibit halls, concessions, and restaurants. Cultural exhibits on the grounds recorded one of their biggest days.

When forecasts of clear weather brought only lowering skies and rain, Fair officials hastily revised their estimates of half a million visitors for the two days and prepared to see only a fraction of that number. But in the face of some of the most dismal weather of the entire season the Labor day week-end brought in approximately 550,000 from Saturday morning to Monday night. This exceeds the total for any other consecutive three day period since the opening of the 1934 Fair.

Miss Outside Beauty.

"This amazing attendance shows clearly that the Fair offers attractions of so much value that rain or other distracting features will not prevent people from attending," said Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager. "My only regret is that visitors were prevented from seeing the Fair at its best. Many of the outside beauties were lost to them on account of the rain."

The throngs that poured out into the avenues and midways between showers were gay and colorful. Red, white, and blue slickers dispensed by overworked hawkers added gay splotches here and there, but no one looked bedraggled.

Giant buses, jammed to the guards, crawled through the grounds all day.

And that patronage was not confined to the grounds. A survey revealed that the great majority of the visitors were from out of town and, counting visitors who did not go to the Fair on account of the rain, more than 200,000 persons spent the week-end in Chicago as a result of the Fair. All of these represented money spent in stores, hotels, restaurants, and on transportation agencies. More clearly than on any other day the Fair yesterday conclusively proved its economic importance to Chicago.

Aside from the inconvenience caused sightseers, and that was discounted by the visitors themselves, the rain did little damage. All of the exhibit buildings are of such sturdy character that they were not harmed and the streets and avenues were kept clear of water and rubbish by Fair workmen.

10,000,000th Visitor Today.

Due to the holiday attendance jump, the ten millionth visitor will enter the grounds this morning, arriving at the end of a period of records. The last million arrived in less time than any other million during the entire Exposition.

So important is today's honor visitor considered that the president of the Fair, Rufus C. Dawes, will be on hand to do the honors. In addition to the greeting from the Fair chief, the first time such an honor has been extended a "millionth" visitor, a score of prizes will be awarded.

Included will be: ten tickets to the Fair, a camera, countless exhibitors' souvenirs, an electric clock, a scotty dog, a ride behind a team of huskies, a ham and a dozen eggs, golf balls and a floor cleaning machine.

FRANCES PERKINS UNINJURED WHEN AUTO OVERTURNS

Brunswick, Me., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, was severely shaken, but otherwise uninjured, when her automobile overturned today on the state highway near here.

Accompanied by her secretary and a chauffeur, Miss Perkins was on route from her summer place at Newcastle to Boston, where she was to make a Labor day radio address.

Three machines became entangled in the holiday jam and the driver of Miss Perkins' heavy sedan turned out into a ditch to avoid a collision. The machine overturned and was considerably damaged.

Miss Perkins and her companion went to a nearby inn to rest and later traveled to Portland by taxi.

SUSPECT BEATEN AT INQUEST ON POLICE SLAYING

Norman [Yankee] Lawrence, 19 years old, 2015 Madison street, one of the three robbers accused of slaying Motorcycle Policeman Earl M. Jensen of Oak Park Saturday, was attacked by relatives of the policeman during the inquest at 720 Lake street, Oak Park, yesterday.

The policeman's widow was on the stand when the uproar began. Armond Soulan, 39 years old, 18 South Lincoln street, one of the alleged slayers, leaned over to whisper something to Lawrence, who smiled.

Ellsworth Mitchell, Chicago traffic policeman, a brother-in-law of Jensen, sitting nearby, became enraged at Lawrence's smile. He floored Lawrence with a blow of his fist. Roy Jensen, brother of the slain policeman, joined in the fight. Mrs. Jensen fainted and the inquest room was thrown into uproar. Three policemen restored order.

Then Lieut. Harry Wilson of the Oak Park police asked a continuance to permit questioning of Ernest Dittman, 22 years old, 509 South Oakley avenue, third member of the gang, whom the others accuse as the actual killer. He was wounded by policemen after the Jensen slaying and is in serious condition at the Bridewell hospital. The inquest was continued to Sept. 14.

NEW ORLEANS IS CALM IN FACE OF LONG'S INVASION

No Signs of Rebellion at Dictatorship.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Orleans, La., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—This city is now "military district No. 1," under the rule of Senator Huey [Kingfish] Long, but it must be said that the citizens are taking the dictatorship with remarkable equanimity. It sounds much worse on paper than it really is.

MAYOR WALMSLEY.

Today Canal street, which has the brilliance of the Ginzo in Tokio or Market street in San Francisco, echoes to the sound of martial music and tramping feet, but it is only a Labor day parade. There was a big demonstration there last night, with sirens and fanfares of bugles and platoons of marching youth, but it was not any uprising against the dictator, but only a homecoming for a baseball team from a Jesuit college.

No Sign of Rebellion.

Searching the city today for some signs of rebellion or repression, one could find only the military guard at Senator Long's "pink palace" on Audubon college campus which is the registration office, center of the political war now on between the Kingfish and the mayor of New Orleans, T. Semmes Walmsley. The Louisiana senator, who is seeking control of the state with an eye to the governorship of 1936, appears much stronger of the two. He has the law and the militia on his side.

There are no signs of any marching of citizens to shed their blood against the rule, although the election of next Tuesday may see some isolated struggles around the ballot boxes between the militia and the police. It is the effort of mediators on both sides now to avoid that possibility.

"Ladies and gentlemen," said the Kingfish over the radio last evening, "You're gonna have a peaceful election and there won't be a single ring policeman at the polls on election day. They have stolen their last election and have trampled upon the people for the last time. They were pretty bold this time, even going so far as to hire gunmen to go out and kill people. They even said for them to kill me, but they aren't going to kill nobody. They are all going to get out of the city hall and that turkey head scoundrel who leads them will have to get out too."

Radio Long's Chief Weapon.

The radio is the senator's chief offensive weapon and he is using it to tell the public the details of his "investigation" in vice and gambling in New Orleans. The public and the "lying newspapers" are barred from these legislative hearings, staged in the senator's inimitable manner. They are certain to produce ammunition to blast the city administration out of office, particularly if it is taken to the Long controled legislature, as is now threatened.

New Orleans has its restricted district and its gambling and it is not a difficult matter to get a few witnesses to tell about it. Practically all the evidence so far adduced under these weird circumstances has been denied by the mayor, but that makes no difference. There is only one side to this thing. The dictator will brook no interference. This radio covered hearing is scheduled to begin again tomorrow afternoon.

City Seems Calm.

New Orleans seems extremely calm about all this. Lafayette square is the center of things. In the center of this is a statue of Henry Clay, buried in old trees and flowers. Benjamin Franklin stands on the other side of the square. The United States flag floats high over the federal building, where the blind lady of justice presides over the scene.

There are trees and tropic foliage and smell of the southern seas. The Presbyterian church, founded in 1818, looks like a Spanish cathedral and Mother's inn looks like the streets of the real Paris. But one needs no passport here. It is America after all.

Over on one corner of the square is the Choctaw club, headquarters of the regular Democratic organization. "Save your city and vote for Gleason, Racovich and Williams." This does not sound like a cry for a Boston tea party. Congressional candidates and judgeships are the issue.

The Kingfish has the conservatives against him, the Socialists against him, and the New Dealers against him. The Roosevelt administration gives him no patronage and would not consider his Democratic congressmen any victory.

Long has no issue except himself. There is some vague appeal about "sharing the wealth," which probably would come down to an increased taxation of industry if he were given permanent and complete control of the state.

He has already caused a tax of 2 per cent on the gross advertising revenue of the staid old Times-Picayune and other newspapers of the big cities. Therefore there is much rebellion there. The little up state country newspapers are not to be touched. His aim is to array up state against the state metropolis.

He was "raised with the hogs," he says, in a small north county town, Winfield, and his ally, Gov. O. K. Allen was a country storekeeper there. Now they have this big financial district at their mercy. It will last as long as Long can control votes through patronage and the spending of state money.

With an empty state treasury, a mounting debt, great relief expenditures in sight, this pie counter now seems to be slipping away. Therefore New Orleans must be added to his control.

New Orleans Made Him.

New Orleans politicians made him governor in the first place and they were bedfellows with him for many years. So they know each other and how to make the fur fly in a state without libel laws.

One of the most recent desertions from the Long camps is that of State Senator W. Scott Heywood of Jennings, for four years a supporter of the Long-Allen administration. He issued a statement analyzing the senator's claims and promises and said that if Senator Long or his candidate for governor in 1936 is not defeated "we might as well discard our constitution and do away with the legislature and admit that we have a Hitler and all become Senator Long's servants."

Senator Long is said to be planning a trip up north, through the drouth section, with a sound wagon, as soon as this little primary election is out of the way and and the mayor is tossed out of the city hall. His paper, the American Progress, is being widely distributed in the northwest now.

EVANGELIST OUT ON BOND IN KIDNAPING HOAX AGAINST AIMEE

Goldsboro, N. C., Sept. 3.—(AP)—The Rev. R. H. Askew, 28 year old evangelist charged with attempted extortion for the hoax officers said he confessed he perpetrated last month, was free today under $5,000 bond.

Askew was jailed Aug. 20 after confessing, officers said, that he left Goldsboro voluntarily and himself wrote notes to his wife and Aimee Semple McPherson, head of the Four-Square gospel movement, demanding $25,000 ransom for his return.

The note to Mrs. McPherson also contained a threat to blow up Angelus temple. Federal agents signed the warant charging Askew with attempted extortion.

PARIS AMERICAN AND FAMILY HURT IN YACHT BLAZE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CANNES, France, Sept. 3.—Severely burned and suffering other injuries, Bertrand Coles Neidecker, prominent American banker of Paris; his wife, their two sons and a crew of four were rescued after Neidecker's 78 ton yacht, the Argus, burst into flames in Cannes harbor this morning following a sudden violent explosion. The blast occurred while the yacht was taking on gasoline.

Mrs. Neidecker, the former Sybil Kozminska, and their son, Tommy, 9 years old, suffered broken ankles as well as serious burns. Neidecker and his son, Peter, 12 years old, and three members of the crew were badly bruised and burned. The fourth member of the crew, a British sailor, sustained several broken ribs and serious internal injuries when he fell while trying to escape from the blazing interior of the ship. Rescuers braved the flames and brought him up.

As soon as port launches rescued the yacht's occupants the Argus was taken in tow to a clear section of the harbor, where it took all available fire fighters two hours to extinguish the flames. The vessel, valued at $20,000, was almost a total loss. Neidecker's presence of mind probably prevented far graver injuries to his family when he threw his children into the water, and then jumped, along with his wife and three of the crew.

'SHOULD CHRISTIANS FIGHT?' PREACHER INQUIRES; HE'S FIRED

Allegan, Mich., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—The Rev. C. J. Tervestad, pastor of the Allegan First Baptist church, preached yesterday on "Should Christians Fight?" When he finished a prominent elder of the church arose, saying: "There is an important matter to consider. That is, our minister should offer his resignation at once."

The pastor replied: "If that's the way you feel about it I am willing."

Tervestad has been pastor for a little more than two years.

SINCLAIR VISIT TO ROOSEVELT POLITICAL OMEN

May Be Augury of Party Realignment.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—With Socialist Comrade Upton Sinclair, Democratic candidate for governor of California, journeying to Hyde Park and Washington to consort and be photographed with his newly found Democratic bedfellows, the politicians hereabout are much engaged in discussion of political realignments.

There is much Republican hopefulness and some Democratic fear that President Roosevelt's annexation of the radical element of the Republican party is about to be balanced by an exodus of Democratic conservatives into the Republican fold. Many are wondering whether the radicalism of the Roosevelt administration is not operating powerfully to further the long heralded political realignment of the country into a party of conservatives and a party of radicals.

Many Rumblings from Party.

There are rumblings aplenty of developments along this line. In California the nomination of Socialist Sinclair by the Democrats has split the party of Jefferson wide open, definitly alienating conservative Democrats, at least so far as the governorship is concerned.

Fear that the Sinclair Socialistic taint would poison the founts of pure Democracy beyond the confines of California was manifest in the wariness with which Mr. Roosevelt met Sinclair's request for an interview. The President, who will receive Sinclair at Hyde Park tomorrow, quickly enunciated a rule, made for the occasion, that he would not discuss politics with any state candidate.

Although the collectivistic aspects of the New Deal are socialistic, Postmaster General Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, foresaw the danger of alienation of Democratic conservatives that would be entailed if a confessed Socialist should succeed in hitch-hiking onto the Democratic bandwagon. He moved heaven and earth to narrow the field in hope of beating Sinclair but was unsuccessful.

Other Sections Show Unrest.

California, however, is not the only part of the country in which the trend of the Democratic party to socialism has been causing unrest on the part of orthodox Jeffersonians. Last spring the Literary Digest poll disclosed a significant lack of enthusiasm for the Roosevelt policies in Democracy's erstwhile solid south, traditional stronghold of conservatism.

More recently conservative Democratic reaction against the radicalism of the New Deal has been manifested by such circumstances as the participation of Al Smith and John W. Davis in the formation of the American Liberty league and the candidacy of Col. Henry Breckinridge, assistant secretary of war in the Wilson administration, for senator from New York on an anti-New Deal platform.

To what extent these and numerous similar developments betoken definite schism in the Democratic party it is too early to tell. The November election undoubtedly will show which way the political wind is blowing.

Republicans Not Overconfident.

While the Republicans are doing their utmost to capitalize conservative disaffection in the Democratic party they are entertaining no delusions that it is going to spell Republican success in the congressional elections in November. They do not expect to wrest either house from Democratic control, though they do expect to reduce the Democratic majority enormously.

The fact is that despite conservative reaction the Democrats are in virtually an impregnable position as a result of the President's skillful capitalization of the benefits which millions of voters have received and expect to receive from the New Deal before the cost of it all comes to be felt.

There are 25 million people, one out of every five of the population, subsisting either partly or wholly on the United States treasury. The gratitude of these beneficiaries is recognized by both parties as a potent, perhaps a determining, factor in the election. And if gratitude be defined as a lively sense of favors yet to come it is likely to be a wholly irresistible factor.

Knows Value of Promises.

The President is well aware of the political value of promises of favors yet to come. Although congress will not meet till January, he is going to publish before the election his program of social legislation, two of the most important items of which are unemployment insurance and old age and sickness insurance. As indicated in a recent speech, he is going before the people in this election with a promise of achieving that millennium in which none shall fear for the morrow.

The political support of labor has been assured the Democrats by the administration ruling that relief will be accorded workers on strike, a ruling frankly referred to by one labor leader as a pledge of government financing strikes. With union treasuries relieved of the necessity of supporting strikers' families, strikes can be called more freely and more easily prolonged. A multiplication of strikes and of strikers on the relief rolls by election time would not be surprising.

The Democratic party will benefit also from the President's skillful appeal to class prejudice. He has pictured one of the objectives of the New Deal as a redistribution of wealth, a taking of property from those who have and dividing it up among those who have not.

59 WOMEN CHOSEN BY MRS. ROOSEVELT FOR WELFARE STUDY

New York, Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt today announced the names of 57 women who will be responsible for the direction of the national women's committee of the 1934 Mobilization for Human Needs, of which Mrs. Roosevelt is chairman. The announcement came from Hyde Park, where Mrs. Roosevelt is staying with the President.

Miss Jane Addams of Chicago, Mrs. August Belmont and Miss Ida M. Tarbell of New York City, Mrs. Frederic M. Paist of Wayne, Pa., and Mrs. Marcus C. Sloss of San Francisco were named vice chairmen.

Last year, under Mrs. Roosevelt's leadership, 255 communities in 40 states conducted crusades to determine the human needs of American communities and report these needs to their fellow citizens. It is hoped that even more such groups will line up with the national movement.

NEW YORK CENTRAL

PICNIC WINDS UP ROOSEVELT REST AT N. Y. ESTATE

Celebrates Labor Day with Friends in Country.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt celebrated Labor day at a picnic near the cottage, a secluded retreat on his farm near Hyde Park.

The picnic concluded a week-end of relaxation for the President, but he has a big day in store for tomorrow, when Upton Sinclair, the California Socialist who won the Democratic nomination for governor, will call at the summer White House.

The visit of Mr. Sinclair has been awaited with much interest and speculation because of the obvious embarassment his victory has caused the New Deal. The situation in which he placed the White House by inviting himself to a conference had all the dramatic qualities of ancient comedy, but the outcome of the California movement is of serious import.

Gives Sinclair Big Moment.

How far will the New Deal go toward embracing the Democratic leader in California, with his collectivist theories, and what will the regular Democrats do? These questions may not be answered after tomorrow's conference, but Mr. Sinclair will at least have an opportunity to proclaim his Socialistic schemes to the world from the sounding board of the White House.

Sinclair was granted an appointment with the President on the understanding that he should not discuss the California campaign, but that will not preclude him from talking as much as he pleases about "ending poverty in California" by putting the unemployed to work on public projects and taking them off the shoulders of the taxpayers. The New Deal has been trying that same thing but has not yet taken the unemployed off the shoulders of the taxpayers, since it is officially estimated that the relief roll will pass the twenty million mark before February.

Hopkins Guest at Picnic.

Among the guests at the President's picnic was Harry L. Hopkins, federal emergency relief administrator, who counted the effect that his plan to feed the strikers would have on the relief bill.

"You could put it in your hat," he said. "In past strikes we have had to feed very few of the strikers. If any of these leaders think that we are going to underwrite their strike they are sadly mistaken."

Mr. Hopkins made no estimate of the number who will have to be fed but he has declared that all who could prove actual want and destitution would be eligible for relief so long as the strike was not designated unjustified by the department of labor. He said today there had been no change in this policy.

Other official guests at the picnic were Rexford Guy Tugwell, head brain truster and under secretary of agriculture; Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., Oscar Chapman, assistant secretary of the interior, and George N. Peek, head of the Export-Import bank.

The President's wife and mother, Mrs. Morgenthau, and about 50 others were there. Picnic lunches prepared by Mrs. Roosevelt were served.

Borden's- MILK

IS CLEAN MILK

FOR 77 YEARS Borden has led in the campaign for development of clean milk. We welcome the cooperation of every one who is striving to maintain the Standards of Sanitation for Chicago's milk supply.

Borden never has nor never will accept inferior milk for economy's sake. We have proved that by establishing a system of farm inspection and milk testing beyond what the law requires.

ALL herds on all farms supplying Borden milk are regularly inspected by Borden's staff of graduate veterinarians. Barns, cooling rooms and equipment for milking and handling milk are kept immaculately clean. Thus the sources of Borden's milk are checked to insure wholesome milk from healthy cows.

At the Borden plants, the milk from every farm is Laboratory tested to insure that it comes up to our Standard of Cleanliness, and every step in bottling and sterilization is scientifically controlled to insure against contamination.

Such extreme care costs money and might seem unnecessary, but it is the only certain way to insure uniformly clean, safe milk for you.

You're Invited

to call at any one of the Borden plants. See the milk come in from the receiving stations—see how it is pasteurized and bottled. Watch the bacteriologist making constant microscopic tests. Note the immaculate cleanliness everywhere. You will enjoy drinking Borden's milk even more after such a visit. For appointment—call BIttersweet 8600.

WALLACE WARNS CITY MEAT AND FOOD WILL GO UP

Promises "Skyrocketing" Will Be Averted.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Henry A. Wallace, secretary of agriculture, stopped here long enough between trains yesterday to warn Chicagoans that meat prices likely will go higher this winter. He expects an upward trend in food prices generally, but that talk of sky rocketing or excessively high food prices had been exaggerated in some places, he asserted.

Secretary Wallace said he expected further increases in food prices next winter, but no greater in comparison than the increases last winter. He said the recent price increases are in line with his program to bring the farmers' income up with the factory pay roll. His goal is a 12 billion dollar annual income for farmers in the sale of their products and a 12 billion dollar factory pay roll.

Mr. Wallace does not believe that Chicago fully appreciates the close relationship of the farmers' income and the factory pay roll, which, he finds, follow each other rather closely over a long period of years.

He cited increased prosperity of the cotton farmer which he calls the "back log" of industry in the south today. This increased prosperity of the cotton farmer is credited by the secretary to the government's program that poured millions of dollars into the southern planters' pockets during the last year.

Secretary Wallace arrived shortly after noon and left within a few minutes for Washington, D. C. He was returning from Iowa, where he has been gathering first hand information to aid him in formulating the government's program to aid farmers in securing live stock feed from surplus areas this winter.

With the hay crop about one-half normal, the secretary believes it will be necessary for farmers to make greater use of corn stover this winter than they have in the past.

Secretary Wallace's visit to the middle west was also for the purpose of seeing what progress corn and other crops were making and to see how farmers feel about the 1934 corn-hog reduction program. All of this is for the purpose of getting information that will aid Washington officials in outlining their plans for next year.

FORT SHERIDAN YOUTH FREED IN FATAL SHOOTING

Richard Knoblock, 16 years old, who shot and killed William F. Ugrin, 19 years old, while they and three companions were holding target practice in the basement of Knoblock's home on the Fort Sheridan military reservation Saturday, was exonerated of blame at an inquest in Highland Park yesterday.

Ugrin, who was graduated in June from the Deerfield-Shields High school in Highland Park, died in the fort hospital a few minutes after the shooting. He was the son of Sergt. Michael Ugrin, assigned to the military band at the Fair. All of the boys are members of soldiers' families at the fort.

Ugrin, his brother, Frank, 16 years old; Lewis Kundrath, 18 years old, and Knoblock and his brother, William, 14 years old, were shooting at a target with .22 caliber rifles. Kundrath had just fired at the target and Richard Knoblock fired in his turn, unaware that Ugrin had gotten up to examine the target. The bullet struck Ugrin in the back of the head.

Maj. Brown S. McClintic testified at the inquest that Ugrin, just before he died, said he was shot accidentally.

SHARK DEVOURS JUGO-SLAV GIRL IN ADRIATIC SEA

SUSAK, Jugo-Slavia, Sept. 3.—(AP)—A giant man-eating shark weighing 3,800 pounds devoured Agnes Novak, beautiful 18-year-old blonde, while she was swimming in the Adriatic sea, local police reported today.

The shark was captured after fishermen fought it three hours, the police said. Its huge stomach, ripped open, disclosed the girl's mangled body. The big fish was sent to Zagreb for exhibition.

Jugo-Slav newspapers were ordered to suppress the story because it was thought tourists would be frightened away from Adriatic beaches.

U. S. AGENT FLIES PROPOSED MAIL ROUTE TO SIBERIA

NOME, Alaska, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Investigating the feasibility of an air mail route from the United States to Asia, via Alaska, Harllee Branch, second assistant postmaster general, was on his way to Anadyr, Siberia, today, in an airplane piloted by Joe Crosson, veteran Alaska flyer.

Accompanying Branch were Robert Thatch, vice president of Pan-American Airways; Lyman S. Peck, vice president and general manager of Pacific Alaska Airways, and Bob Gleason, radio operator.

The party left Nome yesterday afternoon to meet a group of soviet representatives of the trans-Siberian air routes at Whalen on the northern Siberian coast. From Whalen the party planned to continue to Anadyr, the eastern terminal of the Russian airways, and then return to Nome, probably tomorrow.

LABOR HEAVIEST LOSER IN RADICAL RULE, SAYS BORAH

Peonage and Hunger Are Results, He Warns.

cost of liberty has won over labor in more than one country of the old world, and the inevitable result has been the loss of both security and liberty. Any scheme for security based upon the surrender of liberty—as we Americans understand that term and as it is imbedded and preserved in our constitutional form of government—would be a betrayal of American labor and American civilization.

"Constitutional rights and liberties are the weapons by which the average man and woman are to win ultimate security, and the only weapons by which they can hold the field after the battle is won. A free people are entitled to both liberty and security. Let's keep our heads and we will get them. The hour will never be dark enough and adversity will never be deep enough to justify the American people in surrendering any part of the essentials of liberty in the name of security.

What Will Replace Democracy?

"There is another rather important and surprising pronouncement not infrequently heard of late, that in our modern economic life democracy will not work. It has broken down. We must have something else. Just what we are to have, just what is to be selected out of the wilderness of disjointed, incoherent, and discredited schemes floating to the surface to take the place of democracy is not clear.

"In all the wrecks of governments that lie behind us and in all the experiments now being tried out, it still seems difficult to select a model which is to supplant democracy. Democracy was fairly satisfactory in the period of the simple life, the free unburdened days of our fathers, but not now. That with which the fathers got along very well will not do for the children. In these days of radio and movies and monopolies, democracy will not work.

Faith Made It Work.

"How do we know it will not work? Who has tried to make democracy work in any particular crisis and found it to be a failure? Who at any time has summoned the energy, the reserve intellectual and moral forces of our democracy, and when so summoned, found democracy unwilling or incapable of effective response?

"If the men who guided this democracy during the first 100 years of its existence, and during a period when democracy was truly on trial, had had no faith in democracy, if their zeal had been enervated by a diluted brand of Fascism or communism, democracy undoubtedly would not have worked.

"But it did work and worked gloriously. In fact, it was our democracy which seemed to release the latent energies of the human race. For it is literally true that more progress was made in behalf of humanity during the first 100 years of personal liberty made possible by democratic rule than in the thousand years of the varied forms of regimentation preceding.

"It will work now and meet every problem if the same faith, the same exaltation of purpose, accompanies our efforts. The fault is not in our scheme of government, but in ourselves, if fault there be. It is our failure, our unwillingness to really utilize and employ the great and essential powers of democracy in meeting our problems. What we need is not less democracy but more."

3 DAY WORK WEEK ADVOCATED BY HEAD OF ILLINOIS LABOR

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Reuben Soderstrom, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, today said industry should be placed on a three day week in order that all might have jobs.

"We would be better off in this state," he said, "if we had all our people working half time than to have half of them working full time and the other half not working at all, as it is in many places."

Soderstrom declared he was "sick and tired of public charity and unemployment relief."

"There is one thing that ought to be wiped out of existence," he said, "not only that atrocious thing called unemployment but its twin evil, that miserable makeshift known as unemployment relief. Sustaining employment must come. It is true that many cities in Illinois have come out of the business slump, but it is also true that Kewanee, Joliet, Rockford, Ottawa, and many other cities still are regarded as thoroughly bad."

The labor federation president urged his followers to advocate revision of codes so as to provide jobs for all "and then raise the wage level to the highest point that the trafic will bear."

URSCHEL CASE FELONS ON WAY TO ALCATRAZ CELL

Leavenworth, Kan., Sept. 3.—(AP)—An armored train of six coaches, provided with machine guns, sped from this city, site of a federal prison, into the west today. There was good reason to believe that three kidnapers, George [Machine Gun] Kelly, Albert Bates, and Harvey Bailey were among the 100 passengers.

The destination of the prisoners on the secret trip was reported to be the government's island prison, Alcatraz, in San Francisco bay.

Bates, Bailey, and Kelly abducted Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma oil millionaire, last year, releasing him on payment of ransom reported to total $200,000.

ONE DEAD, NINE HURT IN WRECK.

Centreville, Miss., Sept. 3.—(AP)—One person was killed and nine or more others were injured today when a Yazoo and Mississippi Valley railroad passenger train carrying Labor day excursionists was wrecked near here.

LABOR PRAISED AND WARNED BY LA GUARDIA

Sen. Dill Urges Freedom of Press Be Preserved.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

In the spirit of homage to the working man Chicago celebrated yesterday the annual Labor day. The official observance took the form of speeches in the lounge of the Federal building at A Century of Progress.

Gathered in the Federal building or thronging about loud speakers on the grounds, while countless others listened at the radio, the listeners at the Fair heard Mayor Edward J. Kelly welcome Mayor Fiorella H. La Guardia of New York city. They heard Mayor Kelly assure organized labor that it would always have his support, and they heard Mayor La Guardia urge a "new economy, which will do away with the rugged individual and produce, if necessary, a regimentation which will be in the public interest."

Mr. and Mrs. La Guardia left by train yesterday evening for New York.

Federations Handle Program.

Other speakers were Senator Clarence C. Dill of the state of Washington, who warned that freedom of the press and the radio must be preserved, and Henry Goodard Leach, editor of Forum magazine, who asked for a nation-wide consumers' coöperative to control prices of goods.

The Chicago, Illinois, and American Federations of Labor managed the program. An American Legion band played.

The speakers were introduced by Victor Olander, head of the Illinois Federation of Labor.

Mayor La Guardia, espousing the creation of a new order in the United States, urged that this be done by proper constitutional amendments.

"We cannot continue as we are going on today," he said. "For while we are gaining considerable experience it is costly not only in money but in human suffering. We must emerge from this not only with a remedy but with a system making impossible a repetition of the depression. We must come out of this with a new economy.

The Aim of Government.

"The preservation of life is the most important function of government. By that we mean something more than temporary relief—the power to go in and bring about an economic readjustment that will bring that security and peace of mind for several generations to the American people."

"Perhaps it is not pleasant to be regimented," he stated, "but so far as labor is concerned, regimentation is no new idea. It took place a generation ago when hired labor received a factory number and gave up his name. Regimentation is a natural development of the present industrial system. It has existed for a long time."

The mayor declared that American labor's responsibility is paramount in any new economic order. He declared:

"Labor always has problems which must be solved with American employers and American capital. It is fair to speak frankly on that point, too. A strike is the last means of solution, and not the first; it is justifiable only after every resource of discussion and negotiation has been tried and has failed.

Cause Just, Kelly Says.

"The safety of great masses of people not parties to the discussion, and the functioning of government, can never be a stake in any bargaining process. Starvation is not a legitimate weapon for capital to use against labor. It is no more legitimate for labor to use it against the public."

Mayor Kelly thanked Mayor La Guardia for his talk and urged him to be present at Soldiers' field on Sept. 16 for the pageant of "Chicago on Parade."

"Labor has dearly won the privileges which it now enjoys," Mayor Kelly declared, "and it must keep them. It has won over tremendous obstacles by convicing the people of America that its cause was just."

Senator Dill said that just as freedom of the press has always been jealously guarded—"and rightly so"—freedom of the radio must also be maintained.

"The men who wrote the Constitution knew that freedom of speech and the press was necessary to liberty," the senator pointed out, "and this has become increasingly evident throughout the years. There are doubtless some people who would like to muzzle the press, but they have been unsuccessful so far and they must be kept unsuccessful.

"The press must be kept untrammeled and free; it must never degenerate into an outlet for propaganda. We have seen this degeneration occur in foreign countries and that should only strengthen our determination to ward off that evil in America.

"The radio is a newer instrument of public expression. We must go further than opposing government control and censorship of radio; we must guarantee that there will not be that control and censorship."

Mr. Leach in his address said that he came not as the editor of Forum magazine, but as "a fellow worker, a humble consumer" to plead the cause of the man who must combat the rising cost of living and commodities by coöperative action.

CITY PAROCHIAL SCHOOLS START CLASSES TODAY

Many Pupils Also to Take Up Books in Suburbs.

More than 259,000 pupils will return to rural, suburban and parochial schools in Cook and Lake counties when the fall term opens today in nearly half of the school systems of the two counties outside of Chicago. The Chicago public schools open Sept. 17.

Nearly 205,000 pupils will enter parochial schools in the Chicago area. This enrollment, according to the Rev. D. F. Cunningham, superintendent of the Catholic schools, includes an expected 170,000 in the elementary schools, 20,000 in the high schools, and 15,000 in six colleges.

Approximately 15,000 pupils will go to 100 rural and small village schools in Cook county today, said County Superintendent Otto F. Aken, and 35,000 more will enter the remaining 225 Cook county schools on Sept. 10. The entire county teaching staf will number 3,650.

Large High Schools to Open.

A number of the large township high schools in Cook county will open this morning.

J. Sterling Morton High school in Cicero expects 6,000 pupils to enroll today. The financial position of the school is described as good, since, according to Richard W. Hoffman, president of the board of education, the board saved $310,000 in operating costs last year as compared with 1932-'33.

The Proviso Township High school in Maywood opens with an expected enrollment of 3,350, an increase of 300 over last year. The Thornton Township High school at Harvey expects an enrollment of 2,100.

The Cicero elementary schools are preparing for the largest suburban opening today, with between 6,500 and 7,000 pupils expected at 14 schools. District 100 of Berwyn, serving an area south of 22d street, expects 3,000 pupils at seven schools. The six Blue Island schools look for 2,600 pupils today, a slight increase over last year. In River Forest 1,000 pupils are expected at four schools.

Openings in Lake County.

All of the Lake county elementary schools, except those in Waukegan, Lake Forest, and Highland Park, and eight high schools will open today, said William C. Petty, county superintendent of schools. The expected enrollment is 8,500 in the elementary schools and 5,500 in the high schools, a general increase of about 300 over last year.

The high schools opening today include Waukegan, Deerfield-Shields at Highland Park, Antioch, Libertyville, Gurnee, Wauconda, Zurich, and Grant at Fox Lake. Heavy enrollment is expected in the Zion public schools because Overseer Wilbur Glen Voliva has closed his parochial schools.

The Lake Forest and Highland Park elementary schools will open on Sept. 10, while those of Waukegan will start classes on Sept. 17.

In the West Suburbs.

In the west suburbs the La Grange elementary schools and the Lyons Township High school in La Grange, the Riverside-Brookfield High school, the Western Springs elementary schools, District 98 of Berwyn, Bellwood elementary schools, Oak Park-River Forest High school, and Oak Park elementary schools will open Sept. 10. District 89 of Maywood opens tomorrow, with a 4,500 enrollment expected at eight schools, and Forest Park schools will open Sept. 12.

On the south the Homewood and Chicago Heights schools will start classes Sept. 10 and the Harvey elementary schools will open Sept. 17.

Most of the schools along the north shore are scheduled to start Sept. 10. These include New Trier Township High school, expecting an enrollment of 3,200, and the schools of Evanston, Glencoe, Winnetka, Wilmette, and Kenilworth. Niles Center schools also will open Sept. 10. In Evanston an enrollment of nearly 8,000 pupils is expected in the two elementary systems and in the township high school. The system of paying teachers three-fourths of their salaries in cash and the remainder in trade coupons is likely to continue, school officials said.

EXPLAIN 340,000 ILLINOIS RELIEF ROLL FORECAST

Blame Increase on AAA and CWA Policies.

Looking forward to a record breaking "clientele" of 340,000 families during the coming winter, the Illinois Emergency Relief commission made a report yesterday explaining the rise of 20.8 per cent which has already taken place since last November under the New Deal.

The Agricultural Adjustment administration's crop reduction program and the letdown of the Civil Works administration program were held partly responsible for the increase, which has been most marked in rural communities.

According to Chief Statistician Robert J. Myers the relief loads of last fall and recent months became comparable only upon the virtual cessation of CWA work. Now, with CWA out of the picture, the fact that 232,907 families were on relief last November can be stacked up against the figure of 281,367 for June.

Five Factors Listed.

Five factors operated to cause the increase, according to the report. The exhaustion of private resources of families has gradually compelled more and more to seek public aid, it declares, although this factor is now declining in relative importance.

Many Illinois counties which previously had failed to turn to the state or federal government for help have done so recently. Agricultural employment has declined greatly, while the increase in the number of industrial jobs has been slight.

"This has resulted partly from natural factors and partly from the crop reduction policy of the federal government which," the report reads, "has in many localities reduced the farmer's need for labor assistance from others than members of his own family.

CWA Unloads Thousands.

"The CWA program tended, both directly and indirectly, to increase the relief load. From Feb. 1 to June 30, 1934, 12,989 families which, though destitute, had never before received relief, were added to the relief rolls because of the loss of CWA jobs.

"An unknown but appreciable number of needy persons applied for relief in the hope of increasing their chances of employment (on work relief projects)."

The drouth, according to the report, was the fifth and last great cause of the additional relief load.

Illinois' relief burden is still far less than that of either New York or Pennsylvania, it is pointed out, since these states now support 450,000 and 419,000 families, respectively.

Green Predicts 40 Millions Will Be on Dole This Winter

Wichita, Kas., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Faced with its worst winter, the nation must choose between maintaining about 40 million people and revision of NRA codes to provide for a 30 hour work week, William F. Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared here in a Labor day address.

In a critical appraisement of the economic experimentation that has been going on, the veteran labor chief asserted that a change in the industrial codes to reduce hours and distribute work more equitably is the only real remedy for unemployment.

Sees Social Menace.

"It is unthinkable," he declared, "that the nation would choose to feed, clothe and care for approximately ten million idle workers and their dependents, who, conservatively estimated, would number 40 million people. Such a condition would constitute a menace to the existing social order."

The 40 hour week, now the maximum under most NRA codes, cannot supply employment for the country's workers, he said. As a result of this condition, the labor leader said, the federation will appeal to the government for direct relief payments to the idle this winter. He favored a 30 hour week, five days of six hours each.

"It is either mounting unemployment, with all its tragic consequences, or shorter hours and higher wages for all," the federation president said.

"It is the opinion of representatives of labor and many outstanding economists, as well as many enlightened and progressive employers, that industry and the nation must accept and apply the six hour day and the five day week as a real remedy for unemployment."

For Direct Federal Aid.

"Certainly it is obvious that we are facing the worst winter and that we must firmly resolve that no man, woman or child shall suffer from hunger, lack of shelter or for the elemental necessities of life," Green added.

"The American Federation of Labor urges the federal government to include as part of its huge relief program an acceleration of public works activities, the restoration of the Civil Works administration program and the mobilization of public support for the modernization, renovizing and building program provided for in the Federal Housing administration better housing program.

Will Offer Plan for U. S.

"There also should be a plan of direct relief payments adequate and sufficient to supply the elemental needs of those who are idle or dependent upon public support."

Green reiterated that the federation ever will remain the implacable foe of communism and all other subversive movements engaged in the promotion of world revolution.

He also attacked company unions.

BOY SWIMMER TOWS CATBOAT TO SHORE WHEN BREEZE FAILS

New York, Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Lewis Deane, known to his friends as "Luke," the 15 year old son of Dr. Harry T. Deane, a dentist, spent the better part of four hours between 8 o'clock and midnight last night in the waters of Long Island sound, acting the part of a tug. The lad not only swam nearly 7 miles but towed a sturdy catboat in the bargain.

Yesterday afternoon Deane and Bertha Oppenheim, also 15, left the North Hempstead Yacht club on Manhasset bay in a catboat. They took their lunch and planned to eat supper on the water.

When they did not return by dark, harbor police were notified and searched for them. They finally found young Deane on shore. He said he could not sail in so he swam and pulled the catboat. His companion had been sent on home.

U. S. TO TRY BANK THIEF UNDER NEW LAW OF DEATH

Grand Haven, Mich., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Theodore F. Bentz, alias Craig, who was indicted on a charge of robbing the People's Savings bank here, is to be arraigned in the Circuit court next Monday, at which time a date for his trial will be set.

Federal authorities at South Bend, Ind., announced yesterday an intention to indict Bentz for the robbery in June of the Merchants' National bank of South Bend. It is the present intention to try him under a new federal law that makes possible a death penalty for a robbery in which a killing occurs. A warant for his surrender to the federal authorities has been issued, but it is believed the government will consent to let local authorities try him first.

Rumors that Bentz recently made a confession naming persons who had harbored John Dillinger were received with skepticism by Lawrence De Witt, Grand Haven chief of police.

G. O. P. PREDICTS IT WILL GAIN 70 SEATS IN HOUSE

Estimate Raised on Basis of Sinclair Nomination.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Seventy seats in the house is a revised estimate which western Republican headquarters gave out yesterday of the gains it expects the Republican party to make in the congressional elections in November.

Officials of the Republican senatorial campaign committee had been figuring that the party was likely to recapture 50 or 60 of the congressional districts which were swept into the Democratic column two years ago by the Roosevelt victory. The boost in estimates is a sequence of the victory of Upton Sinclair, Socialist writer, who won the Democratic nomination for governor in California, and of the possibilities the Republicans are claiming in Maine's election next Monday.

Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa, western chairman of the Republican senatorial committee, holds that the nomination of Sinclair in California has strengthened the Republican congressional campaign throughout the east and west.

A Wave of Popular Opinion.

"Our reports are that the nomination of Sinclair in California has precipitated a wave of popular opinion that is making itself felt in the Republican campaigning in many states," he said.

"And when the returns come in from Maine's election next Monday they are bound to register deep political effect.

"To show the desperation of the administration, as the Maine election approaches the Passamaquoddy bay scheme, where the tides of the ocean are to be harnessed to produce electricity for which there is no market, is again being considered. It has never been approved by any corps of engineers. Yet Secretary Ickes, as the Maine election approaches, is reversing the former adverse reports of his own engineers and advisory board and is reconsidering it as a PWA project."

Maine as a Barometer.

For a generation or more "As Maine goes, so goes the nation" has been a political saw. It is an old Republican stronghold, and it holds its state elections some two months in advance of other commonwealths. Next Monday it will elect a governor, a senator and three representatives in congress, a legislature and other state officers.

Two years ago in September it elected a Democratic governor and elected Democratic congressmen in two out of its three districts. Then in November, to the surprise of the Democrats, it gave Hoover a plurality—but the September election had lived up to its reputation as a national barometer.

McAdoo Partner for Sinclair.

As to the extending of the right hand of fellowship to Mr. Sinclair by the New Dealers, Republican headquarters yesterday pointed to word from Los Angeles that William H. Neblett, law partner of Senator William G. McAdoo, had declared he would support Sinclair as Democratic nominee for governor.

Senator McAdoo, who himself is on his way home from Europe, was rated as "kingmaker" at the Democratic national convention in the Chicago Stadium two years ago. By bringing California and Texas delegations together behind Speaker Garner of Texas for Vice President he started the bandwagon for the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt for President.

PURCHASE RELIEF BEDDING, AS U. S. OUTPUT IS LATE

Although the government's mattress making project officially started a month ago, the actual production figure for Illinois remains at zero, and it was learned yesterday that the Illinois Emergency Relief commission has awarded bids for 7,500 mattresses to private business firms.

C. E. Miner, assistant to the executive secretary of the commission, said he believed that it would be the end of September before any mattresses could be delivered from the 33 government plants established in Illinois. By this date, according to the original production schedule, 40,000 mattresses were to have been produced. A total of 170,000 mattresses are to be made by hand by relief labor in this state, a program which has aroused the thoughtful but unavailing protests of the bedding industry.

One contract was awarded to Carson Pirie Scott & Co. for 6,500 mattresses of felt and excelsior construction, weighing 45 pounds, at $3.30 less 2 per cent for payment in 15 days. The other bid was awarded to the same firm for 1,000 mattresses of 32 pound construction, at $2.95 each on the same terms.

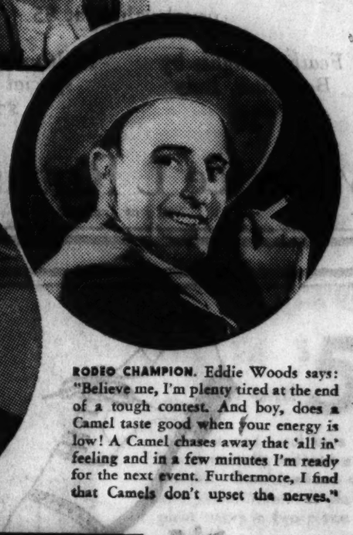
FROM LONG KEY TO NOVA SCOTIA, the famous sportsman and writer, REX BEACH, has matched his skill and vitality against the big game fish of the Atlantic! Sailfish... marlin...tuna—he's caught them all! Below he tells how he lights a Camel after fighting it out with a heavy fish—and soon "feels as good as new!" And Camel smokers in every walk of life agree with Mr. Beach about smoking Camels to increase energy.

PHONE OPERATOR. Miss Marion Erickson says: "I smoke a lot! I enjoy a Camel every time I can catch a minute away from the board. Since I changed to Camels, I find I never have to think about nerves. And Camels are so mild and taste so good, too!"



RODEO CHAMPION. Eddie Woods says: "Believe me, I'm plenty tired at the end of a tough contest. And boy, does a Camel taste good when your energy is low! A Camel chases away that 'all in' feeling and in a few minutes I'm ready for the next event. Furthermore, I find that Camels don't upset the nerves."

REX BEACH TELLS YOU how to get back vim and energy when "Played Out!"

"I have taken my share of big sailfish, marlin, and tuna," says Rex Beach. "I know what a rod-and-reel contest with these heavy fighters does to a man's vitality. When I've gotten a big fellow safely landed my next move is to light a Camel, and I feel as good as new. A Camel quickly gives me a sense of well-being and renewed energy. As a steady smoker, I have also learned that Camels do not interfere with healthy nerves."

Thousands of smokers will recognize from their own experience just what Mr. Beach means when he says that he lights a Camel when tired and "feels as good as new." And science adds confirmation of this refreshing "energizing effect."

That's why you hear people say so often: "Get a lift with a Camel." Camels aren't flat or "sweetish." Their flavor never disappoints. You can smoke Camels steadily—as many as you want—their finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS do not get on the nerves!

SALESMAN. Kenneth B. Logan says: "The selling game calls for healthy nerves. Meeting people all day long...trying to turn prospects into customers...certainly tell on nerves. I smoke most of the time—but I smoke only Camels, and I'll tell you why! Camels don't upset my nerves—and no cigarette can match Camels on flavor, either."

OLYMPIC SWIMMER. Miss Helene Madison, who has broken 19 Olympic and world's records in swimming, says: "I've been smoking Camels a long time. I can definitely say that they don't interfere with my nerves ...I enjoy Camels' mildness and they give me a refreshing 'lift' in energy when I feel tired out!"

TOBACCO EXPERTS ALL SAY:

"Camels are made from finer, More Expensive Tobaccos—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand."

DENIS SULLIVAN TAKES HELM OF CRIMINAL COURT

Pledges War on Crime; Courtney Praised.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

Pledging himself to continue the war on crime and speed up justice, Judge Denis E. Sullivan, veteran of 23 years' service in the Superior court, yesterday was inaugurated chief justice of the Criminal court. The ceremonies, conducted in a flower banked courtroom, were attended by practically the entire membership of the Circuit, Superior, and Municipal courts.

The new chief justice and his twelve associates, all of them present yesterday, announced that this morning they would plunge into the task of cleaning up 576 pending indictments, the lowest number ever on the Criminal court dockets at the start of a court year.

Finnegan Conducts Induction.

Judge Philip J. Finnegan, who retired yesterday as chief justice and who with his associates made the best record ever established in the Criminal court, inducted his successor into office.

State's Attorney Courtney, whose vigorous action against crime was credited by speakers at the ceremonies with much of the improvement in Criminal court conditions, acted as master of ceremonies. The prosecutor and the outgoing chief justice made public statistics showing the remarkable improvement in the last year.

Judge Sullivan in his acceptance speech called attention to some of the worn out legal processes now in use in the Criminal court and indicated that the judicial advisory council, of which he is a member, is working towards reforms.

"We in this state are handicapped in our judicial work in operating, as we do, under a worn out system of common law procedure hundreds of years old, instituted under different conditions which no longer exist," he said.

Chief Justice Sullivan then told of the improvements already won in Criminal court procedure through the judicial council, and made a plea that the judges be given more power and that the public then hold them strictly accountable.

Power and Responsibility.

"This trial business is a highly technical, specialized work and should be done by specialists," he said. "For a court to be eliminated from directing the trial, although it has the final decision as to whether the evidence is sufficient or not, is, to say the least, incongruous.

"Give to the judiciary the power—they then must accept the task, and the public can rightfully hold them responsible for the results."

Chief Justice Sullivan indicated that another improvement being sought by the judicial council is the abolishment of the unanimous verdict law. In many cases, he pointed out, the whims of one or two jurors control the outcome of a trial.

The new chief justice then spoke in praise of State's Attorney Courtney. "The people of this county are fortunate in having as state's attorney at this time a young man who is vigorous, intelligent, and honest, and who presents the best traditions of that office," he said. He also complimented the skill and fairness of Public Defender Benjamin Bachrach.

Courtney Makes Speech.

In acknowledging the compliments of Chief Justice Sullivan and other speakers Mr. Courtney pledged himself to carry on the work of the last year and at the same time praised the administration of the outgoing chief justice.

The achievements of the Criminal court in the last year as pointed out by the prosecutor are as follows:

1. The number of pending indictments was reduced from 1,048 to 576 while the court was handling current business of 4,211 indictments returned during the year.

2. In all classes of cases the state won 3,426 convictions, as against 1,069 acquittals, being a conviction average of 76 per cent.

3. During the court year 1,397 prisoners were sent to the penitentiary. The four preceding court years showed respectively 1,282, 1,208, 1,223, and 1,229 defendants sent to prison. The last court year was 615 in excess of the best of the four previous court years, or an increase of 50 per cent in the number of prisoners actually sent to the penitentiary.

Other Judges Are Speakers.

Among the many speakers at the induction ceremonies, which because of a provision of the law must be held on Labor day even though it is a holiday, were Justice Frederic DeYoung of the Illinois Supreme court, who is chairman of the judicial advisory council; Judges Michael McKinley, William J. Lindsay, Harry B. Miller, and Walter P. Steffen; Harry Gardner, president of the Chicago Bar association, and Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission.

1% TAX LIMIT HIT AS RECKLESS BY STATE BOARD

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—The one per cent tax rate limitation plan was pictured as a reckless scheme discredited in other states, in the first section of a comprehensive 152-page report to Gov. Horner, made public today by the Illinois tax commission.

SCOTT LUCAS.

The commission finds the proposal would damage rather than help present depressed property values in Illinois, crippling schools, piling up local government debt, and breaking down government in many sections of the state. No real benefits would accrue to owners of real estate, since advocates of the plan have provided no new sources of revenue to lift the tax burden from property.

The commission's attitude is expressed in the report of Chairman Scott W. Lucas of Havana, Ill., who declared the sympathy of the commission with the general aim of the one per centers, but added:

"In the long run there will be no lasting relief to real estate taxpayers if in the process the important activities of government are adversely affected. The most this plan can do is to precipitate so serious a fiscal crisis that it will compel legislation which may accomplish some of the desired ends, but also may seriously injure all governmental activity."

The fact that a similar plan which took form in the Juul law, passed in 1901, has already been tried in Illinois was brought out by Commissioner Barnet Hodes of Chicago.

"Because local governments were unable to function under the limitation, the Juul law had to be amended so many times that it is now practically a dead letter," Commissioner Hodes said in the report.

FRANCE TO SEND 3 BATTLESHIPS TO NORTH SEA

New German Cruisers Alarm Admiralty.

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 3.—As a result of the development of 10,000 ton super-cruisers of the Deutschland type by Germany, the French navy on Oct. 1 will shift three of its most important units from the Mediterranean to the North sea.

FRANCOIS PIETRI.

By order of Francois Pietri, navy minister, the battleships La Provence, La Bretagne, and La Lorraine—old but modernized vessels—will be brought north to reinforce the North sea fleet of smaller vessels under the command of Admiral Darian.

Three Battleships Left.

The Mediterranean squadron will then include only three battleships, the Paris, Courbet and Jean-Bart. Like the Italian navy the squadron will consist mainly of small craft more remarkable for their speed than their individual power.

France has felt that her North sea fleet was outclassed since the placing in service of the Deutschland last year, the launching by Germany of the Admiral Scheer and the Admiral Graf Spee, and the placing under construction of a fourth ship of the same type. Her faith in line battleships is such that she believes the gap will be adequately filled, for the moment at least, by the shift contemplated.

Although built in 1916, the three warships, which will leave the Mediterranean, have undergone great improvements recently. They have been fitted with bigger guns, in both heavy and light categories. Their protective armor against aerial bombs and submarine explosives has been reinforced and efficient oil burning motors have replaced their steam engines.

Powerful in Combat.

They can travel only 21 or 22 knots, compared to more than 26 by the Deutschland. Nevertheless, they are considered powerful in combat for the reason that their means of protection has not been sacrificed in favor of heavy armament and speed, as is the case with the new 10,000 ton craft.

This shift in the French navy is made necessary by the length of time needed for the completion of the Dunkerque, the first capital ship constructed by France since the world war. It will not be ready until 1936, and the Strasbourg, a ship of the same type, will not be ready for service until 1937.

DIES OF INJURIES.

Grayville, Ill., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—William Layne, 32, of Highland Park, Mich., died late yesterday at Carmi hospital from injuries received when a tire blew out and the car overturned.

TOTAL OF BRITISH IDLE DECREASES; 34,000 GET JOBS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Improvement in employment in Great Britain was revealed in figures issued by the ministry of labor today for August. The figures show that on Aug. 20 there were 34,000 more insured persons at work than in July. Compared to August, 1933, the figures represent an addition of 376,000 to the ranks of the employed.

Although there has actually been an increase of 10,318 in the number of unemployed since July 23, the number of adults on the unemployment register decreased by 20,770 during the month.

The increase is registrations is accounted for by the addition of 31,088 boys and girls who entered the labor market after leaving school at the end of July. They are not yet absorbed by the various occupations they eventually will pursue. The upward trend of employment was most marked in the coal mining industry. The building, woolen, shipbuilding and ship repairing industries and shipping services also showed gains.

HEAVY TRAFIC SPLASHES HOME OVER HIGHWAYS

Rain Reduces Congestion, but Not Entirely.

BY HAL FOUST.

The weather dampened Chicago's enjoyment of the Labor day week-end. It eased yesterday's and last night's traffic volumes, but noth withstanding the drizzle there were thousands of automobiles splattering over the pavements leading into the city after one, two or three holidays away from the scenes of routine.

From the lakes, woods and resorts of Wisconsin, Michigan, and northern Indiana came excursionists who had planned their outings too long in advance to let the weather cancel their trips. The dripping skies, however, sent many home earlier than they had originally planned. This tended to relieve the congestion that highway police had expected.

The fishermen returned from the lakes and streams of the far north late last night.

Back from the Farm.

Their cars, identified by the character of their luggage, reflected headlights on slippery concrete long after midnight.

Also in the homeward trek were city dwellers who had spent the holidays with relatives on farms or in villages within a few hundred miles of the city. Chicago has drawn much of its population from surrounding farms and small towns. The automobile maintains sociability between country and city cousins, between the girl behind the department store counter and the mother back in Indiana.

These homecoming visits were not canceled because of the weather but they were foreshortened for this reason. Drivers sought to avoid the heavy trafic of late afternoon and evening because of the insecure traction.

End Visits to Fair.

In addition to the Chicagoans on the metropolitan highways were a considerable number of World's Fair visitors leaving the city. There were not as many as there doubtless would have been had the skies been clear, but the automobiles with license plates of states other than Illinois passed with conspicuous frequency.

The public was reluctant to surrender its holiday to the weatherman. Parking lots near A Century of Progress enjoyed a moderately heavy business from out of towners. Many, no doubt, were using their only opportunity of the year to come to Chicago.

The boulevards through the parks were fairly well crowded. Folks were viewing the late summer flower gardens through splattered windows of their sedans. Others were walking between the rain drops, or at least trying to. There were a few swimming at the beaches. The parking places at the zoos were fairly well occupied. There were even two boats being rowed on the Lincoln park lagoon in the rain.

Maybe it was because of the long drouth this year. Anyway Chicagoans did their best t/ enjoy the holidays in the rain as much as the farmers.

BENDIX TROPHY WINNER DIES IN RACING CRASH

E. W. [Pop] Cleveland, veteran pilot and a race official who witnessed the crash from the top of the judges' stand, said he thought Davis had pulled too close to the pylon and probably had believed he had cut inside it. The sudden swerve out of the course, Cleveland suggested, probably occurred when Davis started a climbing turn to recircle the pylon. The sudden strain put on the ship by the maneuver may have caused the structural failure, he added.

Turner Averages 248.129.

Turner's time in the race averaged 248.129 miles an hour. This is no record, since Maj. Jimmy Doolittle in 1932 made a record of 252.686 miles an hour flying the 100 miles in a Wasp powered Gee Bee super-sportster. It is the fastest time since 1932, however, when Wedell won the 1933 race at Los Angeles with a speed of 237 miles an hour when Turner, who had flown at 241 miles an hour, was disqualified for cutting inside a pylon. Turner won $4,500 by today's victory.

Second place went to Roy T. Minor of Hollywood, Cal., in a Brown Special racer powered with a 200 horsepower Menasco motor. His time was 214.979 miles an hour, in a plane only one-fifth as powerful as Turner's. John A. Worthen of New Orleans, in another Wedell-Williams racer, Wasp 550 motor, was third. Minor got $2,500 and Worthen $1,500 in prize money.

Sets Unofficial Record.

Early this morning, before the south wind stiffened into a 30 mile breeze, Davis flew four laps, two down wind and two up wind, over the three kilometer straightaway course at an average speed of 306.215. This was almost two miles an hour better than the late Jimmy Wedell's record of 304.98 miles an hour, but the National Aeronautical association recognizes no speed records unless they exceed the previous mark by at least five miles an hour.

AUSTRIA OFFERS PEACE TO NAZIS AND SOCIALISTS

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, Sept. 3. — Chancellor Schuschnigg, in a statement to newspaper men at Innsbruck today, indicated his government was prepared to make peace with the Nazis and Socialists on condition that no attempts to disturb public order were made.

"I must, however, point to the fact," he said, "that within the last two weeks arms have been smuggled from Czechoslovakia to the former Socialist organizations, and must point out that until the danger of an uprising has been absolutely banished the government cannot take the measures it would like for pardoning those involved in the February putsch."

When asked what would be Austria's attitude at the coming league council meeting regarding German agitation the chancellor said Austria would not submit charges against Germany in connection with the recent Nazi putsch. Investigation has shown that most of the Nazi terrorism was organized abroad, evidently from Germany, and the Austrian government has enough evidence to prove this if necessary, Vienna officials said.

HITLER IS READY TO OPEN BIG NAZI PAGEANT TODAY

Nuremberg Is Jammed on Convention Eve.

NUREMBERG, Germany, Sept. 3.—(AP)—With Adolf Hitler as its star, Nazlism's annual big show tonight was ready for the curtain tomorrow.

This ancient spired city, jammed to its furthermost suburbs with perhaps the biggest crowd of its 15 centuries' history, seethed and popped with party fervor this evening as the opening of the National Socialists' yearly party congress drew near.

The future of the party—and therefore the future of Nazi Germany—was to be explained, predicted, and promised during the week of parades and patriotic oratory, music and mass demonstrations of loyalty.

A half million Germans, converging on the old city from all parts of the nation, tonight taxed to the utmost its capacity to feed and house them.

Tents Pressed Into Service.

Tents, factories, and vacant buildings were pressed into service as the 500 Nazis busy for two weeks on arrangements did their huge job with characteristic efficiency. Military discipline, too, marked the feeding of the throngs and the handling of the streams of trafic, including more than 500 special trains, that brought enthusiasts to the congress.

Famed down through the centuries for its poets and philosophers, Nuremberg awaited with her guests the first words of the man whose meteoric rise to power has turned Germany's political and social philosophy—even her concepts of culture—upside down.

It was Hitler's show, and der fuehrer was ready.

His energy saved by strict Nazi orders banning such annoyances as demonstrations near his lodging and the tossing of flowers into his automobile, the reich's chancellor was scheduled to deliver seven major addresses.

His first contribution to the pomp and pageantry of the occasion comes tomorrow evening, when he steps forward on the enormous tribunal to address his faithful adherents.

Thereafter he will speak daily during the week of the congress, and Nazis were confident he would chart for them the roads to be followed during the ensuing year in the development of the third reich.

They expected, too, that he would name his deputy—the "second in command" he promised the nation when he took over the presidential powers of the late Paul von Hindenburg—and Nazi gossip tonight centered around three men.

Rudolf Hess, handsome, energetic minister without portfolio, was first choice of the prophets, but many could be found to favor Gen. Werner von Blomberg, leader of the regular army; Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, minister for air and Premier of Prussia, and Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda.

Leaders to Give Accounting.

Nazlism's lesser guns, like the reichsfuehrer, were prepared to give an acounting of their stewardship, raining down statistics, argument, and analysis on ther gigantic audience.

And to carry the news to the 65 million Germans whose future is bound up in the party's decision, there was the vast sounding board of Goebbels' efficient propaganda machine. Through the press and over the radio Goebbels was ready to spread the Nazi doctrine.

The mammoth assembly tonight gave Nuremberg its first taste of the extravagant spectacle in store for it.

Bands marched the ancient streets blaring forth the party anthem and other music, brown uniformed Storm Troopers drilled precisely, the streets and sidewalks were red with flags and banners.

As the celebration dwindled with the approach of midnight, tens of thousands went to sleep on impromptu matteresses of hay in tent encampments, after being fed soldier style from the "auxiliary train Bavaria."

LEAGUE RECRUITS SPECIAL POLICE FOR SAAR DUTY

GENEVA, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The president of the league of nations council today asked all member countries to coöperate in recruiting 2,000 extra police for duty in the Saar, soon to vote as to its future sovereignty.

The league commission now governing the Saar recently demanded police and gendarmes from foreign countries to maintain order during the period of the plebiscite, scheduled for Jan. 23, when the Saar will vote whether to rejoin Germany, unite with France, or remain under the league.

In its request for additional police the Saar commission asserted its present force was being undermined by propaganda.

NAZIS CLAIM FREDERICK THE GREAT WAS FREE OF ANY JEWISH BLOOD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 3.—With family trees the fashion in Germany as a means of proving one's Aryan descent, Nazi genealogists have traced the ancestors of Frederick the Great back to the year 900 A. D.

During this period the Prussian king was found to have approximately 67,000,000 ancestors. This is a comparatively low figure, the genealogists assert. They explain the figure is due to intermarriages and consequent duplication of ancestors customary in royal circles. The parents of Frederick the Great's mother, for instance, were first cousins.

The Nazi genealogists proudly announce that none of the 67,000,000 ancestors of Germany's national hero had a drop of Jewish blood in their veins. Approximately 47 per cent, or close to 32,000,000 are of German descent. The French ancestors rank next with 24½ per cent, or 16,500,000, while 6,800,000 ancestors, or 10 per cent, are of Slav origin. Italian and Scandinavian blood comes next with 5.5 per cent and 4 per cent, respectively.

FORT NIAGARA, AS RESTORED, IS DEDICATED

Fort Niagara, N. Y., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Representatives of four nations met today at the scene of historic and bloody struggles between them to dedicate a restored Fort Niagara to a perpetuation of the peace that has existed for more than a century.

The scene was decorated with the standards that floated successively over the ramparts in the decades of bitter fighting for the possession of the territory—the lilies of the French kings, the British crosses of St. George and St. Andrew, and the fifteen starred American flag of 1812.

Secretary of War George H. Dern recounted the history of the fort which played such a large part in the military destinies of the North American continent.

Among his listeners were 500 descendants of the tribes of the six nations whom Brant, an Indian leader, led into battle.

"The fire and sword of 200 years has been succeeded by 117 years of peace in the relations of the two countries which touch at Niagara," said Secretary Dern. "This old military fortress now stands as a monument to the fact that races may dwell together in amity."

U. S. SEIZES 3 FOR KIDNAPING MAN ON FRENCH LINER

New York, Sept. 4 [Tuesday.]—(AP)—Two men and a woman, seized by police and twenty federal agents who carried submachine guns, were questioned by police early today about kidnaping a man aboard a French liner and holding him captive for more than a month.

The abducted man, William Rosen, was seized Aug. 2 aboard the S. S. Champlain, then in port here. Held for 40,000 francs [$2,640] ransom, Rosen was released yesterday. Police did not disclose his address nor whether any ransom had been paid. The government men refused to divulge any details. Police said the arrested trio gave their names as Salvatore Mancuso, 28; Nellie Mancuso, 25, and Dominick Gelferno, 31, all of Brooklyn.

Britain Turns Over Airport for Race to Australia

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 3.—The new Royal Air Force Airdrome at Mildenhall, Cuffolk, will be the base for the international air race from England to Melbourne, Australia. The race starts on Oct. 20. The air ministry made the airdrome available when it became known that no civil airport had the necessary hangar accommodation to house all the planes entered.

Ontario to Ask All Canada to Make Code for Industry

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Ontario will invite all Canada's provinces to coöperate in formation of a national code for industry that will be enforceable by law, Attorney General Arthur W. Roebuck of Ontario told the gathering of trade unionists at the Canadian national exhibition today.

BOOTH DYNASTY REGAINS LEAD OF SALVATION ARMY

Name Evangeline General on Fifth Ballot.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 3.—Commander Evangeline Booth, 68 years old, for 30 years head of the Salvation Army in America, and herself an American citizen, tonight was elected general of the Salvation Army.

Thus after a break of five years a Booth once more will occupy the supreme position in the Army and for the first time in history a woman will rule the destinies of the organization founded by Evangeline Booth's father, Gen. William Booth, in 1867. This is the first time the position has been held by an American.

The decision was reached on the fifth ballot by the high council of the Army, sitting behind locked doors in Congress hall, Clapton, after deliberations lasting five days. Commander Booth received 32 votes, four more than the necessary two-thirds majority. She won by the support of the three candidates lowest in the early polls.

Debate Kind of Stockings.

It is stated that considerable controversy arose over the question of whether women in the Army should be permitted to wear silk or cotton stockings, and this, with the other questions regarding appropriate wearing apparel for women members, held up the proceedings nearly two days.

This morning the nomination stage was reached and seven names were put forward. They were:

Commander Evangeline Booth of America.

Commissioner James Hay of Canada.

Commissioner John McMillan of America.

Commissioner David Lamb of London.

Commissioner Henry Mapp, chief of staf. Mapp was second in all the balloting.

Announces Own Election.

It wasn't until 8:30 o'clock tonight, after 10 hours of deliberations, that any sign was given of the decision reached. Then the doors of the session chambers were flung open and a procession, headed by Evangeline Booth, marched out. Mounting the platform of the main session hall, Miss Booth herself announced that she had been elected general.

"Tell the rank and file with whom I have served that I am no stranger to them," Gen. Booth said, "I have worked the streets of London with them. My heart and spirit is as enthusiastic as ever. I woke to intelligence in this city. I was born on Christmas day [1865] and my first activities were under our flag."

The new general later declared that she would attend the conference of commissioners which starts on Wednesday morning, and will be conducted by Gen. Edward J. Higgins. When the conference is over she will go to America for a farewell visit, then will return to England by Nov. 10. She will receive a salary of about $2,250 and in addition traveling expenses and the use of a residence.

POLICEMAN HELD ON A VISITOR'S ROBBERY CHARGE

Policeman Lee Johnson of the Austin station was held in the Des Plaines street station yesterday for arraignment today in the Felony court on a charge of robbery. The policeman was accused by Louis Podesta of Geneva, who identified him as the man who took 50 cents and an automobile from Podesta early Sunday. Johnson was suspended from police duty by Commissioner Allman after his arrest.

Podesta, who was visiting his father at 856 North Kedvale avenue, said that the policeman, who was not in uniform, got into his car at Washington boulevard and Ashland avenue. After forcing Podesta to drive around for a time, the policeman is alleged to have taken the money from Podesta and forced him out of the car. While Johnson was pocketing the 50 cents, Podesta, according to his story, saw the policeman's star and noted the number.

Although Johnson denied the charge and said that at the time of the robbery he had just finished convoying a passenger bus to its garage, Podesta identified him in a crowd of nine prisoners. Johnson, according to the police, got back on the force recently by court order after he had been discharged for intoxication.

BRITISH CONTROL HURTS INDUSTRY, UNIONIST CLAIMS

Wants A. F. of L. in United World Front.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 3.—A slashing attack on the British national government was made in the presidential address by Andrew Conley to the annual convention of the Trades Union Congress, which is the British equivalent of the American Federation of Labor. He spoke at the opening of the annual conference at Weymouth today.

Conley urged that the American Federation of Labor join the international federation of trade unions and thus make possible a united world front of labor. He spoke enthusiastically of the probability that soviet Russia will enter the league of nations and hoped that the United States will do likewise.

Economic Barbarism.

After paying tribute to the fight made by trade unionists in Germany and Austria against economic reaction, Conley declared:

"In our country, in the economic sphere, the engines of social progress are reversed. The British government's policy of restriction, regulation, and control is merely economic barbarism, and has led to sabotage of productive capacity and willful destruction of actually available wealth.

"Moreover, the policy of subsidies has been extended, and while the community is paying for the state aided monopoly, it isn't acquiring control of these monopolies."

Conley then quoted Premier Ramsay MacDonald's statement that even when trade and industry recovered its normal momentum there would still be 2,000,000 wage earners unemployed, or one in six of the workers.

Watch U. S. Strike News.

"That," said Conley, "is the purest defeatism and seems to be the fatalistic mood of the statesmen of today."

Conley demanded the end of the "hereditary curse" of the class divisions in British education.

As the nation's labor leaders met at Weymouth, Great Britain's newspapers printed full accounts of the textile strike in the United States. Most of the cabled accounts prominently linked the Yorkshire-born Francis Gorman with "America's biggest strike" as front page material.

CANADIAN POLICE ALSO FAILING IN SEARCH FOR PROF. LUMLEY

Glacier Park, Mont., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Search by U. S. rangers and members of the Northwest Mounted Police along the Canadian border north of Glacier Park, today failed to locate any trace of Dr. F. H. Lumley of Ohio State university, missing since Aug. 13. He was to have returned to his home at Columbus, O., Aug. 27. E. T. Scoyer, park superintendent, believes there is little hope of Dr. Lumley's being found alive.

DEATHS OF TWO GIRLS IN ICEBOX HELD ACCIDENTAL

Sacramento, Cal., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Sheriff's deputies tonight definitly announced that the deaths Saturday of two girls suffocated in an icebox in their home at Wilton, near here, was accidental. They said they had obtained a confession of an older brother that he had assaulted them.

Deputy Sheriff Charles Ogle said the story apparently was correct, in that all the circumstances of accidental death were borne out by the evidence.

The girls, Mary and Maryann Paiva, 8 and 7 years old, children of ranch workers, apparently had crawled into the ice box in childish play, Ogle said, and the box was slammed shut on them by their 2 year old brother Alfred.

Civerino Paiva, whose age was given by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Paiva, as 15, made the confession, the officers said. He admitted improper relations, Constable Del Cann related, with an older sister.

The boy stated he left the girls washing dishes and returned to pick hops. He denied indignantly he had anything to do with putting the children in the ice box, the officers said.

"Do you think I'd kill my sisters?" they quoted him as saying.

SWIMS IN RIVER AND DROWNS AS FRIENDS LOOKS ON

James Laughlin, 30 years old, 1430 West Madison street, overestimated his abilities as a swimmer early today and was drowned in the river near the Clark street bridge.

With two friends, Henry Liese of 2450 Southport avenue and George Jeffries of 612 West Madison street, Laughlin had been patronizing a loop café during the evening. The trio were passing over the bridge when Laughlin suddenly announced he intended to go swimming. All scrambled down to the north bank. Laughlin took off all his clothing except his underwear, and, while his companions looked on plunged in.

He crossed the river once, returned, swam again to the south side and was on his way back when he became exhausted or was seized with cramps. He screamed for help, but before Liese and Jeffries could do anything to help he sank.

SHOTS FIRED AT RABBITS SCARE FRENCH DRAGON

ST. GAUDENS, France, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The dragon of Lake Camon, which opened the local hunting season with a bang, apparently had been scared off today by the bangs of shotguns fired after inoffensive rabbits and partridges. The beast was reported yesterday by M. F. Narud, local hunter, who described his find as 25 feet long and possessed of searchlight eyes and thick scales.

Not all the local inhabitants were enthusiastic about their dragon, for southern France long has been sensitive over the fact Alphonse Daudet in his "Prodigious Adventures of Tartarin de Tarascon" made the remarkable Tartarin a native of their region. And some of Tartarin's tales would have made the Baron Munchausen just a bit envious.

There was also the slightly foolish thought that this search for a dragon in rabbit country was not without its parallel in Tartarin de Tarascon's adventures. Daudet has his hero, hunting big game in Africa, fire at a jackrabbit and kill a blind lion.

I will give him the full swing of the patronage of office. I will give him the whole host of ministerial influence. COMMON SENSE IN TRANSPORTATION.

We have several times used the phrase "Competition will eventually make over our railroads into a cheaper and far more efficient transportation machine." We are convinced that such modernization will be the eventual solution of our transportation problem. Government regulation, attempted coördination, railway czars, programs for the strangulation of competition may retard the process, but cannot successfully withstand the economic pressure.

Railway development has followed natural lines, although the evolution has not been rapid enough to satisfy congress, nor the shipping public, for that matter. Having somewhat overbuilt a system sufficiently superior to drive practically all competition from inland waterways and highways, the railways proceeded to produce abuses inherent in a nation-wide monopoly. Government regulation followed. Resisted by the railways at first, it was later accepted as a comfortable shelter behind which a standard and interlocking fabric of fares, rates, and schedules was constructed, supposedly designed to produce maximum earnings with a minimum of effort.

The carriers did not recognize it, but this static state was rather the first stage of senility. The traveler who remarked that the only innovation introduced by the railways in two generations was a slot for used razor blades in Pullman washrooms had some basis for his criticism. At any rate, commerce resented the attempt to restrict its markets and the old forms of competition by highway and waterway returned with new vigor and vastly improved equipment. Railway response was the cry of the defeatist—"Regulate our competitors." But public support has not been forthcoming. Neither highway nor waterway transportation has any record of the monopolistic abuse that is the background of railway regulation.

But a minority of railway thought preferred action to inaction, and their plans to do something about it by "making over" their facilities are commencing to materialize. As usual, the first steps were directed toward a rejuvenation of passenger service, and air conditioned trains made their appearance. Added comforts, however, would not attract the bus rider or the motorist, so lines in the south and southwest sharply reduced passenger fares. The development of lightweight, streamlined, motor driven trains or single units to cut operating costs was a natural sequence. Revolutionary changes in freight service were next initiated. Door to door service was offered. The speed of freight trains was increased and the latest proposal is to clear away the intricate and troublesome freight classification, with its archaic distinctions, and offer equal door to door service for anything the public may wish to ship.

The future is beginning to clear and our legislators at the next session of congress should hesitate before offering comfort or support to any bill involving the extension of regulation, coördination, public operation, or what not. Not only transportation, but the restoration of commerce, and with it prosperity, are at stake.

FREE PRESS IN SOUTH DAKOTA.

The Supreme court of South Dakota will hear argument Sept. 19 upon an appeal of interest and moment far beyond the confines of that commonwealth. The appeal is that of the Aberdeen American-News, the editor and publisher of which are under penalty of fine and thirty days' imprisonment for contempt of court. Their alleged contempt was publishing a news article and editorial comment upon the action of a local judge in imposing what they felt was a light penalty upon a county auditor who had pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery and then suspending the sentence. The newspaper compared the sentence with others fixed by the same judge for the same offense upon defendants lacking political influence and asserted that the tenderness of the judge in the case of the politician was in significant and scandalous contrast to his sternness toward obscure offenders guilty of the same offense.

Upon this comment the publisher and the editor of the American-News were found guilty of contempt by another local judge in a proceeding initiated by the local bar association. The legal point upon which the judgment for contempt is based is that the proceedings against the auditor had not been completed when the comment was made, the judge having suspended the sentence.

The question that interests the newspaper fraternity is whether a judge by suspending a sentence indefinitly can suspend comment upon his decision indefinitly. It is obvious that if protest against a decision can be postponed long enough its effect will virtually disappear. The suspension of the judgment in the prosecution of the forger was in fact the most important aspect of the leniency condemned by the newspaper. Can a judge commit a public wrong and be free from criticism so long as he perpetuates the wrong? If this is the rule any unscrupulous judge can protect an influential offender by first fixing an inadequate penalty and thereupon protect himself from criticism by keeping his proceeding technically alive by suspending the penalty.

We doubt that this is the intention of the rule against comment on pending proceedings. The rule is reasonable, but it should be interpreted reasonably and in the public interest. In the Aberdeen case as applied by the local judge it becomes an easy device for prohibiting fair comment, either permanently or until its value to the public has been greatly diminished if not utterly destroyed.

ON COWBOY DRIVING.

Back in the days when automobile owners were no more numerous than airplane pilots are today, the sale of a new automobile involved an obligation on the part of the manufacturer to furnish an instructor for a number of driving lessons. Competition also decreed that these instructors should not only be versed in the control of the machine but in addition know something of the "rules of the road," or such state laws as may have existed in those days. It was a high class job, because to be successful the tutor had to combine all of the outstanding qualities of mechanic, lawyer, and diplomat. We could search in vain for his prototype today, because the present buyer usually is an accomplished driver long before he is able to accumulate the down payment—or at least he thinks he is. The lecture on rules of the road usually was delivered during the lesson, and when the pupil was sufficiently advanced to drive with other trafic the first rule was, "When you are driving slowly, stick to the curb. Always leave the center of the road for faster trafic."

Most motorists will agree with us that the center of the road dawdler is the cause of a substantial number of accidents, in very few of which he himself is involved. The motorist behind him who has "somewhere to go" finally in exasperation takes the chance of dodging to the left hand side of the road or follows the equally bad practice of passing the slow poke on the right—cowboy driving, as it is called in the east.

THE TRIBUNE has advocated an increase in the number of signs on rural highways directing the motorist to keep to the right except when passing, as well as educational campaigns by the motorcycle police. We think we have detected some slight improvement. Neither of these methods, however, can be employed effectively on the city's through streets and boulevards. We must rely to a greater extent on the courtesy and consideration of one driver for another. The motorist who is merely taking his family for a little fresh air should realize that if he monopolizes the center of the road he is inciting cowboy driving.

POLITICS BARRED.

The meeting of Mr. Roosevelt and his latest coadjutor, Mr. Sinclair, is not relaxing the strain under which the representatives of the party founded and inspired by Thomas Jefferson have been laboring since the coming of the New Deal. Many of them must have an uncomfortable thought of what happened to the chameleon when placed on a Scotch plaid, and it is not astounding that they are trying to make the most of Mr. Roosevelt's assurance that his conversation with Mr. Sinclair will sternly eliminate "politics."

Under this ruling the conversation between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Sinclair must be a masterpiece of self-restraint to which both participants will have to contribute. There is for an obvious topic literature, Mr. Sinclair being author of numerous works of fiction. But this topic would present to Mr. Roosevelt's politeness the embarrassing necessity of avoiding Mr. Sinclair's own works, since not even Mr. Roosevelt's adroitness could separate the literary elements in Mr. Sinclair's writings from the radical politics which is this man's concern.

There is, however, a topic which must suggest itself reassuringly. As an aspirant to the governorship of California Mr. Sinclair will be ready to discuss the climate, although the weather has sometimes played a part in politics. On the whole this topic seems the most comfortable available for this notable exchange. There is, in fact, a classic precedent for the solution of this diplomatic problem in the case of the stranger at the funeral who, unable to join in the encomiums upon the deceased, announced that he would talk about the California climate. Over the remains of the Democratic party in California what could be a more congenial alternative?

Editorial of the Day

THE TWO EXTREMES.

[Omaha World-Herald.]

In most other lands of our western civilization liberalism is in a state of collapse. Communism, Socialism, Fascism, Naziism, Toryism have displayed it and the free institutions and free society that democracy guarantees are as extinct as the dodo bird.

In the United States we are fighting the good fight to save our democracy from the menace of any and all of these extremes. We are fighting to save personal rights and property rights alike; the rights of rich and poor alike. We are fighting to keep ourselves citizens rather than subjects, freemen in our activities and enterprises and in our political relationships. We are striving to do this by making democracy work successfully, by abolishing privilege, by assuring justice and opportunity and hope for all ranks and orders.

It is a promising and a glorious battle. Increasingly the signs indicate it will be crowned with success, and that the heritage the founding fathers of the republic left for us will be transmitted by us, with accretions, to succeeding generations.

Failure would threaten disaster. For if in the effort to preserve a controling middle ground liberalism were to meet defeat, then here as in other lands communism in some form, Fascism in some form, would come face to face in a death grapple. And victory for either extreme would sound the knell of the democratic liberties that are our birthright.

"East is east and west is west," sang Kipling, "and never the twain shall meet." It is to be hoped that in this instance he will be proved a true prophet. For it would be intensely disturbing to find, some day, a Sinclair meeting a du Pont in battle array for control of what used to be our republic.

U. S. AMBASSADOR to Cuba, Jefferson Caffery, said in a conversation the other day with the American bullfighter, Sydney Franklin, that he had seen many bullfights. And now the State Department at Washington is deluged with demands from earnest reformers who are all het up over Mr. Caffery's admission and who want him recalled or put in jail or something. Dear, dear, it does take so very little to get an earnest reformer all het up!

THE ROAD.

It leads from the town
And up a hill,
Then gently down
To a roving rill.

Across a bridge
It takes its way
Along a ridge,
Then begins to stray

Through a field of gold,
And it lingers there,
Then growing bold
Seeks the upper air.

From the splendid height
You can see a lake
Where, in sunset light,
One's dreams awake.

And dreams are dear—
But so brief the day!
As the stars appear
I must wend my way

Down the hill again,
Through the fields to roam,
Past the bridge, and then
To the town—and home.

OUR FAMILY has an awful argument over the way of cooking lobsters. Nothing drastic, you understand. No divorce. Anyhow, not yet. Of course, nobody can tell what the future will bring forth. Some day there may be a bill for divorce filed on the grounds that the other half of the family doesn't know how to cook lobsters, but not yet. I have always cooked lobsters, and I always buy nice live lobsters that threaten my life by waving their horrible claws in the air, and suddenly baptize them in a big kettle of boiling water. Then the serpent entered our quiet home in the form of an article by a French chef in a popular magazine. That is what will probably end in the divorce courts. People get divorced nowadays for lots less than that. The French chef said that if you have taken the pains to observe you have probably noticed that the lobster that has been plunged into boiling water is tough, that the shock causes it to contract its muscles and pass away all doubled up. The French chef says the proper way to cook live lobsters is to put them on the fire in cold water. The cold water gradually becomes hot, but the lobster never notices it. That's because he's a lobster. He isn't aware of any sudden pain or shock. He's rocked to sleep with a soft lullaby and a good-night kiss, and he goes into a quiet, dreamless, painless slumber and he doesn't have a violent shock and tie all his muscles up in a bow knot. It seems reasonable. Anyhow, it's going to be tried out in our family. If it doesn't work—then the divorce courts. Charge—cruelty to lobsters. I'd hate to file suit for divorce on those grounds; it might seem to reflect a bit on me—but I'll do it, if and when the necessity arises. No chloroform, no drugs, just "Rock Me to Sleep, Mother, Rock Me to Sleep."

How to Keep Well By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries under proper limitations when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Cutter will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual disease.

[Copyright, 1934, By The Chicago Tribune.]

FELONS.

We are always seeking for the rare and the unusual. Many of us perhaps would prefer to read a description of some bizarre and rare disease that has been discovered in an individual living in a hut at the foot of Khyber pass.

Felons are so common that they are infrequently described, and too little practical information is available about them. The end of the finger possesses a peculiar anatomical structure that constitutes a closed sac. A felon is infection within this area. Because pus cannot escape from this space and because the blood supply is shut off when pressure incident to swelling develops, bone destruction is imminent.

The common felon is a cause of much loss of time, and sometimes a crippling deformity may result. The English call felons "whitlows," indicating a suppurating inflammation of the finger, most commonly affecting the terminal, or last, joint.

Whenever bacteria penetrate the skin covering the terminal finger joint a felon may result. This may occur through a slight wound, such as a pin-prick, that is scarcely noted at the moment. Furthermore, the skin, naturally elastic, frequently closes the opening of the wound, preventing drainage and sealing in poisonous material. Neglected skin infections may burrow into the deeper tissues.

The principal symptom occasioned by a deep infection is pain—stabbing in character, later becoming throbbing. The patient is unable to rest, and the last two or three joints of the finger become red and swollen. The diagnosis is made on redness, swelling, pain, and tenderness of the terminal joint of the infected finger.

If antiseptics were promptly applied to the site of injuries in every case there would be but few skin infections, few felons, and few cases of so-called blood poisoning. Many factories keep on hand some such simple and convenient antiseptic as tincture of iodine, and striking statistics have been published from certain industrial concerns proving the marked reduction in hand infections due to the prompt use of some such solution.

As a rule, after cleansing, the site of the infection should be covered with a piece of sterile gauze. In spite of this treatment some bacteria may have penetrated beyond the reach of the antiseptic. If another simple procedure were regularly practiced, namely, soaking the infected area in hot water for an hour at a time several times daily, deep infections such as felons, and even more serious blood stream infections, would be still further reduced.

If the tissue underneath has been involved to any great extent the treatment consists of incision into the abscess and drainage of the accumulated pus. Care should be taken not to make the incision until it is certain pus is present. The trained surgeon will open the abscess in such a way that the sense of touch is not destroyed. Early and skilled attention will prevent bone destruction and avoid the necessity of amputation. Occasionally osteomyelitis, that is, inflammation of the bone itself with bone destruction, occurs. This is rare unless infection has been allowed to continue too long.

Modern surgery owes much to the research of Allen Kanavel, who has brought the management of finger and hand infections to a high degree of perfection.

EATING HABITS.

Mrs. T. W. R. writes: My son for years has been a nervous, jittery person. He has had frequent stomach and intestinal upsets. He always seemed to have gas on his stomach and his abdomen was generally distended. We have had several doctors on the case but nothing they did accomplished very much. The other day he went to a doctor who examined his stool and said it contained a parasite which might be contributing to the nervous condition. He described it as a protozoa and said that while it was not infectious it could be definitly irritating. He said it was not the ameba of the dysentery type.

Is this condition of a living organism in the stool a common one? Does it occur in a normal stool? Would this contribute to a nervous condition such as I have described? Should living matter in the stool be disregarded or should it be given prompt medical attention?

REPLY:

The chances are that your son has bad eating habits. The air that appears to be coming from his stomach has been swallowed either with the food or because of a habit of swallowing saliva frequently. Many nervous persons have this habit. You may remember the first time you had to speak a piece at school, as you waited your turn, full of apprehension, you swallowed very frequently, perhaps until the lips became dry.

Eating slowly, drinking sufficient water between meals, and training one's self not to swallow air will largely obviate the difficulty.

Parasites in the stool may be harmful or harmless. Many of us have ameba coli in the stool. This form is not disease producing. There are many other protozoa, however, that are irritating. On the assumption that your son has a disease producing parasite, it is well to get rid of it.

From Across the Sea

LONDON.—Plans for dropping air mail by parachute over London are being considered by the postoffice in connection with the new inland services which start this month. A combination of clockwork and parachute would be used to check the fall of the bags in a confined space and land them gently.

If the scheme is adopted it will result in an enormous speeding up of air mail deliveries. In the case of air mail from Birmingham to London, a flight of one hour, another hour is required to bring the mails from Croydon airdrome to the chief sorting office, so that there is little or no saving on the two hour journey by rail.

No experiments have yet been made, but the postoffice has been studying the American system, and it is hoped to make an experiment shortly on the same lines. Last year, by the order of the air ministry, a 175 mile an hour plane was built to be equipped with a miniature office for sorting letters in flight, with a trap door for dropping parachute mails, and a device for nonstop picking up of mails from the ground. But the machine crashed during trials.

THE NEW DEAL BIBLE.

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 27.—Turning over the pages of a famous volume, I came across the following passages:

"A prudent ruler neither can nor should keep his word when the keeping of his word will turn against him and when the occasion is over which impelled him to make his promise."

"Men are so simple-minded and so obedient to the present necessity that he who deceives will always find plenty of people ready to be deceived."

"A ruler must have a mind ready to veer wherever the winds and vicissitudes of fortune may carry him. He should, however, take the greatest of care that no word should come from his lips that is not full of noble aspirations. He should pretend, to all who see or hear him, to be all piety, all loyalty, all humanity, all integrity, all religion. For every one sees what you seem to be, few realize what you are, and those few do not dare to go contrary to the opinions of the many."

These paragraphs do not describe the radical personal régime at Washington which at present supersedes our federal representative government. They were written by Niccolo Machiavelli a century before the settlement of New England and 250 years before the framing of the American constitution. But they delineate accurately the methods whereby a ruler obtains and perpetuates his power and they mirror the practices of the New Deal.

Such is the promised land where the dawn of the new day is luring us—beyond the constitution, back to the statecraft of despots from time immemorial. What warant have we that it does not beckon us beyond the dawn of civilization, back into the disastrous realms of chaos and old night?

ELECTION FORECAST.

Milford, Ill., Aug. 28.—I see that the Chicago bus company has had its Blue Eagle taken away from it or has turned in the same. I am of the opinion that if all the big concerns of the country would turn in their Eagles it would be the best thing that ever happened. Down here in the rural districts the people are getting pretty well fed up on the whole business and I look for a Republican victory this fall.

MEANS AND ENDS.

St. Joseph, Ill., Aug. 29.—I saw again a typical Orr cartoon this morning and must register my futile protest. The implications were that the present administration is deliberately fostering industrial disputes, that labor struggles have been uncommon in the past during periods of recovery, that the trade union movement's aim is to coöperate with employers, that industrial management's aim is to look after the best interests of employés. All false, of course.

In the cartoon one also sees the usual TRIBUNE assumptions that socialism is in itself an evil, that trade unionism and private enterprise are in themselves desirable or necessary. All these are not ends, but means to an end. The American tradition is to insure equality of opportunity, together with the fullest freedom of individual action and expression. The function of our economic organization is to produce the greatest possible number of desirable commodities, and to distribute them as widely as possible without violating the above principles of the American tradition. These are the ends, not any "ism" or system.

FRIED CHICKEN DEPARTMENT.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—The fried chicken controversy has been interesting, but the most important point of all has thus far been entirely overlooked by the letter writers. There are various recipes, various methods of seasoning, and some people will prefer one and some another. But regardless of the recipe, one cannot fry chicken perfectly unless a skillet or pan is used which is thick and heavy enough to spread the heat evenly, allow for slow cooking, and prevent the meat from becoming dried out, tasteless, and stringy. For frying chicken you can't beat the old fashioned cast iron skillet that grandmother used. The deeper the skillet the better.

NEWS OF THE CCC BOYS.

Pierce, Idaho, Aug. 25.—We are receiving anxious letters from many mothers about boys on forest fire duty. We have little time to write and no postage money to answer so many letters. Forest fires in Idaho cover thousands of acres. Boys are often unable to mail letters home because of nearly complete isolation in woods 50 to 100 miles from a postoffice. Every fire line has doctors, plenty of excellent food, clothing, and lots of bedding. When men are hurt parents are notified. Very few severe injuries so far to best of my knowledge. I travel on foot, horseback, truck many weary miles to see our CCC boys.

JOB FOR WRECKERS.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—[Friend of the People.]—In the interest of safety I would like to report an unsafe building which is not occupied at present and which is located opposite our property. Children are now destroying this building and it should be immediately torn down to insure public safety.

G. M.

This is a two story brick building, all partitions removed and roof partly gone. This building is on the list of buildings to be wrecked by the Illinois Emergency Relief workers, and will be taken down in the near future.

INSTALMENT PURCHASE.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I bought a used car for $225, paying $100 down, leaving a balance due of $125. Should monthly payments be $13.96 for twelve months, which amounts to $42.50 for carrying charge and insurance?

E. H.

The amount fairly chargeable for insurance depends on what insurance protection is being given. If the charge not attributable to such factors as insurance exceeds 7 per cent per annum, the interest would be usurious and void, unless the transaction is handled through a corporation licensed to make small loans, in which case they can charge 3½ per cent per month.

U. S.-PHILIPPINE TARIF WILL KILL OUR TRADE: JAPAN

Claims It May Have Bad Effect on Relations.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 3.—A foreign office spokesman today explained that the representations made to the United States regarding the proposed American-Philippine tarif were made because the tarif will interfere fundamentally with Japanese trade with the Philippines. It also may have a bad effect on the friendly relations of the United States and Japan, he added.

"There seems to be a misunderstanding at Manila regarding Japan's motive," the spokesman declared. "We are merely acting to save our trade which may be virtually killed if the tarif is enforced."

Claims Exports Are Increasing.

The spokesman pointed out that the Philippines' exports to Japan are increasing rapidly—from 8,900,000 yen in 1931 to over 14 million last year, while Japanese exports were 20,400,000 yen in 1931 and 24 million yen last year, showing that the Filipino increase was greater during the period. However, during the first half of this year Japan increased her exports 50 per cent over last year.

The spokesman denied that Japan ever protested to the United States or the Philippines, but added that Japan feels that the Filipino masses favor cheap goods. He declared the present anti-Japan campaign was launched by a minority who produce goods and it is regrettable that theirs is the only voice heard.

Attack Japanese Protest.

MANILA, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Both Filipino and American newspapers of Manila tonight attacked Japanese representations to Washington and Manila concerning a proposed increase of insular tarifs on foreign imports, designed to protect the free trade between the United States and the Philippines.

Echoing earlier expressions of resentment by legislators, the newspapers said Japanese objections were at least premature, since the tarif bill had not been introduced and hearings had not been scheduled.

La Vanguardia, which is a Filipino owned, Spanish language afternoon paper, asserted:

The Filipino owned Philippines Herald suggested:

"If Japan protests when the Philippines are still under the American flag, she may protest too much when the Philippines are independent."

The Philippines are free to reach any accord as a sovereign nation in the same manner that Japan is free to deal with her possessions, contended the Bulletin, American owned. It added:

"This is a simple case where two are company and three are a crowd. Intentionally or unintentionally, the Japanese are working themselves into a position threatening the United States and the Philippines jointly."

Crop Race a Tie

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Sept. 3, 1934.

THE 1934 cow pea race is about to come to an end at THE TRIBUNE'S Experimental Farm. Almost every one of the thousands of visitors at the farm this summer have been told about the "nip and tuck" race between these two cow peas with names as fascinating as favorites at the Kentucky Derby or Hawthorne tracks. At first Whip-poor-will was in the lead and was a favorite among those following the race, not only because it was ahead but because Bob Becker, outdoor editor of THE TRIBUNE, acting as publicity man for this lowly legume, had made Whip-poor-will a byword, almost as common as Man o' War and Dan Patch.

Black Eye, the other cow pea in the race, has been coming to the front lately and is expected to finish two weeks ahead of Whip-poor-will. But technical judges have decided to call the race a tie because both Whip-poor-will and Black Eye will come under the wire before frost.

They were started at the same time, May 16. Records kept at the farm show that the Black Eye cow peas started blooming July 16, slightly earlier than the Whip-poor-wills. Today 35 per cent of the pea pods on the Black Eye vines are mature, while only about 10 per cent are ripe on the Whip-poor-wills.

The Black Eye peas have plants about 28 inches tall with vines averaging 2 feet in length; some are 4 feet long. Some of the pods are 16 inches long and will average more than 6½ inches. The peas of this variety are larger than those of the Whip-poor-will. In a few cases there are as many as 18 of the peas with black eyes in a pod; they will average from 10 to 12 in a pod. So far there are no signs of shattering. Cow peas grown in wet years have tendency to shatter.

The men at the farm observe no great difference in the two varieties except that the Black Eye is considered about ten days to two weeks earlier than the Whip-poor-will. The Black Eyes will produce a slightly higher yield of both peas and hay. Despite the drouth this variety would produce more than a ton and a half of hay to the acre if the vines were cut and cured. The vines of the Black Eye are somewhat coarser than the other variety.

Both varieties will be harvested for seed instead of hay. Plans are being made to cut the Black Eyes in about a week; they will then be ripe enough to thresh.

Experience with cow peas at THE TRIBUNE farm this year would indicate that they can be profitably grown even in a dry season in Kendall county, where few have been produced in previous years. They make an excellent roughage to be fed along with soy beans or other forage to live stock. The sugar content of the cow peas is greater than it is in soy beans, according to Paul Sleezer. The pea vines with the peas attached may be fed alone with safety, while many farmers believe it is best to feed soy beans with other roughage to avoid the danger of caked udders in dairy cows.

Black Eye and Whip-poor-will peas will be planted at the farm again next year. All the seed are being saved and will be planted in rows 36 inches apart to facilitate cultivation. This year the peas were planted in double rows 21 inches apart, but Clarence Thurow, manager, believes he can produce a better crop where they are not so thick.

Cow peas, like soy beans, resist the attacks of chinch bugs. Leaf hoppers and button weed were the worst enemies of the peas this season.

The peas are sometimes used as a human food when soaked and cooked as ordinary dry peas and beans.

JAPANESE DRYS URGE PREMIER TO GIVE UP DRINK

TOKIO, Sept. 3.—(AP)—A delegation of the Japan Prohibition league visited Premier Keisuki Okada today and urged that the sakeh loving official give up the use of alcohol. The premier listened long enough to ascertain the object of his visitors, and then turned away without answering.

Premier Okada's fondness for sakeh, and his ability to dispose of impressive quantities of that strong drink, have long been a subject of comment by Japanese newspapers, which display little reticence in discussing the intimate affairs of distinguished citizens. Okada started building his reputation as a drinker when he was a young naval officer, and his reputation in that respect grew as he climbed to the position of admiral.

The delegation of prohibitionists urged that the premier renounce alcohol "at this time when Japan is facing a grave international crisis."

DOCTOR CHARGES PATIENTS WASTE 485 MILLIONS

Pasadena, Cal., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Dr. J. L. Pomeroy, president of the western branch of the American Public Health association, today urged the medical profession to present a plan providing for medical services at a reasonable cost to all persons earning less than $1,500 a year.

Speaking before 3,000 persons at the opening session of the 63d annual meeting of the American Public Health association and of the fifth annual meeting of the western branch here, Dr. Pomeroy, Los Angeles county health officer, declared:

"The medical profession must concern itself with the passage of basic scientific laws to regulate the tremendous growth in America of cultists.

"This situation is largely the result of the laissez faire [let that alone] policy or the so-called rugged individualism so frequently advanced as the solution of our many difficulties."

Dr. Pomeroy estimated that cultists take 125 million dollars annually from the American public, or a sum equal to the total appropriation of all health departments in the United States. He said the American public also spent approximately 360 million dollars annually for patent medicines and pure quackery.

Dr. Pomeroy protested against what he termed was the tendency to permit the individual to exhaust his resources and likewise reach an advanced stage of his disease before the government may help him.

"In such diseases as tuberculosis, cancer, and many others not only is the cost to the government far greater," he said, "but as far as the patient is concerned much too late.

"President Roosevelt recently promised that at the next session of congress a message will be given the people concerning social insurance.

"In our brief review of the situation as it affects the health services for the American people may be express the hope that this message will contain a definite plan covering the problems of unemployment, of security for the home, and for medical care for working men and women of America."

JAPANESE SHIFT FIERY ADMIRAL TO NEW POSITION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Sept. 3.—Admiral Nobumasa Suetsugu, commander of the combined Japanese fleet, will be shifted to the position of supreme war councillor, and will be succeeded by Admiral Shushin Nagano in November.

The shifting of Suetsugu, who is regarded as a fiery petrel, is expected to have considerable effect on moderating the Japanese stand for preliminary negotiations pertaining to the 1935 naval conference.

Admiral Nagano is considered far more liberal. However, Suetsugu's changed position does not mean that he is being shelved, by any means. As a member of the supreme council he will be backed by Admiral Kanji Kato, another strong navy man and the highest ranking man today.

Illinois Garden Club Invited to Winnetka Tour

North Shore Group to Be Hostess Monday.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WELL aware that early autumn is one of the loveliest times of the year in the garden, the Winnetka Garden club has invited the members of the Garden Club of Illinois to be its guests all day next Monday. This means that at least 100 women from all parts of the state with whom the cultivation of flowers and vegetables is something of a religion will be coming for a day's outing on the north shore.

Not for a dozen years or more has the Winnetka club played hostess to the state group, according to Mrs. Robert H. Gardner, the Winnetka president. The day is to start off with a luncheon at 12:30 at the Indian Hill club and continue with a tour of some of the most attractive gardens in the village—and it is well known that the suburb is full of pretty gardens.

John Stuart Garden Among First on Tour.

One of the first visits on the tour will be at the handsome Sheridan road home of the John Stuarts, where Mrs. Stuart will take her guests on a trip about her grounds. Then the party will go on to Mrs. Langdon Pearse's garden—Mrs. Pearse is a former president of the Winnetka Garden club—and from there to that of Mrs. Alice Drake Miller on De Windt road. The last garden the group will visit will be that of the Leslie Cooks, but from the Cook home the Winnetka hostesses will take their visitors to the North Shore garden center in the Community house.

This center was started and has been operated by the Winnetka club as a medium for giving out authoritative garden information. Any one may come to it and receive knowledge about gardening gratis. The afternoon's trip is to be open to as many out of town guests as can be in Winnetka next Monday, but of necessity the luncheon is limited to an officer and two members of each of the member clubs of the Garden Club of Illinois.

Garden Club to Start Circulating Library.

Apropos of gardening, Mrs. Lawrence W. Scudder of Lake Forest, who is the first vice president of the Garden Club of Illinois, is coming home from an eastern holiday the middle of this month to start work on a new project in which she is especially interested. Mrs. Scudder is opening a circulating library for the state club on Nov. 1 with the headquarters in the garden club offices in the Palmer house. Mrs. Scudder will send letters to all of the state clubs with the list of books and details of the plan, which includes mailing the books to the clubs. While down east Mrs. Scudder has purchased a number of volumes such as Richardson Wright's "Story of Gardening" and "What Greater Delight" by Dulcie Smith.

The same day, Sept. 10, the Winnetka Garden club entertains the Lake Geneva Garden club will wind up its season with a musical and annual election of officers.

Mills Hanley Nuptials Today.

A north shore wedding today is that of Miss Mary Virginia Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Gurney Mills of Glencoe, and John H. Hanley, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lee Hanley of Youngstown, O. The service is to be read by Dr. Douglas Cornell of the Glencoe Union church at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents at 790 Sheridan road, with a reception following in the gardens.

Miss Mills will be attended by her sister, Mrs. Gavion N. Elwood of Joliet [the former Ruth Mills], as matron of honor. Her tiny niece, Mary Janice Elwood, will be her flower girl and little William Elwood will be the ring bearer. Mr. Hanley is to have Stanley Hall of Urbana for his best man and ushering will be Gavion Elwood and Edgar Hill.

Mr. Hanley and his bride are to make their home in Urbana, where he is a member of the faculty of the University of Illinois.

JUNIOR GIRL'S DRESS.

Mothers, no doubt, are busy planning smart and practical dresses for their daughters' school wardrobes, and it will be wise to have dresses that can be pressed easily and kept conditioned for classroom wear. The dress shown here is smart and simple, and if you copy the original model you'll have a darling dress. It was a gray tweed with the bow of emerald green velvet, and the tether belt matched the bow. The collar and cuffs were made of white linen, starched, and made detachable.

The pattern, No. 3255, comes in sizes 10, 12, 14, and 16 years.

Sew a fine seam. Sew almost anything, in fact, with the aid of the booklet "How to Make Better Dresses," now available at Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower, and Hall of Science, at A Century of Progress. It's only 10 cents.

FOR-THE-HONOR-OF-THE-UNIVERSITY note. Dr. Arthur Holly Compton's midget balloon was about to take off for the stratosphere from the roof of the Ryerson laboratory at the University of Chicago. The tiny gondola had been sealed and a note penciled on the outside to identify the apparatus. Publicity Director William V. Morgenstern scanned the message critically.

"Maybe no one will find this," he said, "but we can't let misspelled words go out of the university." And he put another "l" into "balloon,," which a hurried prof. [not Dr. Compton] had spelled baloon.

RICHEY POOR (the name is not a gag, as we once suspected) tells about the Chicago gourmet who is on a diet. He takes business trips about the country frequently, and one of his difficulties is getting his breakfast eggs cooked according to the prescriptions of his diet. Hence at the Mayflower hotel in Washington recently he said to the waiter at breakfast:

"Have the chef put one and one-half teaspoons of vinegar into the water, two pinches of salt, and a dash of red pepper, bring it to a quick boil, and cook the eggs exactly two minutes and forty seconds."

When the waiter brought in the cereal he asked the breakfaster to repeat the directions. He did so and the waiter disappeared, to come back shortly, looking flustered.

"Better take 'em scrambled, mister," he said.

Good Morning!

Love. YOUNG love.

You might describe the opus under discussion as a mother love affair with a football influence. It has more mother love than football, but the hero is a college boy who plays football after a fashion, and she who guards and guides him is a "biddy" in his dormitory—a "biddy" who is none other than his dear, unknown mother, brought to such traits through interference in her youthful romance by the lad's grandparents.

Chris isn't much to brag about when he enters college. A spoiled, uppity somebody—all that way because he was deprived of mother love for so many years. But the "biddy," once she knows him for who and what he is, takes her chicken under her wing and turns him out to be quite a snappy cockerel.

HIS love affair with a nice girl she nourishes and abets. The picture ends with views of a joyous bridal pair waving a fond good-by to a beaming "biddy" who has found life pretty well worth while after all.

The slight story isn't so very believable—but it has its moments. The cast is ahead of yarn and direction. You will find Richard Cromwell and Anita Louise appealing, and want to root a bit for the undaunted mother as portrayed by Jean Arthur—who ages in true moom pitcher fashion.

See you tomorrow.

Uniontown, Pa., Sept. 3.—(AP)—The palatial 52 room mansion of the late J. V. Thompson, coal baron, and his glamorous actress wife, Honey Hawes, today became a convent.

The massive structure in which the Thompsons lived in the heyday of J. V.'s career—while he was monarch of the bituminous coal industry—henceforth is to be known as the mother house of the Sisters of St. Basil the Great of the Greek Catholic church.

With sixty-five nuns occupying pews in a little chapel—the same room in which thousands of dollars changed hands over roulette wheels which J. V. provided for his guests—Bishop Basil Takach formally accepted the convent.

Thompson died in the home in comparative poverty about a year ago, aged and broken by tumbling financial reverses. His wife, upon whom he was reputed to have settled more than $1,000,000, had divorced him years before.

Finds "Follies" Are Worthy of Ziegfeld Name

"ZIEGFELD FOLLIES OF 1934."

A revue produced under the auspices of Mrs. Florenz Ziegfeld [Billie Burke], under the stage direction of Bobby Connolly and John Murray Anderson. Score by Vernon Duke and Samuel Pokrass. Lyrics by E. Y. Harburg. Opening performance in the Grand Opera House, Sept. 3, 1934.

THE PRINCIPALS:

Fannie Brice	Willie Howard
Eugene Howard	Barre Hill
Victor Morley	Vivian Janis
June Preisser	Cherry Preisser
Nella Goodelle	Eva Arden
Loretta Dennison	Bruce Hutchins

Harrison and Fisher.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

If the "Ziegfeld Follies of 1934" is to be taken as a transitory memorial for the dead impresario whose name it bears, it must be received as completely worthy of his sumptuous career as master of the revels for the American playgoer. It carries on the tradition triumphantly.

On the other hand, if it is to be viewed as a show in itself, without historic or sentimental background, it is equally a triumphant affair. It is completely capable of standing on its isolated merits as a rich and gay entertainment, copious in song, pageantry, dancing, and humor.

The arrival of this elaborate revue at the Grand Opera house last night should be cause for rejoicing among the theatergoers of Chicago, who haven't seen anything in its class for at least two years. The full-blown Broadway song and dance spectacles have become scarce, even on their native thoroughfare, of late, and they have been avoiding this city with painful persistence. Last season's alleged revues, born and bred in Chicago, were so inept that they cannot be recalled without a shudder. Therefore the appearance of the revived "Follies," to mark the opening of a new theatrical year, is an occasion for lusty cheers.

A striking aspect of this show is that it is not an affair of veterans, although it carries the traditions of almost thirty years of Ziegfeld's florid and fantastic spectacles. Fannie Brice, of course, is a star whose career runs back into the halcyon days of Ziegfeldism, but she does not appear to have aged a day in the last fifteen years. Willie and Eugene Howard, too, are stalwarts out of the great period when the American stage was a luxurious growth, but they are vigorous young fellows, apparently today. Victor Morley is also a brisk survivor of that rich and merry time. But the others in this "Follies" are young; moreover they are talented and captivating. Most of them are new to me, and I watched them go through their clever paces with a sense of discovery.

Miss Brice's appearances on the extensive program are frequent and highly diverting. She begins with an impish ditty called "Soul Saving Sadie," in which she impersonates a Yiddish girl who has become an evangelist in the style of Aimee Semple McPherson. Then she figures in a sketch which satirizes the barnyard playhouses of the eastern landscape and the pseudo-intellectual dramas that deal, as the dialog states with "rape and adultery."

Next, Miss Brice impersonates a fiendish infant named Snooks, under trial by her parents as a congenital liar. A number called "Countess Dubinsky," in which she represents a Russian aristocrat working in a burlesque show, gives Miss Brice an opportunity to travesty the fan dancers of the year. It is a fan dance to end all fan dancing, and a jest that might have been concocted especially for Chicago, which has become the metropolis of the cult. "Sarah the Sunshine Girl," another satiric ballad, concludes Miss Brice's exceedingly amusing portion of the entertainment.

Willie Howard's vigorous gift for grotesque comedy is given free play in several sketches and burlettas, and his faithful brother, Eugene, the singer of the family, is also an able contributor to the pranks whose worldliness never drops to the point of vulgarity. Barré Hill, a young man with a fine baritone voice, chants such song hits as "To the Beat of the Heart" and "Wagon Wheels" with excellent results.

Harrison and Fisher, a team of specialty dancers, perform with bizarre grace and vivid pantomime. June and Cherry Preisser represent a new and charming note in sister acts. Vivian Janis, who is a soubrette version of Joan Crawford in appearance, is a smart young entertainer; Neila Goodelle is a picturesque brunette singing girl; Eva Arden, who acts in the sketches, is an attractive personality; Bruce Hutchins pairs off neatly with Miss Janis in a bit of song writing called "I Like the Likes of You," and Judith Arden leads the ensembles winsomely. These young people of the "Follies" are a promising group. The chorus girls are numerous and many of them are worthy of that old Ziegfeldian gag about glorification.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

There's a cologne that is beautiful at any time, but that seems to us particularly glorious with autumn moods and autumn costumes. It has a tang about it that's just right with tweed suits and long walks and rich colors. This French cologne, which, by the way, comes in one of the most beautiful of bottles, is an ideal one for the woman who prefers the tailored motif, both in life and in clothes, to the frilly one.

There's nothing sickeningly sweet about it. Rather it's brisk and zestful and subtly sophisticated. Though it's not a perfume, nor an infusion, the scent clings well and the woman who uses it wisely always has about her a fragrance that is clean but faintly tantalizing.

It's a beautiful body rub, but we like it best applied with an atomizer. It's more economical, for one thing, and the scent itself seems to us more cleverly diffused. A bit in the bath water is elegant in the morning and at night you can feel like a duchess if you spray it on hair and hands and throat.

The woman who doesn't like to use perfume during business hours will like this—and there will be no sneers fro.. the people round her who object to scents. This one is so crisp and fresh that it is beautifully adapted to the business atmosphere and dress. It has a dash that distinguishes its wearer, but it's not the least overpowering.

You can buy it in numerous shops around town.

There Are Swanky Gloves for Crisp Dresses.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Trot downtown and see all the new things! Exciting clothes, superslim daytime dresses that you can wear right away, part of the best looking loot in the shops! Shop for the gayest and maddest hats ever pulled out of a nest of rustling tissue paper! Snoop around and see the swanky gloves you crush smartly over the long sleeves of the crisp and neat one piece woolen dresses! Look at the handbags and see if you are strong enough to resist their charm!

And don't miss the fall footwear. These first showings of inky black and spicy brown suede numbers are always worth all the time you spend hanging over them, trying to decide how many you must have. Slip your exploring fingers inside the filmy snares of off-black and deep black stockings that are undoubtedly the thinnest things on the counters. If you wear black hosiery, do wear them sheer.

Go on a buying binge. It's the best tonic known to the sex that keeps money in circulation, after a long summer of battling the daily stunt of washing white gloves, cleaning white shoes and keeping crisp the many white collars, bows, and cuffs. It's a blessed relief to slip into daringly bright thin wool dresses with deep dark costume accents—the gloves, hats, shoes, and handbags that are now ready.

The most glittering teasers in town are the cocktail blouses. Just what you want for the top of a black velvet or dull crêpe, long, slit skirt. Next are the twinkling short cocktail slippers, made of faille or corded silk, with grand dizzy high heels, frivolous bow ties and big eyelets of gleaming metal or rhinestones. They can be found in black and dark brown.

There are lots of other equally disturbing new arrivals in all the shops, potent pick-me-ups for the rejuvenation of a battered and well worn summer wardrobe.

BLAZING GUNS

By WILLIAM MacLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Landis inherited the Lazy B ranch from her uncle. It adjoins the Circle 3 T ranch, owned by Chet Radbourne, powerful boss in the county, who is Mary's legal guardian. He has been stealing Mary's cattle and trying to force her to marry him. To escape his tyranny Mary marries Cole Sanborn, fearless young outlaw and suspected train robber, within an hour after meeting him. There is bitter enmity between Cole and the Circle 3 T brand. The marriage is one in name only, giving them both better advantage to fight their common enemy. Lory Haskell, Radbourne's foreman, brought Mary to the Jonesboro house, where she met Cole. Haskell had given Cole an hour to get out of town. Cole plans to find a home for Mary in the town while he goes to her ranch as foreman, expecting plenty of trouble to break. Mary writes a note to Mrs. Peters, whose husband is a leading citizen of the town. They both call to see her.

INSTALMENT VIII.

MORE FRIENDS.

The rough hewn countenance of Hal Peters registered surprise and resentment. He knew Sanborn by sight and by reputation.

"What does this mean, sir?" he asked stiffly.

Mary came forward, timidly. She felt shy and embarrassed at being found alone in a bedroom with these men.

"Please come in," she invited. "I'm Mary Landis, and I'm in trouble. Mr. Sanborn thought you might be willing to help me."

"What has Mr. Sanborn to do with this?" His swift glance swept over the three hillmen and came back to her. "In your note you didn't mention——"

"I know," she interrupted. "We were afraid you wouldn't come if you knew he had anything to do with it. Maybe it wasn't candid, but I need help so badly. You will come in and hear my story, won't you?"

Peters hesitated. There was something strange and sinister about this. He had heard about this girl and been sorry for her, but no good woman had anything to do with Cole Sanborn.

Mrs. Peters took the decision out of his hands. She walked past him into the room and shook hands with the girl. "Of course, we'll listen to it," she said warmly. This young woman needed friends, especially one of her own sex. That was all Jessie Peters needed to know.

Tears misted the eyes of Mary. It had been so long since she had met kindness from such a woman.

"You are good to me," she said simply. "Will you and Mr. Peters sit down, please?"

Mary told her story, as briefly as she could, beginning with the time when she had come to Boone county to take over the property left her. She made clear the hopelessness of her condition and then mentioned the desperate remedy at which she had jumped.

"And of course it is right," his wife said quickly, "You agree with me about that, Hal, do you not?"

Peters cried out, amazed: "Good God, you don't mean that—you have married this man Sanborn?"

"That's what she is telling you, sir," Cole answered. "Out of the frying pan into the fire."

But—but—if you knew——"

"I know," Mary said quietly. A tide of color was flushing her cheeks, but she held her head up and her eyes were steady. "I've heard all the stories. Mr. Sanborn himself warned me. He said it wouldn't do. He tried to dissuade me. But—there was nothing else ahead of me except something worse than death. I made my choice of my own free will. I married the only man I know who will fight to save me. Whatever he has done—I believe in him."

She continued to look at Peters, but her hand went out to meet that of the man she had just married. The gesture was wholly impulsive, and it set a wild song singing in the veins of Cole Sanborn. She trusted him to keep faith. He would do it until the crashing guns sounded faint in his ears and he sank into death.

Cole spoke, in a voice tutored to dryness. "This is the point, Mr. Peters. I can't take Mrs. Sanborn with me, for I'm up against the guns of forty killers. She won't leave and go back to her old home, even if I could get her through to the railroad. Where will she be safe from Chet Radbourne?"

"In our house," Mrs. Peters said swiftly. "He wouldn't dare take her back to his ranch against her will if the whole town knows she wants to stay here. Even Mr. Radbourne couldn't do that."

"I'm not so sure," Peters demurred cautiously. "He's a wily fox. Probably he would appeal to the law. In any case, this is a serious matter, not one to be jumped at hurriedly. There are several angles to it."

Sanborn looked straight at the lawyer. "One of them is that he will consider it an unfriendly act for any one to shelter her against his wishes. It may not be a safe thing to do."

The attorney flushed. "I have never claimed to be a friend of Chet Radbourne. In this town that is well known. If Mrs. Peters and I decide it is right to ask this young lady to our house you may be sure we shall do so."

"And, of course, it is right," his wife said quickly. "You agree with me about that, Hal, do you not?"

Peters hesitated a fraction of a second. "Yes, we shall be glad to have Miss Landis as our guest."

"Mrs. Sanborn," the girl corrected quietly.

"It was a slip. I meant to say Mrs. Sanborn."

None the less, Cole knew Peters was against him, just as he was against Radbourne. The lawyer would welcome Mary in her own right; not as the wife of an outlaw.

Mary thanked Mrs. Peters and her husband. "It is a great deal for you to do. It may bring you trouble, and you do not know me at all. I am very grateful."

"Nonsense," answered Mrs. Peters briskly. "It will do us good to have a young person in the house."

"I shall never forget your kindness," Mary insisted. "Never, as long as I live. I wish I didn't have to impose on you, for it isn't a light thing to make an enemy of Mr. Radbourne."

"Better wait here until you hear from me," Cole told Peters. "I'm going over to Casey's to have a talk with Haskell. Likely the house is watched now. I'll arrange with him to call off his boys."

"How will you arrange that?" the attorney asked bluntly.

Cole smiled, but there was no softness in the smile. "We'll have a little talk." He turned to the cowboys. "Let's drift."

"I d-don't care a billy-be-damn where C-Chet is," Pete said. "I ain't looking for him none."

"Surprise Mr. Haskell."

"You'll be very careful, won't you?"

"Careful is my middle name," he told her.

With which he led the way out of the room, followed by his two men.

The fire had died in the hill crotch and left a lake of deep purple with edges of glittering crimson. Soon night would flow over the valley.

Dave Pope stood on the porch of the Jonesboro house and looked up and down the street. A man was standing among the horses at the hitchrack in front of Blossom's Emporium. Another was in the doorway of the Haven of Rest. A third sat in a window frame of the new store that was going up. None of them moved. No casual loafers were on the street.

The two separated. Pete sauntered across the road and joined the motionless figure at the door of the Haven of Rest. Dave moved toward the hitchrack at Blossom's. Neither of them hurried. As he passed the unfinished store Dave cocked an eye up to the window frame.

Cole Sanborn walked into the picture. He strode lightly across the road, looking neither to right nor left, straight for the Haven of Rest. He did not linger. Nor did he hasten. Though his friends protected flank and rear, a bullet might come flying out of the night at him. That was a chance he had to take. Dave and Pete, by their silent presence, said "Cheek!" to the men posted for the attack. This might be enough, since the victim was walking to the place where Jerry Haskell waited, and was not trying to escape. Cole was betting high stakes that it would, but he could not be sure.

He reached Casey's place and passed through the swing door. Pete did not at once follow. He did not want the guard stationed there to shoot Sanborn in the back. Cole would have to play a lone hand, for the moment at least.

Those in the Haven of Rest saw Cole the instant he came into the room. The dealer at a poker game stopped, cards suspended in air. Roulette players forgot to place their bets. The bartenders stared, their eyes fixed on the newcomer.

Has No "Dating" Interest.

"Dear Miss Blake: A boys tells me he likes me, but doesn't ask me out. Why? PUZZLED."

He's fond of you, appreciates your good qualities, etc., but apparently you're not the type that arouses his "dating" interest.

Slapping Not for Adults.

"Dear Miss Blake: Is it right for a fellow to slap a girl, if she slaps him first? RUTH."

Reverting to the days of your childhood, Ruth? Slapping doesn't fit into the picture from any angle when you have grown up.

Child's Physical Fault May Have Mental Cause

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Enuresis with older children is a different matter from the lack of bladder control we find in babies and extremely young children. The latter is due to the youngness of the child and all that that implies. Under normal conditions and with a reasonably intelligent handling the little children learn gradually the technique which we call toileting. Where this lack of control is found in much older children, it is a different matter and requires a different approach.

We have had over a period of time a number of letters from distressed parents and from matrons of homes asking for help. Various things are at the root of this lack of control—either day or night. One possible cause that must be eliminated first is a physical one. A competent doctor must decide this.

Often there is a psychological cause too subtle for an outside person at long distance to discern. That the habit is undesirable we must admit. That enuresis may persist at night in a perfectly normal boy is a proven fact. In five cases that have come within my own scope of experience it has been habitual until the boys reached adolescence—when the habit disappeared of itself. In one of these cases there was an underlying unhappiness and lack of stability. In the others there was no apparent cause.

Various means—direct and indirect—are used to cure enuresis. If one had access to a fine clinic or able psychologist, first hand advice would be best. In lieu of that we have a new leaflet containing suggestions for the cure of this lack of control in older children. It will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Letter X.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices. One South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower, and Hall of Science, A Century of Progress.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"The Letter X" is about the simplest and easiest pattern to piece the novice quilter could select. A smart combination of colors will contribute much to its effectiveness. Quilt historians date the origin of the block as far back as 1800 and name Connecticut as its native state. The extreme simplicity of the pattern makes it ideal for men's and boys' rooms.

Hygienic Attention to Teeth of Children Is Parental Duty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It is important that children should be made to assume the responsibility of the care of their teeth, brushing them morning and night and after meals, but mothers should realize that every child also needs supervision in toothbrushing as well as in other health measures. Too often their teeth are really neglected, not intentionally, as parents are perhaps too willing to accept the child's word for having done a good job. It may have been done, but not properly. A frequent check during the tooth brushing period will be most effective and will impress the child with the importance of proper brushing. Time and thought must be given to this operation. Every surface of the tooth must be brushed, between the teeth, as well as the exposed surfaces so food will not lodge around the teeth to cause fetid breath and tooth decay.

Attractive brushes and pleasant dentifrices should be provided so that the child may find pleasure in performing this task. Usually they look upon it as a drudgery, and something to be avoided, if possible. Let the bristles be of the proper size to fit into the mouth and into the small crevices of the teeth, to get all around the teeth, without filling the mouth too full of bristles. Let the handle of the brush be attractive in color and design. These things are helpful in making the task a pleasure.

The enamel which is the protective covering of the teeth consists mainly of calcium and phophorus. If the child is to have strong teeth these elements must be provided. Milk, eggs, meat, fish, dairy products and whole grain cereals will do it. Certain vitamins are necessary and are provided through the consumption of butter, milk, cheese, spinach, carrots, oranges, lemons, grapefruit, tomatoes and cod liver oil. It is a wise parent who will devote some time to the study of diet and know how large a part healthful foods play in the development of sound teeth and good health.

Girl Prefers Association of Older Escorts

BY DORIS BLAKE.

What about these girls in their teens who find the boys of their own age compare very unfavorably with the older men—say those from twenty-two to thirty. Are they to ignore their school friends and concentrate on the mature gentlemen?

Katherine tells us her experience. "I am just past seventeen. Both of my parents are dead. I finished high school not long ago and came to live with my married sister, who is twenty-four. Since I have lived with her I have met lots of men from the ages of twenty-two to thirty. They like to play tennis, go to ball games, swim, dance, and lots of other things that I like to do. Having pretty good jobs, they can afford to take me to nice places.

"I dislike petting, and these older men do not annoy me with their love-making, although some of them have wanted me to go steady. I've always said no, for while I like them all a lot there isn't one that I'd really like to go with."

Katherine is apparently a bit older than her years. Probably her association with the older group is responsible for that. But I don't think she should look with disparaging eye upon those lads of her own age. She can't skip entirely that period of teen age companionships. If she bars the younger escorts she automatically bars the girls of her own age, all the abandon and enthusiasm of carefree youth, which comes only once in a lifetime, the teens.

We suspect Katherine hasn't yet met the proper type of young man. When she does, all the sophistication and all the money in the world will fade into insignificance.

Fortunes Built in Hollywood Despite Slump

Several Movie Folk Find Clouds Silver Lined.

BY ROSALIND SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Five years ago the famous "Black Friday" of Wall street hit the unsuspecting movie folk an awful wallop just as it did the rest of the world. A lot of movie fortunes that were never to be remade slipped away. Others have done better, recovering some of their money, while still others have carved out a cheery smile on the stony face of Dame Fortune.

The late Marie Dressler made her famous comeback in "Caught Short," a comedy based on the stock crash. She piled up a fortune in the years that followed.

James Dunn, who dropped his bankroll in the market just when he figured he had learned the combination, won a movie contract at Fox's immediately thereafter, and has since earned more money than he dreamed of in former days. Previously he had been tested and refused by practically every studio in town.

Jack Durant and Frank Mitchell, knockabout comedy team, lost all their profits in the 1929 fold-up, and, since it had all been earned through falls and bumps, it wasn't funny at all. Today they are featured in their third film at Fox's and have long term contracts.

Clark Gable has "upped" since the depression, plenty.

Herbert Mundin back in 1929 was speculating as to when he could look for a break in the clouds that had settled down about his pudgy form. Good breaks began not long after and today he's a very much in demand comedian.

Mae West bloomed forth as the box office sensation of the movie industry's own particular depression. There have been no clouds on her horizon to dim the glitter of her sparklers.

Henry B. Walthall in 1929 was in practical oblivion. His resources were at low ebb. Today he has made such a success in his latest picture, "Judge Priest," with Will Rogers that he is a contract player at a nice figure with important rôles again.

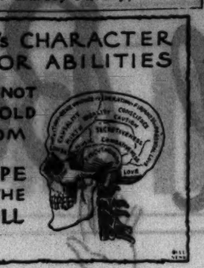
The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.



It was once believed that the "bumps" on one's head were indications of characteristics and abilities of that person. A so-called "science" of phrenology sprang up around this theory. Modern scientific investigations, including comparisons of thousands of persons with similar skull features, have proved that there is little, if any, relation between skull shapes and mental abilities.

Illinois Garden Club Invited to Winnetka Tour

have decided to present their debutante daughter, Miss Betty Rich, at a dinner dance Dec. 27 in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer house. Miss Rich is in the east at the moment with Miss Betty Brooks, Mrs. Mason Phelps' debutante daughter, going to a round of early fall debut parties. They will not return until late September. Mrs. Rich, who has been ill, is well on the way to recovery now. She thinks that the family will move in town for a few weeks around Christmas time so that Miss Rich will be conveniently near the holiday whirl. After the first of the year they will all go to Florida, as is their custom.

On Sept. 12, the night after the Chauncey Borlands and their family return from a summer in Camden, Me., Mr. and Mrs. Borland are giving their debutante daughter, Martha, the first of three parties at which she will make her bow to society.

This will be a small dinner dance at the Deerpath inn in Lake Forest. The details are now being worked out by long distance wire with Mrs. Uri Grannis here. In October Mr. and Mrs. Borland will have a reception for their daughter at their town apartment at 2450 Lake View avenue and during the holidays, probably the evening of Dec. 22, they will give her a second dinner dance at the Casino. It has been tentatively planned that the last party will be a joint one, the Howell B. Ermingers entertaining for their debutante daughter, Bertha, at the same time.

Albert H. Noyeses to Give Tea for Daughters.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Noyes are giving a tea next Sunday afternoon in their Winnetka home on Sunset road for their two daughters, Mrs. Charles A. Howe and Miss Jane Noyes. Miss Noyes is not listed among the debutantes of this winter, but she probably will attend a good many of the parties, for she has many friends in the debutante set as she had among last year's buds. She finished at Roycemore school and has just returned to Winnetka after two months abroad. Mrs. Howe lives in Evanston.

An engagement announced recently in Pasadena is of interest to Chicagoans because it concerns Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. White and their daughter, Miss Marjorie White, former residents of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. White announced the engagement of their daughter to John S. Blankenhorn, son of David Blankenhorn of Los Angeles and Mrs. Maurice Wells of New York City.

Miss White, who made her debut in California last winter, attended the University School for Girls here and Farmington and Mme. Latapie's in Paris. Mr. Blankenhorn is a graduate of Hill school. The wedding will take place the middle of this month.

Miss Mary McElwain and Henry P. C. W. Barber, who are to be married Saturday evening in St. Mark's church, are being entertained this week at several parties. The parents of the bride-to-be, Bishop and Mrs. Frank Arthur McElwain, will give the bridal dinner Thursday night at the Georgian hotel for the immediate families and the members of the wedding party. This group includes Miss Caroline McElwain, the maid of honor; Mrs. Frank A. McElwain Jr. of Minneapolis, the matron of honor; Miss Alicia Barber, the bridegroom's sister, and Mrs. Harry M. Schoening of Minneapolis, bridesmaids; John Roberts Colvin, the best man, and Walter H. Bennett of Brooklyn, N. Y.; William Jefferson, William K. Maggy Rouff Trims Autumn Coat with Novel Flowers of Caracul

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Among the new ways that the Paris dressmakers have devised for trimming the tops of their autumn coats, fur flowers stand out as something attractive and extra new. Enormous flowers made or broadtail, caracul, seal, or shaved lamb, dyed to match the color of the cloth of which the coat is made, are placed around the neck of collarless coats, or attached to the lapels.

The Maggy Rouff coat in the illustration is one of these flower-fur trimmed models, and one of the most attractive. It is made of dark blue mossy woolen, and is molded closely with a straight wrap-around skirt portion. The sleeves are a version of the leg o' mutton, being caught in three folds at the top. They become very slender from the elbows to the wrists.

Maggy Rouff uses caracul fur to trim this model, and she has dyed it dark blue to match the cloth. There is a very narrow band collar shown in the background, and this collar has one long end which functions as a stem for the fur flower. This flower is huge, with many petals, and underneath it has a loop through which the band collar passes to hold the flower in place and to close the coat.

Food Fashions Sponsor Their Return.

"Candies That Are Fun to Make," a booklet containing 28 candy recipes, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower, and Hall of Science, A Century of Progress, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

Chafing dishes, so rudely relegated to the attic some years ago, are being lovingly transported downstairs again. They're taking on such a shine-up as they never had before, plus the seat of honor in the dining room.

The reason? We can best label it "cycle of fashion," for these squat fellows are "in" again, along with hobnail glassware and scenic china. They're right at home at the intimate midnight lunch or on the swankiest buffet supper table.

Or in case a search of the attic doesn't disclose one of these aristocratic antiques, the stores are all ready to furnish you with spanking new ones to be heated by electricity. These boast a permanently shiny finish of chromium and some are fashioned to harmonize with the most modern table equipment. One beauty has cheery red handles and the double boiler affair may be taken off the electric plate in case you desire to perk coffee or fry eggs at the table.

Which brings up the weighty question—what foods "chafe" well? When these utensils were first being given their big rush, cook books and magazines devoted whole chapters and departments to the art of chafing dish cookery. Welsh rabbit always has been associated with the cooker at home, just as at college it is coupled with fudge parties and other delightfully upsetting occasions.

To glorify the cheese rabbit (sometimes wrongly called "rarebit") serve it over a piece of toast on which has been centered a slice of tomato. Then escort this to the plate with bacon curls. A Welsh rabbit which may be kept hot for several hours without that mischievous separation contains cornstarch as a stabilizer.

Welsh Rabbit.

2 tablespoons butter
Dash of paprika
½ teaspoon peppery sauce
1 pound grated American cheese
1 cup beer
2 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ cup cold water
Salt to taste
Toast or crackers

Blend the melted butter with the paprika, sauce, and the mustard. Add the cheese and simmer gently over hot water until the cheese is melted. Then stir in the beer, a tablespoon at a time, and finally thicken with the cornstarch which has been blended with the cold water. Cook gently about three minutes, stirring constantly. Season and serve over fresh toast or crisped crackers.

When the chicken à la kings and lobster Newburgs ate too great a hole in the family budgets, scrambled eggs were achieved in the chafing dishes of long ago. To bring scrambled eggs to the height of their goodness, cook them over hot water. Smart 1934 eggs are combining themselves with cooked noodles in:

¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon grated onion, if desired
1¼ cups cooked noodles
1 tablespoon butter

Beat the eggs slightly, add seasonings, milk, and noodles. Pour into the double boiler top containing the melted butter. Stir constantly over boiling water until the mixture thickens. Serve at once.

Chaplin Listed as Wealthiest of Film Colony

These are some of the facts about the affairs of movie folk in the records of the county tax collector:

The comedian who can't be moved to make a talkie after the use of a cane, derby, baggy pants and funny shoes raised him from poverty to riches has property assessed at $3,279,230.

Greta Garbo's record on the assessment rolls is about as sparse as her interviews.

The rolls show two things listed for the elusive Swede, who is reported to be getting a weekly salary of $10,000. The items are an $80 auto and $55,100 in bonds.

Will Rogers is known to the tax collector as William P. Rogers, landholder, and his long list of properties in Los Angeles county gross an assessed valuation of $322,920.

Harold Lloyd appears to be comfortably fixed with property assessed at $864,545. The comfort is accentuated by two batches of furniture, one assessed at $29,000 and the other at $44,000.

John Barrymore's property assessment aggregates $96,440. And here is found why he had Dolores Costello and their two children spend so much time on their yacht, the Infanta. It is assessed at $59,040.

"I Give My Love"

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

I have concluded, for the time being, my discussion of the bidding procedure which follows an opening bid of one no trump when neither hand can invite a slam development. My opinion is, as you know, that you should take an optimistic view of close hands, and be more distressed if you tend to under bid them than if you overbid a few of them to the extent of a trick. Opponents give you your contract on so many hands which could be beaten were all hands exposed. Especially when you avoid the wooden, unnecessary approach bidding which has crept into the game, until it has become an addiction, an obsession which, by tipping off the defense, beats many not quite lay down no trump hands before the first card is played.

No Trump Rebidding Beyond Game.

Let us now consider the bidding of hands which offer slam prospects. We have already done this in connection with opening hands containing a concealed suit of five or more cards. Our present concern is with short-suited no trump hands. When neither hand contributes a suit of five or more cards to work with, one needs solidly massed top cards to justify a slam. We must treat the opening bidder's problems quite differently in these two distinct situations: [a] Where the responding hand contributes suit length as well as high cards; and [b] where he contributes only high cards.

When Partner's Response is Two No Trumps.

To encourage a slam over this response, the opening bidder needs plenty of primary tricks. How many? Well, let us work it out for ourselves. First, let us insure against the stupid risk of taking a penalty on a big hand without even bidding the slam.

Determining the Risk.

The only way for the opening bidder to invite a slam in these circumstances is to bid four no trumps, since we are dealing with short-suited opening hands. In the event that partner's response was based on minimum values, that he almost passed the opening bid, what is the least the opening bidder must hold in order that four no trumps will not be a doubtful contract? Relying on dummy for not more than three kings or their approximate equivalent, with no five-card suit in either hand to work with, what must the opening bidder hold to lose only three out of the thirteen tricks? Write out a few partnership hands of this type, and I think you will agree that opener's hand should include five primary tricks. Also the hand must include three aces. It is in fact difficult to get that strength without them. Make the dummy

Sp. K x x	Di. Q J x x
Ht. x x x	Cl. K x x

and four no trumps will be reasonably safe if opener has

Sp. A Q x	Di. A K x
Ht. A Q 10	Cl. Q x x

that is, five tricks. Reduce him to 4½:

Sp. A Q x	Di. A x x
Ht. A K x	Cl. Q x x

and four tricks may be lost. You need in addition the jack of hearts and the ten of diamonds to give you, by virtue of a choice of finesses, reasonable safety in a contract for four-odd.

We May Make a Precise, Definite Pronouncement.

That is to say, you must be within a trick of the requirements for an opening two no trump bid on a short-suited hand. In terms of tricks, in order to make the slam try for four no trumps without jeopardizing game in case partner has a minimum responding hand, you need five primary tricks.

CAMAY . . . THE SOAP OF BEAUTIFUL WOMEN

Tumult at Burial; Crowd Menaces Camera Men.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Apparently oblivious to the wild disorder around her, Anna Majetta, 15 years old, yesterday saw the gray caskets containing the bodies of her father, James, 43 years old, and her mother, Jennie, 38, whom she shot and killed in their home at 1109 South Damen avenue Wednesday night, lowered into a double grave in Mount Carmel cemetery, Hillside.

Despite overcast skies more than 4,000 persons crowded about. Photographers were threatened. One of them barely saved himself from being pushed into the open grave. One camera was smashed and several were targets for handfuls of mud thrown by roughnecks in the crowd.

Two middle aged men approached the photographers, took guns out of their pockets, displayed them, and said: "If you value your health, no more pictures."

Meanwhile prayers were rapidly said in Latin by the grave. Anna, who was taken from the county jail for the rites, wept and moaned.

Held on Murder Charge.

Anna has been held in the jail since a coroner's jury on Friday recommended that she be held to the grand jury on a charge of murder for the death of her father. The coroner's jury held that her mother's death was accidental. Anna had testified she meant to kill her father, who was beating her mother. One of the bullets she fired went astray and killed her mother.

After the services at the grave Anna was driven away in an automobile in a pouring rain to the jail, where she is a prisoner in the hospital wing.

Accompanying the small, black gowned girl, whose face was partly concealed behind a long black veil, were a matron from the jail and two deputy sheriffs.

Crowd at Church Services.

Almost as large as the crowd at the cemetery was that at the San Callisto Roman Catholic church, 2189 De Kalb street, where services were held earlier.

Anna sat in a pew alone with the matron and an aunt, the deputies behind her. Her lips moved as if in prayer, but she was quiet for the most part, until after the Rev. F. X. Breen had sung mass. Then she began sobbing.

Family Follows Caskets.

As the caskets were wheeled away the family arose and followed. With Carmela was another sister, Dollie, 13 years old, her long brown hair hanging loosely over thin black clad shoulders; Jimmy, 4 years old, who was carried in the arms of a neighbor girl, and Nick, 7.

Behind them came Philomena, 11 years old; an uncle, Joseph Tortorici of 1960 Ogden avenue, and his wife. Then came six girl pallbearers who had accompanied the mother's casket, many grief stricken friends and neighbor women, and others of the parish. Some were dressed in housedresses, with handkerchiefs pinned carefully over their heads in lieu of hats.

Anna fainted as she was led out of the church, and smelling salts were administered.

BOY FALLS INTO BINDER; COMES OUT IN BUNDLE

CHALONS-SUR-MARNE, France Sept. 3.—(AP)—Nine year old Henri Guyot passed through the flying machinery of a wheat binder, came out neatly bound in a bundle, and today is telling about his strange adventure.

The boy was frightened but unscratched.

He fell before the reaper and was swallowed up by the machine. His father, expecting to find him dead or badly injured, discovered the youngster unharmed in the middle of a shock of wheat.

NEW TAX BILL OF 500 MILLIONS UP IN JANUARY

To Replace U. S. Levies Ending July 1.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3.—(AP)—The administration will ask the next congress to enact a $500,000,000 tax bill in January because of numerous levies, now providing that sum, which will expire on July 1, 1935.

There is some talk about reviving the once defeated general sales tax to replace the existing so-called nuisance levies.

Study Foreign Systems.

Treasury and house ways and means committee experts' recommendations are to be placed before President Roosevelt probably in November. A ways and means subcommittee then will begin to formulate the new bill.

Roswell Magill, Secretary Morgenthau's chief tax expert, and H. L. Parker, chief of the ways and means committee staff, have spent the summer in Europe studying revenue systerms there.

Representative Robert L. Doughton [Dem., N. C.], chairman of the ways and means committee, who led the fight that resulted in the defeat of the general sales tax in 1932, recently said he would favor that method of raising revenue "only as a last resort."

The new tax measure may replace the present manufacturers' excise and miscellaneous sales levies, if those are allowed to drop next July. It will tighten up income tax provisions still further than did the $370,000,000 act passed last spring.

Would Overhaul System.

Doughton said the plan is to give the whole federal tax structure an overhauling that will insure a steady flow of income for the treasury. Indications are that the capital stock and excess profits taxes will bring in substantial returns.

However, experts say, it will not be sufficient to take care of the levies lapsing next July. One of the miscellaneous imposts, that on bank checks, which returned $41,000,000 in the last fiscal year, terminates Jan. 1, 1935.

Of the numerous levies ending July 1, the one cent a gallon tax on gasoline is the biggest producer, having yielded $202,000,000 in the last fiscal year.

Unless continued by congress, that tax and those on lubricating oils, electrical energy, automobiles and parts, communications systems, admissions, among many others, go off the books at the end of the present fiscal year, July 1, 1935.

WARDEN AGAINST MOONEY GOING TO MOTHER'S RITES

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Tom Mooney will not be permitted to attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. Mary Mooney, if the matter is left for San Quentin prison authorities to decide, Warden James B. Holohan said tonight.

The prison warden said Mooney, convicted and serving a life sentence for the San Francisco Preparedness day bombing of 1916, will be allowed certain privileges, but added:

"I have no authority to permit a prisoner to attend a funeral, even of his own mother."

Members of the Mooney family said, however, they will carry the request for permission to attend the funeral of the 86 year old mother before Acting Gov. Frank F. Merriam. Mrs. Mooney died yesterday, her wish to see her son exonerated of the crime unfulfilled.

Movies and Rain Prevent Garner from Hunting Trip

Los Angeles Police Hunt 9 Tons of Stolen Dynamite

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Police reserves were called out tonight to search for nine tons of stolen dynamite and blasting powder, enough to shake the entire metropolitan district, and believed by officers to be cached in the Hollywood or fashionable Wilshire districts.

CUBS WIN IN 10 INNINGS, 6-3; THEN LOSE, 6-4

LEWIS TACKLES TWO MEN; WORKS FOR 40 MINUTES

From Now On He Will Meet 6 Daily.

After 40 minutes of mat work at Trafton's gymnasium Lewis boarded a plane for Akron, O., for his last scheduled match before the Londos bout. He was due back in Chicago early this morning to start training at the Hall of Champions at A Century of Progress at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Londos arrived yesterday from a tour of the northwest and spent the day resting. Today he will go into serious training at a camp especially prepared for him at Round Lake, Ill., where he expects to spend the remainder of the week. A special chef will supervise his diet. Among the training partners Jim has enlisted is Dick Gaines of Texas, who has wrestled Lewis a number of times. Other partners include Lou Plummer, Hans Bauer, and Jack Smith.

He Weighs Mere 240.

Lewis weighed 240 pounds when he began work yesterday and expects to reduce ten pounds before he meets Londos at Wrigley field two weeks from Thursday to seek the world's heavyweight mat title for the seventh time.

Pete Schuh, heavyweight, and Zack Malkov, light heavyweight, were his training partners yesterday. Today this pair will be augmented by Marin Plestina, heavyweight, and Lou Talaber, middleweight.

Both Schuh and Malkov gave the big fellow a good drill in relays, alternating against Lewis in ten minute stretches. Lewis took no rest during the grind and, except for a slight shortness of breath caused by a cold, was none the worse for the tussle.

Fast and Strong.

Within a few minutes of the start Lewis began perspiring freely, a condition that created considerable elation and indicated he will have little difficulty in reaching the peak of form for the Londos match.

Talaber, who will take charge of Lewis' training, said yesterday Lewis is a "good trainer," meaning that he follows a conditioning routine diligently without difficulty.

Lewis has no doubt about his ability to defeat Londos, citing 14 other instances in which Londos has failed against him. He is making no prediction at this time as to the method he will employ, but expresses the confidence that his strength and weight will prevail.

Work in Relays.

Beginning tomorrow Lewis will do road work each morning, starting in with a two mile run and working up in the next two weeks to from 7 to 10 miles daily. He also expects to add new talent to his training staff frequently and by the end of the week will be meeting a half dozen men in relays at each drill.

Since leaving Chicago Londos eliminated Jim Browning as a contender by beating the recognized New York state athletic commission titleholder in Los Angeles. Later he wrestled several other opponents in San Francisco and Portland.

By disposing of Browning, Londos' only barrier to universal recognition as champion is Lewis and he expresses the utmost confidence that he will conquer the Strangler.

Londos said yesterday that instead of training down to condition for the match, he expects to build up to 205 or possibly 210 pounds. He is under the 200 pound mark now.

Like Lewis, Londos will work his training partners in relays, beginning with short sessions but working up to a two hour grind daily. Mornings will be devoted to rowing, swimming, and roadwork.

WARNEKE GETS VICTORY NO. 19 AGAINST REDS

Weaver Blows Up with 4-0 Lead.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 3.—The Cubs were a right fine ball club in today's first game with the tailend Cincinnati Reds, thrice coming from behind to win, 6 to 3, in 10 innings for Lon Warneke's 19th victory of the year. But the Chicagoans were a sad lot in the second number, when they blew a 4 to 0 lead in the seventh as the Reds staged a five run riot against Jim Weaver and Pat Malone.

The feature of this uprising was a triple with the bases full by that old time rioter who used to riot for the Cubs in the pennant enterprise of 1932, namely, Mark Koenig. The final score of the second game was Cincinnati 6, Cubs 4, the enemy adding a run when Ernesto Lombardi drove a homer on to property down the street from the ball park with two out in the eighth.

Tie for Second Place.

Despite the distressing outcome in the second game the Cubs managed to squeeze into a second place tie with the St. Louis Cardinals, who lost two games to the Pirates. The Cubs and Cards are now six games back of the Giants, who were rained out of their scheduled double-header in Philadelphia.

In the first game the Cubs evened a 1 to 0 count in the fourth inning on a triple by Hack and a single by Cuyler; they balanced a 2 to 1 disadvantage with two out in the seventh on doubles by Jurges and Warneke; and with the score 3 to 2 in favor of the Reds and Chuck Klein disposed of in the ninth, Hartnett got a homer to even up the score. The Chicagoans won on three runs in the tenth, produced on a single by Warneke, a sacrifice by Hack, a single by Galan, a free trip to Cuyler, who was hit by a pitched ball to fill the bases, and a pinch single by Stainback and a fly by Klein. Hartnett also singled in the inning, but the swat did not figure in run manufacture.

Weaver Fans Seven.

Weaver apparently was breezing along to a shutout when he blew up. In the first six innings he had held the Reds to five hits, including two singles in the sixth. In the first five innings he struck out seven. Koenig's triple with the bases full and two out in the seventh tied the score. Malone was rushed in to hold the winning run on third. But Bottomley tripled on the first pitch and that was the ball game.

It was the eighth beating the tailenders have handed the Cubs this season.

FIRST GAME

The Cubs didn't get a sight of first base in the first three innings. In the same span the Reds touched up Warneke for three doubles, but the net thereof was only one run, made when Pool doubled over third with one out in the second inning, went to third on an infield out, and scored on Comorosky's single to right.

The Chicagoans tied the score in the fourth. Hack led off with a triple to the right field corner, held on while Galan popped to Adams, and scored on Cuyler's single to center.

Hafey Gets Around.

Hafey launched the home fourth with the Reds' fourth double. Pool filed to Klein and Lombardi tapped to Warneke. Hafey taking third. Comorosky again came through with a run producing single, this one to center, scoring Hafey.

Jurges doubled with two out in the seventh and scored the tying run on Warneke's double to left. There was great rejoicing in the Cub dugout, it being the first time that the Chi-

ROSS ENDS HARD DRILLS; LEAVES FOR BROADWAY

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ferndale, N. Y., Sept. 3.—Barney Ross finished his strenuous training at Grossinger's Country club today and this evening the champion, with his entourage, was on his way to New York, where on Thursday night Chicago's greatest fighter will offer Jimmy McLarnin an opportunity to regain the welterweight title Ross won from him three months ago.

Ross boxed two rounds this afternoon, worked two more three minute periods with the punching bag and skipping rope. A crowd of several hundred, most of them holiday guests at the country club, saw the conclusion of Ross' preparations here. Tomorrow Ross will box briefly at Stillman's gymnasium in New York and Wednesday he will limit his efforts to road work.

Pronounce Ross Fit.

"Ross is in better condition than three months ago when we broke camp here to move into New York for the first match with McLarnin," Art Winch, the champion's co-manager, told reporters. "He's punching harder than at any time in his life and he has no mental worries. He whipped McLarnin decisively to win the welterweight title and he feels he can repeat."

Sam Pian, the front office man of the managerial duo, agreed with Winch. Naturally, however, one wouldn't expect either Winch or Pian to spread bad news, so Joe Foley, the maestro of the Chicago Stadium, who has been vacationing on the premises for nearly a week with Dr. J. P. O'Connell, also of Chicago, was interrogated.

"Barney is ready for McLarnin," Foley said. "He's confident but not overconfident that Jimmy will not land a telling punch and he fully expects to win the decision in fifteen rounds. No one has talked much about the impending fight, which is a sure sign no one is worrying. I didn't hear a word until yesterday, when a visiting newspaper man insisted on bringing up the subject of left hooks and straight rights."

He's Happy, Confident.

Barney appeared carefree following his last boxing session. During a casual discussion he asked for details of the All-American-Chicago Bears football game and admitted surprise that the Bears had failed to score. Frequently interrupted by friends who wished to say good-by before joining the holiday motor cavalcade which jammed the highways to New York, Barney greeted all cheerily and thanked them for their felicitations. Ross always has been popular with chance acquaintances and this popularity is easily understood.

RAIN STOPS SOX, TIGERS; MEET IN 2 GAMES TODAY

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

What might have been the most profitable at home entertainment of the year for the White Sox treasury department was washed away by rain yesterday. However, there is one consolation for those most vitally concerned in the financial end. The Sox and Tigers, impending pennant winners in the American league, will be able to work off yesterday's postponement this afternoon provided the weather permits them to start work at 1:30 o'clock and continue until two games have been completed.

At the designated starting time yesterday about 10,000 were in the park and other thousands stood outside in the rain waiting to see what happened. In hopes of a letup the home club held off until 2 o'clock, but the rain persisted, so the postponement was announced and those who wished to have their money refunded were taken care of. After more than an hour of stampeding around the various box offices this job was completed

Rowe Packs 'Em In.

The cause of the turnout, which judging by advance sales would have reached 40,000 with good weather, was Lynwood [Schoolboy] Rowe, the pitching headliner of the budding champions. Of course it is possible that some of the people wished to get a look at the Tigers as a whole and it is also possible that a few may have appeared merely to furnish further proof of their time honored loyalty to the Sox. Anyway, if they wish, they can come back today and see the same show, because Rowe will take a hand in one of the games.

The pitching picks of Jim Dykes, the Sox boss, probably will be Ted Lyons and Les Tietje, who were scheduled for work yesterday. They may flip a coin to decide which is to have the unhappy job of opposing the sensational Rowe. Should Tietje draw the task it would be nothing new for him. His luck has been consistently bad and he's now accustomed to the sensation. He has dropped his last four starts although allowing a total of only eight earned runs and two which were unearned. In these four games his teammates furnished him with only five runs.

Bonura Back at First.

Zeke Bonura, after a long absence due to a pulled leg muscle, will be back on first base today and this will permit Manager Dykes to take over whatever other infield position he picks for himself. Dykes, however, intends to resign from active work in the near future.

As soon as the Yankees, who arrive tomorrow, are disposed of Dykes plans on becoming a bench manager so as to enable him to keep closer watch on some of the new talent which is about to arrive. So long as there is practically no hope of getting out of eighth place Dykes figures it will be better to take a good look at the rookies now instead of building up a lot of false hopes between now and the start of the 1935 training grind.

In the Wake of the News

THEY'RE AT IT AGAIN.

DEAR WAKE: Chicago Bears, pro league champions, accepted the issue in their game against the College All-Stars materially handicapped by governing conditions. In the first place the forward pass from anywhere behind the line of scrimmage was eliminated. That was their principal scoring threat. It is this type of offense, more difficult to meet, which makes pro games more spectacular than those of the colleges.

Furthermore, the Bears are older, therefore round into condition more slowly. While playing well, they were not as peppy as in their own league games. Still again, the Bears did not have full strength. Six of the All-Stars are signed to Bear contracts for this fall and will play if they make good. I'll look to another contest under more equitable conditions.

Harvey: Just as one might have expected, there were more spirit and snap to the collegians. Although graduated seniors, the All-Stars retained that zip and pep which makes college games so much more interesting than pro football. With experience and weight all against them, the All-Stars outcharged their heavier rivals both in attack and defense. They gained more ground and absolutely stopped, on the other hand, the powerhouse attacks of Nagurski and Manders. Give me the quick running and dodging collegiate backs every time. I'm glad the collegians at last had a chance to prove it. Big Ten.

Wake: I've heard so much about superior generalship and smartness of the pros. Where was it? Right at the start the Bears put across two successful forward passes. Were the college boys rattled? No. They simply solved them. The Bears completed only one more during the entire game. Even in that puzzling Bear play where the passer fades, spins, and then tosses to a supposedly free receiver at the left side you saw what happened. The All-Stars sensed it coming, Bill Smith cut in ahead of the receiver with his greater speed, intercepted, and would have been away for a touchdown if he could have held the ball. I thought the college generalship equaled or excelled that of the pros. Ex-Illini.

HTW: One point I have not seen brought out in this Bears-College controversy. That is the fact that Brumbaugh played at quarter throughout the entire game without substitution. He had no chance to rest while the All-Stars had a string of quarter backs whom their coach could send in as he saw fit and thus keep fresh material there. Molesworth, Bears' other quarter, could not be here on account of his baseball duties. He is a superior receiver and runner-back of punts and one of the Bears' best open field runners. In general, the All-Stars had numerically superior reserves.

Wake: What a laugh! Those poor college boys who were to be smothered to death by the big bad Bears played to a scoreless tie and should have won. I'm just as eager as any pro sympathizer for another contest. It was a great game and a treat for us local fans to see so many players from all parts of the country whose names were known to us by reputation. Fred C.

After a three day honeymoon he abandoned her. It seems this younger generation has no chivalry. He could have driven her back home at least. Jack Whitton.

FANS STUDY THEIR THREE R'S—RASSLIN', RACIN', AND ROWE

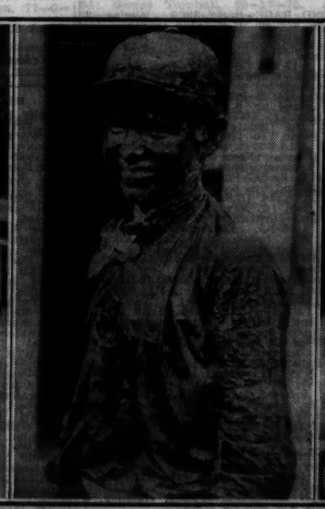
Lincoln Fields race meeting opens with mudrunners having banner day before crowd of 14,000. Here's the finish of $2,000 handicap in which Spicson is leading his rivals home with Knights Gal second and Mr. James third. Spicson rewarded his backers with $28.82 for a $2 ticket. Mata Hari, fleet but temperamental filly, did not choose to run and was last. [TRIBUNE Photos.]



You can tell Jocky J. King didn't have the winner in fourth race. He was third on Reservist.

SPICSON WADES TO VICTORY AT LINCOLN FIELDS

Pays 13-1 to Take Handicap Before 14,000.

BY FRENCH LANE.

A rain drenched crowd of 14,000 gathered at the Lincoln Fields race track yesterday and watched Spicson, a 4 year old owned by Louis M. Severson of Oak Park, splash through the mud to win the $2,000 Labor Day handicap at odds of 13 to 1.

His unexpected victory was the high spot of the opening of the autumn racing season. The crowd is reported to have wagered $500,000.

To score his victory Spicson came from last place up into the lead in the final strides, winning by a neck over Knights Gal from the Audley farm stable. A half length back of the two leaders was Mr. James, the early pacemaker, who at times had enjoyed a lead of three lengths.

Mata Hari Last.

Siskin, a sensational sprinter at Hawthorne, was fourth, and Fanfern fifth. Last in the nine horse field was Mata Hari, temperamental queen of the American turf, the favorite.

Spicson had been beaten four times at Hawthorne, so it was natural that he didn't have many backers in this race, which foun the best sprinters in the west in the parade to the post.

At the start Mr. James' nose was showing in front and he soon pulled out into a lead of two lengths. He maintained this advantage heading into the turn and Knights Gal, which had been running second, seemed to be whipped. Siskin was third and in a contending position. Spicson was running last.

Here Comes Spicson.

Heading into the stretch Spicson moved up on the outside into fifth place and was running over horses. Jocky Harbort was simply giving him his head. Forty strides from the finish Knight's Gal had moved back into the lead and had whipped Mr. James. Knight's Gal appeared to be a winner. Then came Spicson's long striding finish, in which he got the decision by the length of his long neck.

He ran the seven furlongs over the sloppy track in 1:27 and paid $28.82 to win, $11.04 to place and $6.20 to show. Knights Gal paid off at $6.10 to place and $3.36 to show. Mr. James had his backers and was at $3.68 to show.

Spicson's narrow victory over Knights Gal prevented the Lincoln Fields opening from being a field day for Audley farm. Two Audley victories had been rolled up before the field went to the post in the handicap.

Jester B. Just Rolls Along.

The first Audley farm victory came in the third race, which was at 6 furlongs. Jester B., a son of Bright Knight-Markiluna, surprised the customers when he took the lead early and defeated the stoutly backed Reservist.

Jester B., a 3 year old, apparently was having a lot of fun in the rain and the mud. He hopped out into an early lead and nobody headed him, although Trahison and Reservist were crowding toward the front in the late stages. Jester B., however, had enough left to win by a length and a half.

Glynson, on which there had been an old fashioned prosperity plunge, was never a contender. One man stepped up to the windows and bet $1,000 to win and $600 to place on him. This started a run on Glynson, and he wound up at very short odds. He never figured seriously in the running of the race.

Then Came a Surprise.

The second Audley victory was a genuine shock. Advantage, the pride of Bath House John Coughlin's stable, was the odds-on favorite in this number. Nearly everybody in the crowd thought he was unbeatable. Then, too, he had Official, another pet in the Coughlin stable, as a running mate. But along came Audley's Dancing Doll.

It was Slim Rosie which cut out the early pace, but Dancing Doll was never far behind, and as they started down the stretch Dancing Doll moved up a stride at a time until she was looking Slim Rosie in the eye a sixteenth of a mile out. That was all Rosie could stand. Dancing Doll went on to beat her by three-quarters of a length.

Advantage had started fourth and the sloppy going didn't seem to be to his liking. He moved up into third place near the finish, however, to take the slim end of the purse. Dancing Doll had been overlooked in the betting and paid off at 10 to 1.

John Still Likes Him.

Ald. Coughlin declared he was not discouraged over the defeat of Advantage.

"He simply didn't like the going," he said. Coughlin's Official finished last.

COG-AIR, away fast but badly outrun by the leaders, began to make up ground fast after reaching stretch, wore down JACOB'S LADDER in closing strides and pulled up lame. Latter, cleverly rated, weakened after five-eighths. MONK'S FIRST saved ground on the turn and held on well.

SECOND RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Winner trained by J. McPherson. Went to post at 3:00. At post 2½ minutes. Start bad from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

BLACK RIVER, away fast, moving at the start, quickly drew away into a good lead, bore out entering stretch and weakened, but lasted. DOVE OF PEACE, much used in first quarter and on inside thereafter, faltered after nearing the lead in last sixteenth, but with winner weakening, was able to keep up. EVENING GOWN, best of others, had no mishap.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Pons. Went to post at 3:40; off at once. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving. [Daily double, 2d and 3d races, paid $24.40.]

CARBON, aided by the going and close up from the start, went to front with a rush after straightening out in stretch and, drawing out into a long lead, won in hand. DEET, gradually improved her position upward on muddy ground in stretch. REGARDLESS, raced wide and headed MISS MELODY in final stride.

FOURTH RACE—One mile, out of chute. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Patterson. Went to post at 4:20½. At post ½ minute. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

JESTER B, showing a liking for the going and sent to front on inside, quickly increased his advantage on far turn and, continuing well, held the race safe thereafter. TRAHISON, quick to begin and steadied along for five-eighths, withstood a long drive gamely, but did not menace winner. RESERVIST, slow to get going, was sharply cut off by GLYNSON at far turn and made up ground while racing wide the last five-sixteenths.

FIFTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Went to post at 4:30½; off at once. Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

DANCING DOLL, showing speed from the start and taken back slightly to go to outside after failing to get through next to rail entering stretch, gradually wore down SLIM ROSIE and drew out fast in closing strides. Latter, quickest to begin and having fine speed, was not good enough. ADVANTAGE, away fast, but plainly at a disadvantage in the going, labored badly in early stages, raced wide the final three-eighths and, though failing to improve his speed, outfinished HASTINOLA.

SIXTH RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse $2,000. Net value to winner, $1,450; second, $325; third, $150; fourth, $75.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Spicson, $28.82 straight, $11.04 place, $6.20 show; Knight's Gal, $6.10 place, $4.36 show; Mr. James, $3.68 show. Winner trained by F. Rector. Went to post at 5:13½. At post 5 minutes. Start good. Won driving; place same.

SPICSON, away slowly and badly outrun for five-eighths, bettered his position rapidly while racing on outside in stretch and, wearing down the leaders, was ready to draw out. KNIGHT'S GAL, having raced from the start with mild restraint to permit MR. JAMES to make the pace, responded to tight pressure after reaching final three-sixteenths and, heading MR. JAMES, could not withstand the winner. MR. JAMES, on inside throughout, was hustled into a good lead on stretch turn, but weakened in the drive. SISKIN raced well.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Winner trained by H. W. Smith. Went to post at 5:48. At post 1 minute. Start good. Won driving; place same.

ROWDY BOY, improved and shuffled back soon after the start, began to improve his position approaching the stretch and, continuing strongly, was up in closing strides. BATTLING GIRL, restrained early, gradually worked her way to the front and, holding on gamely, just missed. SERGEANT D, weakly ridden and taken back repeatedly, was blocked trying to get through on the inside in final eighth and, obtaining room near end, finished strong.

SETH'S BALLOT, showing speed from the start and under strong riding after reaching half mile, made up ground fast as ANITA ORMONT weakened in final eighth and was up in closing strides. ANITA ORMONT, saving ground throughout, weakened badly after a mile, but barely missed. SWITCH raced wide much of the trip and held on fairly well.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3.—(AP)—The Washington Senators, one of the hard luck teams of the season, today dropped the first game of a double header to Boston, 6 to 3, had the second game called, 4 to 4, on account of darkness, and lost the playing services of their manager for the rest of the season.

JOE CRONIN.

Joe Cronin, the Washington shortstop and manager, fractured a bone in his right arm in the eighth inning of the first game. He was forced to turn over the management of the team to Third Base Coach Al Schact and remained here with his arm in a cast when the team left tonight for St. Louis.

The scrappy manager, latest of a long list of injured that have caused the American league champions to fall far down in the second division, was running out an infield hit to First Baseman Morgan when the accident occurred.

Wesley Ferrell, Boston pitcher, ran over to cover first and he and Cronin tangled. Cronin was thrown to the ground, but finished the game. His arm caused him such pain that he was rushed to the hospital before the start of the second contest.

An X-ray showed a fracture of the radius, larger of the two bones in the forearm, near where it is joined to the wrist. Cronin may be able to join the team during its western swing, but he will do the rest of his managing for the season from a seat on the bench. Scores:

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Russ Columbo's sudden and untimely death recalls the unusual circumstances of his start on the networks. Columbo was catapulted to unexpected stardom on NBC in the summer of 1931—and Bing Crosby unwittingly was responsible. Con Conrad, a song writer and booker, wanted to take Crosby from the Cocoanut Grove in Los Angeles, where he was singing, to New York to introduce him into big league broadcasting circles. But Crosby turned a deaf ear. Later he received telephone calls from agents of the networks from New York. These he also dismissed.

One evening as he sat at home listening to the radio he heard the dulcet voice of Columbo crooning "I Surrender, Dear," a song Bing had popularized. Making inquiries, he found that Columbo had been taken to New York in his stead, and that Columbo had been trained to Crosby's style of singing. Columbo had had training as an operatic singer.

Crosby's period of vacillation and indecision came to an abrupt end. He hopped a train for New York and soon was caroling over the Columbia network. In a few weeks the big Crosby-Columbo vogue was on. The names were always linked that first year, for countless listeners could not tell one voice from the other.

Two orchestras will be on the air nightly over WBBM-CBS from the Edgewater Beach hotel beginning Friday. In the early evening hours a concert orchestra, under the direction of Alexander J. Savine, noted symphony and operatic conductor, will be heard. On Sunday this group will feature as guest soloist such singers as Sara Ann McCabe and Muriel La France. The late broadcasts will be taken by Herbie Kay and his rhythmic dance band, a perennial Chicago favorite.

Spring has come to Little America. Of course it's still below zero in Byrd's camp, but in order to lighten the fancies of the young men i the party CBS will broadcast a sightseeing tour from the World's Fair for them at 9 o'clock Wednesday, Sept. 12.

Fred Waring and his orchestra will resume their midweek commercial broadcasts at 8:30 Thursday, Sept. 13. . . . The Boswell sisters are on their way to the west coast to begin rehersals with Bing Crosby and Georgie Stoll's orchestra for a series beginning Tuesday, Sept. 18. . . . Hal Kemp's orchestra, heard over W-G-N from the Blackhawk restaurant nightly, will play a guest appearance on NBC's Hall of Fame next Sunday evening.

TRAGEDY UPSETS TRYST OF EX-WIFE AND HUNGERFORD

Mrs. Anne Hungerford, divorced wife of Louis S. Hungerford Jr., son of the vice president of the Pullman company, was en route to a meeting with her former husband when he shot and killed himself and Mrs. Milton G. Palmer here, it was learned yesterday.

Although the Hungerfords had been separated for two years and divorced about a year, they carried on friendly correspondence, letters found in the dead man's room revealed. The two planned to meet today in Findlay, O., and Mrs. Hungerford was on her way there by automobile from her home in Rochester, N. Y., when she was informed of the tragedy. She hurried to Chicago.

Search of Hungerford's room in the 1244 North Dearborn hotel, two floors below Mrs. Palmer's room, in which the shooting occurred, revealed a pistol holster which Sergt. James J. Penney said fitted the automatic with which Hungerford killed the woman and himself. Sergt. Penny also found a box of shells, apparently newly purchased.

An inquest into the deaths was continued yesterday until Sept. 13 after Mrs. Edward Meyer, 4716 North Albany avenue, a sister of the dead woman, had testified that Mrs. Palmer was the wife of a sailor in the navy, whom she married last June. Mrs. Palmer was a beauty operator also known as Miss Don Rose.

50 ECONOMISTS TRAINING FOR CREDIT PROBE

College Men Told Treasury Plans.

Fifty college economists attended a training school yesterday at the University of Chicago in preparation for the survey they are to conduct during the next three weeks, seeking to learn for the treasury department the causes of business credit strictures in the Seventh federal reserve district.

Dr. Jacob Viner, who is on leave from his duties as professor of economics at the university to serve as a special research assistant in the treasury department in Washington, is directing the survey. It is being made by instructors and graduate students in economics recruited from various midwestern universities.

Confine Study to Small Loans.

The survey will be confined to credit needs of small and moderate sized businesses requiring loans up to $20,000. The Seventh federal reserve district, comprising Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Iowa, was chosen because it gives a good composite picture of the country's business, with a metropolitan area, large and small cities, and agricultural communities, some of which have felt the effects of the drouth and some of which escaped its ravages.

Previous surveys of the credit "famine" have largely been one sided, giving the viewpoints either of the bankers or of their customers, Dr. Viner said. In the present survey both sides of the picture will be sought. The objective of the survey is to gather case histories of 2,000 requests for loans which were refused wholly or in part, getting both the story of the would-be borrower and the reasons of the banker for refusing or curtailing the loan.

"We are starting work with no preconceived notions," said Dr. Viner, "although numerous reasons have been advanced for the failure of banks to make commercial loans and the consequent piling up of cash and quick assets in their portfolios.

New Deal Fears Studied.

"Some bankers tell us bank examiners jump on them if they make loans for any except very short periods, others that the lessons of the depression are responsible, in that they wish to maintain a high percentage of liquidity. Another reason given is that the depression has destroyed a large percentage of good credit risks, and another that the banks are satisfied with the return they get from government securities."

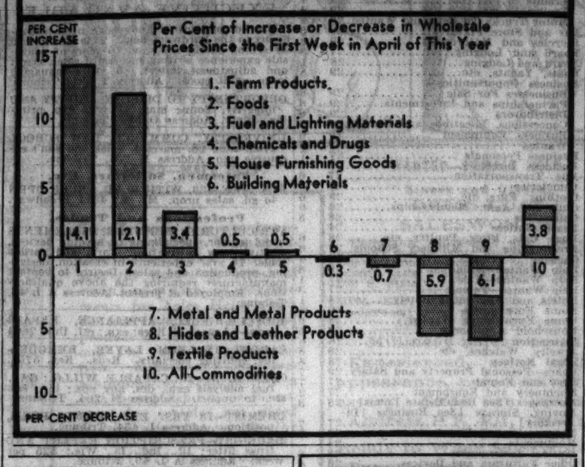
Reluctance of both bankers and business men to embark on new ventures because of uncertainty regarding the fiscal and other policies of the New Deal will be reflected only so far as it was the cause for refusal of loans, Dr. Viner said. Since the inquiry is concerned primarily with bank loans, it will disclose little information regarding stultified business enterprise which did not reach the stage of seeking credit.

"It may be that the survey will disclose the need for a new type of credit facilities," said Dr. Viner. "Many businesses have lost a substantial part of their operating capital. They cannot use short term loans, but need money long enough to enable them to build up operating capital from profits. It may be possible, however, to meet such needs through the existing credit structure."

Bonds Are Long Past Due, No Holder Asks Payment

Attica, Ind., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Fountain county has creditors who do not appear to be suffering from the depression. Road bonds long past due, aggregating about $9,000, have never been presented for payment, although the money to pay them lies in the county treasury. The county has no record of the owners.

Wholesale Price Rise Has Largely Been Confined to Farm Products and Food



French Link Dollar, Pound; Expect Crash

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Sept. 3.—The French now seem definitly agreed about the chief factors motivating the pound's fall and the dollar's weak tendency. It is believed that there is a heavy drive against sterling manipulated by a skilful group of continental speculators, who have used the seasonal weakness in sterling as a lever. As for the dollar, the French seem fully convinced that President Roosevelt will either deliberately depreciate it further, once the treasury financing is completed, or else be forced into inflation by the huge government relief expenditures and political pressure centering on the coming elections. In fact, most authorities here ascribe some of the pound's weakness to pessimism about the future of the dollar.

Sinks Pound and Dollar.

"The future of sterling remains largely conditioned by that of the dollar," writes L'Information tonight, "and the dollar's future remains singularly confused." Like most other newspapers here, L'Information believes the treasury advanced the date of its financing to Sept. 10 to "have its hands free sooner than anybody expected."

"Monetary disorder is increasing," the Journal Des Debats says, "and we are unquestionably going toward difficult days. They will be particularly difficult for America, which is entering a decisive period when new depreciation of the dollar and currency inflation will become pressing and will seem the sole remedy for the difficulties that are piling up. It is only the date when it will happen that remains doubtful."

Another View Given.

The Agence Economique et Financiere shares this view, but holds that President Roosevelt will not be guided by anything but internal considerations and no matter how far the pound falls it will not in itself impel him to depreciate the dollar further. Speaking of the pound, the Agence Economique expresses the opinion that the British treasury was caught unawares by the strength of the bear attack and has been forced to sit back and wait for the drive to spend itself.

"This new monetary agitation," concludes the Agence Economique, "perhaps brings us nearer to general stabilization. Thus from excess of evil, good would be born."

GERMANY WILLING TO SERVICE DEBTS BUT WANTS CREDIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 3.—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Germany's economic dictator and president of the Reichsbank, is willing to promise to service Germany's debts abroad as provided in the standstill agreement and similar pacts, banking circles learned today. In exchange Dr. Schacht wants the bankers to help Germany get short term credits for her raw materials from countries which Germany believes are eager to sell.

It is expected that Washington and London will instruct their embassies in Berlin to take up negotiations with Dr Schacht within a few days, to establish clearly what is meant by his recent threat of "several years' moratorium."

Chancellor Adolf Hitler's deputy leader of the Nazi party, Rudol Hess, said today: "To pay debts one must export. The world has voluntarily restricted the exchange of goods and thus deprived us of the possibility of paying our debts."

Better Distribution Favored to Solve Farmers' Problem

The answer to the agricultural problem rests on a revamping of the distribution system, Col. George Seaman, head of the now liquidated Corn Belt Joint Stock Land bank, said yesterday. Surpluses and overproduction are largely mythical, he asserted, although he did not mention by name the Agricultural Adjustment administration and its policies predicated on the existence of these conditions.

"Farming is a manufacturing business and should control its own distribution the same as industry does," declared Col. Seaman, who engaged in farming for years before he entered the farm loan business. "It is operating under an archaic, antediluvian, broken down distribution system. A complex marketing organization has grown up under which the farmer has absolutely nothing to say about the price he shall receive for his articles."

Col. Seaman advocated contractual marketing, embracing all produce through the state. A 30 per cent representation would be enough to assure effectiveness, he estimated, but said that separate "coops" as known now probably would not serve the purpose. An exception and also an example of what might be done in a broader organization was cited in the Illinois Soy Bean Marketing Growers' association.

Taking the case of bread, Col. Seaman said that the price of wheat to the farmer is only a minute consideration in the cost of a loaf of bread. Whether the price is 50 cents or $1 a bushel to the wheat grower makes little difference in the bread price. He pointed to the long distribution chain of a dozen links and said that the grower is the only one who has nothing to say as to what he shall receive.

The present effect of current federal legislation, he said, has been to drive practically everybody but the government out of the farm investment field.

MEXICO REPORTED PREPARING TO PAY $300,000,000 BONDS

MEXICO, D. F., Sept. 3.—(AP)—A plan to arrange payment of Mexico's foreign debt through direct negotiations with holders of about $300,000,000 in bonds was reported to be under consideration by the government today.

In his annual report to congress Saturday President Rodriguez said a proposal for payment will be presented shortly, but he made no hint of the precise method.

The president said, however, that the government will have no more dealings with a committee of international bankers on the debt. It was intimated in some quarters that bondholders will be asked to name a representative for direct negotiations with the government. It was believed that first payments under a new arrangement will be made by Jan. 1, 1935.

Dollar Sags Slightly in London Trade

LONDON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Trading was quiet in the foreign exchange market today and the United States dollar eased slightly on continental offerings. The pound closed at $5.00⅝ as compared to Saturday's closing quotation of $4.98⅞.

The price of bar gold hit a new high record, reaching 141 shillings 7 pence [$35.31], which is 2 pence above Saturday's figure, representing a premium of 27 pence over the dollar and 6 pence over the franc.

Bar silver firm was ⅛ pence higher at 21 13-16.

Unchanged at Paris.

PARIS, Sept. 3.—(AP)—The American dollar closed on the foreign exchange market today at 14.94 francs [6.687 cents to the franc], unchanged from Friday's official close. Trading was moderate.

TRADE CHEERED BY STRENGTH IN HOG PRICES

Advance One of Longest in Recent History.

Mildness of the setback in hog prices the last three trading days as well as the thirty-six-day period without break has assured the trade that the market has finally attained a stronger technical position despite the burden of the processing tax which has been a drag on the pork industry since last November.

Some reaction, members of the trade declare, was to be expected, and the setback after the long rise was exceedingly small in proportion to the upturn. The advance that preceded the pre-holiday reaction was one of the longest, if not the longest, in market history.

In May and June of 1932 top hogs were carried from a low or $3.50 to a high of $5.55 in 30 days. The 1934 rise, on an entirely different level, lifted top hog values from a low of $6.95 in July to a high of $10.50 last week, including the $2.25 processing tax.

High Since October, 1930.

This is the highest price packers have had to pay for hogs since October, 1930. Farmers' returns from top grades in this time were advanced from $4.70 to $8.05, the hogs at these figures being comparable to those that paid the farmer only $3.60 at the low three months ago and $4.50 a year ago.

The rise has had a noticeable effect on the movement of supplies. Liquidation has stopped completely, and where pigs and hogs were being sacrificed a few weeks ago because of the unfavorable ratio between the corn and hog prices, they are being bought for feeding now.

The recent announcement that the AAA has permitted farmers signed up on the crop reduction program to buy pigs because of the danger of a meat shortage late, on as a result of the drouth, released pressure on the feeder pig trade and held a lot of young pigs back on the farms that otherwise would have been sold.

Believe AAA Killing Overdone.

Some in the trade are inclined to regard the drop in hog supplies with concern, and believe that the pig killing by the AAA last summer and fall was overdone, particularly since this program was followed this year by a selling wave of drouth stock.

From Aug. 23 to Oct. 6 last year the government killed off 6,200,000 pigs and p'gsy sows to reduce the potential supply and raise pork prices for the consumer and hog prices for the farmer. Packers' live costs of hogs as a result of the scarcity and the heavy processing tax averaged 159 per cent higher than a year ago during the last week.

Attacks Theory Business Greed Caused Depression

New York, Sept. 3.—(AP)—In a study of the effects of industrial profits and their distribution on purchasing power and general welfare, the National City bank's review for September seeks to refute the theory that "the crisis was caused by the greed of business."

This theory, the bank review asserts, supposes that wages, prices, and profits and the relations between them are arbitrarily determined by employers.

"They are governed," the bank says, "by changing conditions with which employers contend as best they can, but do not control. Wages, prices, and profits were all under the influence of abnormal conditions during the war and years following, with the relations between them to a great extent incalculable.

Rise of Wages Factor.

"The great rise of wages inevitably induced much investment for the purpose of lowering costs, which intensified competition, and was the chief factor in the movement complained of.

"It is said that the industries in their prosperity failed to distribute purchasing power freely enough to enable the products to be bought and consumed, and that excessive profits, invested for the enlargement of production, increased the glut.

"No fallacy is more persistent in economic discussion than the assumption that disbursements of profit, either for investment or otherwise, do not distribute purchasing power; for, whatever follies individual investors or spenders may commit, purchasing power cannot be used without making employment."

The review cites statistics to show that aggregate net incomes of all corporations from 1923 to 1929 increased from $5,720,000,000 to $7,950,000,000, after payment of taxes, while gross income was rising from $118,564,000,000 to $160,623,000,000. The bank calls this "not extraordinary when judged by the ratio of net income to the volume of business." This ratio was 4.53 per cent in 1923 and 4.70 per cent in 1929.

Denies Monopolistic Control.

The average ratio for 14 years ending with 1932 was 2.42 per cent. The review states these figures refute "the theory that private ownership of capital affords a monopolistic control over the industrial product, also the theory that increasing profits brought on the depression."

"Criticism," says the bank, "is based mainly upon the present state of disorder, which has no mystery about it to anybody who understands the principles upon which the system is based and the far-reaching derangements in it occasioned by the war."

DEPOSITORS ASK QUIZ OF BANK OF U. S. PAYMENTS

Declare Liquidation Is Lawyers' Feast.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 3.—Strange tales of how the liquidation of the defunct Bank of the United States was turned into an attorney's field day, with fat awards of cash and bonds poured into lawyers' pockets for services of doubtful value to the bank's creditors, were told today by S. Kesselman, secretary of the united depositors' committee.

Morris A. Greenbaum, accountant for the committee, tomorrow will ask of Supreme Court Justice Louis A. Valente more time in which to probe into the curious details of the intermediate accounting submitted by the state banking department.

Judge George Wolvany, former Tammany chieftain, was one of the beneficiaries of the financial funeral of the bank, according to Greenbaum.

"Reasonableness Questioned."

Greenbaum questions the "reasonableness" of a payment of $147,000 in cash and $10,000 in bonds to the law firm of Olvany, Eisnoi & Donnelly for real estate appraisal.

"We especially question it," said Greenbaum, "in view of the fact that Referee Phillip Dunn, who approved it, was at the same time the receiver for the Prudence company, a subsidiary of New York Investors, Inc., represented by the Olvany firm."

Greenbaum pointed out that a referee is entitled to $25 an hour and that Dunn charged $5,000 for approving a bill payable to a company of which he was receiver.

"Does this mean it took him 200 hours to settle this claim?" Greenbaum seeks to learn.

An item of $13,318,655 merely charged in the bank's books as "profit and loss" between Dec. 1, 1932, and June 30, 1934, is worrying Greenbaum, he said.

Big Loans Written Off.

"These charges were the result of various loans running into hundreds of thousands of dollars and written off by the bank," said Greenbaum. "Before they were written off why weren't the facts relating to these loans given to the newspapers to print? If the depositors had known such facts they might have been able to report to the state banking department hidden assets of the debtors."

Greenbaum declared the expenses of liquidation enormous. "The total expense since the bank was closed," he said, "was $7,000,865, and in a year and a half amounted to $2,039,109, of which the lawyers alone got $785,822."

ILLINOIS COAL MINING BOOMS; OUTPUT GAINS

Carbondale, Ill., Sept. 3.—[Special.]—Coal mining in the southern Illinois coal fields is on the boom. In Franklin, Williamson, Perry, Jackson and Saline counties production is showing a marked increase.

The Illinois Central railroad announced today that car loadings of coal ending for the month of August were 7,446 cars, an increase of 1,000 above last August on the St. Louis division.

Within the last 10 days several large mines have started work in Williamson and Franklin counties. United Mine Workers' union members are employed 100 per cent. In central Illinois the Pana Coal company will resume operations tomorrow, employing 350 for the winter.

Firestone Tire and Rubber.

Investors' Guide: Please advise me on Firestone Tire and Rubber stock. Thank you.—C.T.

Answer: Firestone Tire and Rubber company, one of the major automobile tire manufacturers, has given a good account of itself during the last few years. Although the company has for many years supplied a substantial portion of original equipment for Ford and has favorable contracts with General Motors, sale of tires for replacement purposes, the more profitable end of the industry, is its major business.

The company operates more than 400 combination service stations and stores which furnish a good outlet for its products. It has substantial investments in rubber plantations and operates two textile mills. In addition to tires the company manufactures tire rims, storage batteries, brake lining, other automobile accessories and miscellaneous rubber goods.

Higher tire prices, a well stocked inventory acquired at low prices, and a 58 per cent increase in dollar volume of sales enabled the company to report net income of $1,522,000, or 6 cents a common share, against a loss of $1,576,000 for the 6 months to April 30, 1933. On July 19, 1934, it was announced that tire and tube production was 28,000 units a day, against 32,000 units in the middle of May.

1933	$ 75,402,000	$2,397,000	*$0.21
1931	113,797,000	6,029,000	1.26

*Loss.

Current position on Oct. 31, 1933, was strong, with cash more than twice current liabilities. Subsidiary funded debt was $18,963,000, slightly more than one-third of working capital. There are oustanding 466,902 shares of $100 par preferred and 1,970,849 shares of $10 par common. The common has, with the exception of 1922 and 1923, paid dividends regularly since 1910. The current rate is 10 cents a quarter.

Socony-Vacuum Oil.

Investors' Guide: Please advise me when the next Socony dividend will be paid. I believe there is one payable in September. Am particularly anxious to have the date of "stock of record" —H. J. E.

Answer: The next dividend on stock of Socony-Vacuum Oil Company, Inc., is one of 15 cents a share, payable Sept. 15, 1934, to stock of record Aug. 24

PERSONAL LOAN BANK MOVES TO QUARTERS AT 81 WEST MONROE

Personal Loan and Savings bank, formerly at Madison and Clark streets, will open for business today at 81 West Monroe street in quarters once occupied by the Chicago Trust company and the original home of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

Money, securities, collaterals, and current accounts of approximately 80,000 customers, together with credit files on a half million persons to whom 110 millions have been loaned, were moved to the new location over the Labor day holiday.

Personal Loan was formed in 1917 as a state bank, an outgrowth of the interest taken by Julius Rosenwald and the Industrial club of Chicago to provide credit facilities for the small borrower.

FARMERS REPAY 2½ MILLIONS ON LAND BANK LOANS

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 3.—(AP)—The federal land bank disclosed today farmers during the first seven months of 1934 had repaid almost two and one-half million dollars on loans advanced in 1933 or prior years. Repayments included many made on delinquencies and a substantial portion on advances made by the bank to farmers desiring to keep up insurance and tax payments in order to avoid penalties.

During the seven month period $2,423,000 was paid by agrarians in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan, and North Dakota, the territory served by the bank. It was also made known that from January to July, inclusive, the bank had loaned $158,152,000. Volume of loans to farmers is much greater in 1934 than during previous years.

Bank officials considered the increase of repayments by debtors an indication that the farmers have an increased desire and ability to liquidate their debts.

2½ MILE RAILROAD QUITS OPERATION; SOLD FOR JUNK

Freeport, Ill., Sept. 3.—The Hanover railroad, one of the shortest in the United States, soon will be a thing of the past. The line, two and one-half miles in length, connecting Hanover with North Hanover, Ill., was operated for many years until finally forced out by the motor trucking business.

Its rails, wires, rolling stock and other equipment have been sold to a junking concern, which will start on the task of wrecking the road soon.

REPORT SAVINGS OF $9,450,000 IN UTILITIES RATES

Illinois Commission Cites 19 Months' Work.

Reductions in rates for all classes of utility service that have saved consumers in this state a total of $9,450,000 during the last 19 months are shown in a report of the Illinois commerce commission, which its chairman, Benjamin F. Lindheimer, will take to Springfield today for presentation to Gov. Henry Horner.

Consumers of electricity, the report states, have been saved a total of $6,528,000, the largest saving for any single utility service. Reductions made in other utility rates and the consequent savings are as follows: Gas, $2,262,000; telephone, $623,000; heat, $31,000; and water, $7,000.

Orders of the commission for reduced rates are directly responsible, the report shows, for $6,604,000 of the total savings to consumers.

More Inquiries Under Way.

Reductions made voluntarily by companies saved $336,000; and a saving of $2,510,000 represents the transfer from the consumers to the utility companies of the 3 per cent federal tax on electric energy.

Investigations are under way now or are to be started soon, Mr. Lindheimer asserted, that will result in the saving of additional millions of dollars to Illinois consumers. Some of the more important cases involve the Illinois Bell Telephone company, North Shore Gas company, Illinois Water Service company, Peoria Water Works company, Western United Gas and Electric company, Central Illinois Electric and Gas company, and the Calumet City Public Service company.

To Continue Control.

"It is the commission's plan," the chairman stated, "to carry forward its broad program of obtaining rate reductions as rapidly as possible until the rates charged in every community for utility service of all kinds have been placed on a fair and reasonable basis.

"The commission also will continue to exercise close control over all consolidations, combinations, mergers, security issues, and financial transactions in order to proect the customers and investors in the future."

W. J. CUMMINGS TO OFFICIATE AT BANK EXERCISES

Walter J. Cummings, chairman of the Continental National Bank and Trust company, will award certificates to graduates of the Chicago chapter, American Institute of Banking, tonight. The program is part of the nation-wide commencement exercises which will be participated in by 200 local chapters of the institute.

J. F. O'Connor, controler of the currency, will address the groups over a national radio hookup. He will discuss "Trained Minds." More than 3,000 graduates will receive the certificates, while about a hundred thousand persons are expected to attend the ceremonies.

1934 Best Year for Drug Wholesaler Since 1929

Dun & Bradstreet says that from the standpoint of the wholesaler and manufacturer of drugs, the first six months of 1934 proved to be one of the best periods since 1929. The value of production in that period was in excess of that for the first ten months of 1933.

COIN DEMAND SHOWS DEPRESSION WHIPPED, SAYS MINT DIRECTOR

Cheyenne, Wyo., Sept. 3.—(AP)—Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the United States mint, said today demand by private business for silver coins, greater during the last year than in the ten preceding years combined, shows America is whipping the depression. The former governor of Wyoming is visiting friends here.

"I have been interested in goin over figures of the mint," Mrs. Ross said, "and it is satisfying to note that in past generations the mint quickly points to a resumption of business activity just as it does now. Accordingly, unless all signs fail, this depression has been beaten.
